The first page of the document contains a headline and a story about US President Donald Trump making a major announcement regarding the US-Canada border trade, specifically about the potential for trade wars and implications for the global economy. The article discusses the economic impacts of such announcements and the potential for conflict with US allies. It also mentions Trump's campaign promises and how they align with his actions as President.