Books

Family and Favela: The Reproduction of Poverty in Rio de Janeiro. Westport, CT: Greenwood Press, 1997. Contributions in Latin American Studies, 10. 199 pp. Tables. Maps. Notes. Bibliography. Index.

Reviews of Family and Favela:

Journal of Urban History, Volume 33, issue 3, "New Perspectives on Public Housing Histories in the Americas", (March 2007), p. 373. By Sean Purdy and Nancy H. Kwak. "The first comprehensive history of Rio de Janeiro Favelas."

The Journal of Family History 24, No. 4(October 1999): 537-539.
By Sonya Lipsett-Rivera.

Excerpts: "...a groundbreaking book...should be read by those interested in the intersection of family and urban history and should provide an important source for those historians who work on political movements in ...Latin America. This is a very solidly researched and clearly written book that deserves recognition."

American Historical Review 104, No. 3 (June 1999): 965-966. By Elizabeth Kuznesof.

Excerpts: "...makes an important contribution in the area of family and modernization history...required reading for urban and family historians...an attractive text for undergraduate and graduate teaching."

Journal of Third World Studies 16, No. 2 (Fall 1999): 223-224. By Michael R. Hall.

Excerpts: "This important study attempts to deconstruct the myths built up around favelas...a valuable contribution to the literature on urban Brazil."

Hispanic American Historical Review 79, No.1 (February 1999): 174-176.

By Maxine L. Margolis.

Excerpts: "...Julio César Pino has produced a concise study that demonstrates how the explosive growth of favelas, the famed shantytowns of Rio de Janeiro, was nearly inevitable--'the nightmare side of Brazilian economic growth in the twentieth century'... a fine study with abundant documentation..."

Choice (February 1998): 1071-1072. By Robert Levine.

Excerpts: "...{an} engagingly written book on Brazil's urban underclass... {with} insights rarely found in studies of urban poverty in Latin America...Pino's book is based on extensive archival research, offers useful statistical analysis, and always retains its personal touch.

South Eastern Latin Americanist 42, Issues 2 and 3 (Fall 1998-Winter 1999): 54-56. By Hilda López Laval.

Excerpts: "...a fascinating study of family life in the favelas of Rio de Janeiro from the 1930s to the 1960s...Anyone interested in the reproduction of the working class in Brazil after 1930, the development of Rio de Janeiro, or the structure of the contemporary Brazilian family should consider this book."

Journal of Women's History XI, Issue 1 (Spring 1999): 230-231. By Anna Travis. "Pino addresses the place of the family in Brazil's underdeveloped state during the twentieth century, combining methodological approaches from family, urban, economic and labor history."

Scholars using urban history research material by Julio César Pino

Professors Henry Louis Gates and Kwame W. Appiah, DuBois Center, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., commissioned the article "Favelas" for Africana: The Encyclopedia of the African and African American Experience (1999) and the Encarta Africana, Microsoft Corporation CD-ROM (1999).

Professor George Reid Andrews, University of Pittsburgh, incorporated my findings on the Afro-Brazilian shantytown population into monograph on the history of the Black Diaspora in Latin America, Afro-Latin America, 1800-2000 (Oxford, Oxford University Press, 2004).

Professor Donna M. Goldstein, University of Colorado-Boulder, utilized my source material on the slums of Rio de Janeiro for her book Laughter out of Place: Race, Class, Violence and Sexuality in a Rio Shantytown (Berkeley: University of California Press, 2003).

Professor Duna Gondim Uribe. Course: "Life in the Favelas"
History 219D/Latin American Studies 234. University of Maryland. Spring 2002.
See www.wam.umd.edu/~duna/HIST219D.html

Professor Hendrick Kraay, Department of History, University of Calgary, Canada, Fall 1998, used "Labor in the Favelas of Rio de Janeiro, 1940-1969", Latin American Perspectives, for his class "Latin American Urban History", and Family and Favela For "History of Brazil." See www.ucalgary.ca/HISTORY/F99/4871011

Professor Robert Hettlage, Department of Sociology, Universität Regensburg, Germany, used "Labor in the Favelas of Rio de Janeiro, 1940-1969", Latin American Perspectives, for a class in Spring 1999. Course title unknown.

Professor H. Sontag, Yale University, used Family and Favela in Sociology Course 518b. See www.library.yale.edu/Course/reserv/public/html/1565.htm

Professor Stephanie Wood, Department of History, University of Oregon, listed "Sources on the History of Favelas in Rio de Janeiro", Latin American Research Review, in the syllabus for her class "Women in Latin America", Winter 1998.

Professor Gilbert Stelter, Department of History, University of Guelph, Guelph, Canada, listed "Dark Mirror of Modernization: The Favelas of Rio de Janeiro in the Boom Years", The Journal of Urban History, as part of the bibliography on Latin American urbanization for his course "Reading a Community", Fall 1996.

Professor Ken Serbin utilized "Family and Favela: The Reproduction of Poverty in Rio de Janeiro", (UCLA dissertation 1991) in his article "Church-state Reciprocity in Contemporary Brazil: The Convening of the International Eucharistic Congress of 1955 in Rio de Janeiro", Hispanic American Historical Review 76 (4) November 1996: 721-751.

Prof. Jen Roth Gordon
Department of Cultural and Social Anthropology
Stanford University

Writes (2000): "I have just come across your book Family and Favela. I am a linguistic anthropologist writing my dissertation on race and language in Rio. I conducted fieldwork in Rio from 1997-8 (and continue to go down periodically), and I did a good amount of my work in {the favelas}. I was thrilled to find the history of Praia do Pinto, as I have only brief comments on the history as told by current residents."
