SUBJECT SUMMARY

On 03-01-20, (b)(7)(E) discovered comedian/actor John Mulaney (b)(6);(b)(7)(C) made inappropriate statements directed at President Donald Trump on the live 02-29-20, telecast of the show "Saturday Night Live (SNL)". Mulaney stated, "Another thing that happened under Julius Caesar he was such a powerful maniac that all the senators grabbed knives, and stabbed him to death. That would be a interesting thing if we brought it back now." He went on to say, "I asked my lawyer if I could make that joke, he said, 'let me call another lawyer,' and that lawyer said yes. I don't dwell on politics, but I dislike the Founding Fathers immensely. I hate when people are like, 'God has never created such a great group of men than the Founding Fathers.' Yeah, the '92 Bulls. That's a perfect metaphor for the United States. When I was a boy, the United States were like Michael Jordan in 1992. Now the United States is like Michael Jordan now." USSS did not interview Mulaney.

No further USSS investigation conducted.

UPDATE

On 12/02/20, media outlets reported on recent comments made by Mulaney during an appearance on a late night talk show regarding the previous investigation.

John Mulaney says he was investigated by the Secret Service over joke 'that was not about Donald Trump'

The comedian was determined to not be a threat to anyone John Mulaney says he was investigated by the Secret Service after making a joke that many believed was a threat against President Donald Trump.

The stand-up comedian hosted "Saturday Night Live" twice in 2020. On Tuesday's episode of "Jimmy Kimmel Live," Mulaney, who previously wrote for the popular NBC sketch series, revealed that he was investigated by the U.S. Secret Service over a joke he made during his first hosting gig of the year.

"In February, I did a joke that was not about Donald Trump," the comedian explained. "The joke was about how it was a leap year and the leap year was started by Julius Cesar to correct the calendar, and another thing that happened with Cesar was that he was stabbed to death by a bunch of senators because he went crazy. And I said that's an interesting thing that can happen."

Although he didn't mention the president by name, it didn't take long for people to connect the dots and understand what the comedian was hinting at. He told the host that he soon got a call from the Secret Service informing him that they were looking into him as a result of the joke.

"What also happened was, there's a service that operates for the president and it's a secret. They're a secret service and they... they investigated me and I guess they opened a file on me because of the joke," he explained. "Am I stoked that there's a file open on me? Absolutely. Did I enjoy it at the moment? Not so much."

The star says that the agents he spoke with were pretty understanding that he was not a genuine threat to anyone.

FORMER 'SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE' WRITER JOHN MULANEY SAYS CHILD STARS WERE 'BETTER THAN ANY ADULT AT 'SNL'

"They were very nice in the interview," he told the host. "In terms of risk assessment, no one that's ever looked at me thought I registered above a one."

He was, however, asked if there's anything else they should know about such as postings about Trump online they would find, "rants or manifestos" specifically.

"I said no, I have bad writing habits," he said. "I could never pound out a manifesto."

Although Mulaney was allegedly cleared by the Secret Service, he fears he didn't help his case any by neglecting to disclose that he and his wife rented an apartment in the D.C. area around the same time since she was working on a project for the Smithsonian there.

"After telling the Secret Service that they had nothing to worry about, that I had leased an apartment for one year in Washington D.C.," he joked. "And that apartment was across the street from the Secret Service building. So, it had a planned vibe to it."

Initial Incident Description and Synopsis:

On March 01, 2020, (b)(7)(E) PID/OSU discovered that a monologue performed by Comedian John Mulaney on a Saturday Night Live was gaining considerable social media attention. NBC broadcast the episode on February 29, 2020, and the relevant portion from Mulaney's monologue is as follows: “Another thing that happened under Julius Caesar, he was such a powerful maniac that all the senators grabbed knives, and they stabbed him to death. That would be an interesting thing if we brought it back now.”

Additionally, Mulaney went on to say, “I asked my lawyer if I could make that joke, he said, let me call another lawyer, and that lawyer said yes. I don’t dwell on politics, but I dislike the Founding Fathers immensely. I hate when people are like, God has never created such a great group of men than the Founding Fathers. Yeah, the ’92 Bulls. That’s a perfect metaphor for the United States. When I was a boy, the United States was like Michael Jordan in 1992. Now the United States it like Michael Jordan now.”

USSS/PID/PIOC notified NYC-PI of this incident on March 01, 2020.

Investigation and Subject Interviews:

On March 02, 2020, (b)(6); (b)(7)(C) contacted Thomas McCarthy, Global Chief Security Officer & Senior Vice President, NBC Universal, at (b)(6); (b)(7)(C) to express the agency’s desire to discuss the aforementioned incident with attorneys for Mulaney.

Another thing that happened under Julius Caesar, he was such a powerful maniac that all the senators grabbed knives, and they stabbed him to death. That would be an interesting thing if we brought that back now.

He added, "I asked my lawyer if I could make that joke, he said, let me call another lawyer, and that lawyer said yes. I don't want to dwell on politics, but I dislike the Founding Fathers immensely. I hate when people are like, God has never created such a great group of men than the Founding Fathers. Yeah, the '92 Bulls. That's a perfect metaphor for the United States. When I was a boy, the United States was like Michael Jordan in 1992. Now the United States is like Michael Jordan now."
