Call from Dr. Parisi

Actually Marc, I believe that you owe me an explanation. Dr. Parisi explained to me that you were the person that advised him on what he should bill Roca Labs. Apparently it was you who told him to charge us the inflated price of $3,000. I told him that we would be challenging his intentionally inflated price in court (not that it was illegal, but that it would not be upheld).

You have made numerous false statements to me about Dr. Parisi. In a previous email you stated "Again, I don't know how many times I can repeat this, but the fees are his -- not mine." While the fees may be his, you clearly coached him on his rates.

In addition you wrote "He clearly bills a different rate for preparation of reports than for in person testimony. When we call him at trial, he's going to be charging us the same thing -- $3,000 per half day. I'm not pleased about it either. But, his justification was that he could do reports at home, at night, when he does not have to shut down his clinic to be present. On the other hand, depositions and trial testimony requires his presence, and thus shutting down his practice.

So, he is not charging you a different rate than he charges us. He is charging a different rate for testimony vs. report writing." This was apparently a fabrication as you informed him what to bill Roca. We will clearly question him on your representation about his pricing. He informed me that YOU told him what to bill Roca and to bill Roca a different amount. He has never been a witness so how does he have a different rate for testimony as opposed research? Moreover he is not shutting down his practice as he closes his office every Friday at noon.

In the same email you also wrote "You are free to call him and to negotiate a different rate with him than he has charged me. If you can convince him to take less, then go right ahead. In fact, I encourage you to do so. If you get him to charge less, I'll call him and demand the same discount." This was a knowingly false statement as you worked with him to establish his fees.

Please immediately send me all copies of all communications between you, your firm, Defendants or anyone representing Defendants and Dr. Parisi.

I am preparing a motion to challenge his fee rate in Court on Tuesday. We will pay him the rate that he is entitled to based upon his qualifications. He is not shutting down his practice and this is additional income for him. The average salary for a vein surgeon in Las Vegas is $350,000, which equates to approx. $175 per hour. This is a more than fair rate for his work.

Paul
