The Department of Communication engages in research in communication and offers curricula leading to the A.B., A.M., and Ph.D. degrees. The A.M. degree prepares students for research on mass media or for careers in journalism or documentary film and video. The Ph.D. degree leads to careers in teaching and research or other related specialties.

The Institute for Communication Research offers research experience primarily to advanced Ph.D. students.

The John S. Knight Fellowship Program brings promising mid-career professional journalists to the University to study for nine months in a nondegree program. Twelve U.S. journalists are joined by six International Fellows sponsored by Reuter Foundation, the Knight Foundation, and others.

ADMISSION

Prospective Undergraduate Students — Write to the University's Office of Undergraduate Admissions, Stanford University, Stanford, California 94305.

Prospective Graduate Students — Write to Graduate Admissions, the Registrar's Office, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305-3005.

The department requires that applicants for graduate admission submit verbal and quantitative scores from the Graduate Record Examination (GRE).

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAM BACHELOR OF ARTS

The undergraduate curriculum is intended for liberal arts students who wish to build a fundamental knowledge of communication in society. Majors take courses from three different communication orientations within the Department of Communication, plus a selection of elective courses. In addition, undergraduates take one class in statistics. The two-course Area I requirement considers the roles and interaction of institutions such as broadcasting, film, journalism, constitutional law, and business within communication and mass communication contexts. The two-course Area II requirements provide an experiential approach in which students take practicum courses such as news writing and reporting, broadcasting, and film and video. Area III is a three-course requirement in which the emphasis is on the ways communication scholars conduct research in, and consider the issues of, human communication.

Both theory and practicum courses are included in media and society, print and broadcast journalism, visual communication (film/video), and communication research. Through electives, including an optional senior project or honors thesis, a student may build greater depth in any of these areas.

To be recommended for the A.B. degree in Communication, students must complete at least 50 units (preferably not more than 60 units) within the department, plus statistics, which can be taken for +/No Credit (+/NC). No more than 12 units of transfer credit or Summer Session credit may be applied to meet department requirements.

Communication majors must register for a letter grade for all communication courses unless offered only for Satisfactory/No Credit (S/NC).

CURRICULUM

1. Students should declare the major during either the sophomore or junior year. To declare, a student should have completed or be enrolled in the following courses:
 - a) Communication 1, Mass Communication and Society
 - b) Psychology 60, Statistics 60, or Statistics 70
2. Majors must take courses in the following three areas as specified below:
 - a) Area I — minimum of two courses from: 101, 110, 122A, 125, 131, 139, 140, 141, 142, 176, 178
 - b) Area II — minimum of two courses from: 104, 114, 136, 150, 175, 177, 180

- c) Area III — minimum of three courses from: 106, 108, 157, 160, 169, 170, 172, 173

Some courses are not given every year. Refer to course listings and Time Schedules each quarter, noting individual course prerequisites in this bulletin.

HONORS PROGRAM

The honors program provides the opportunity to undertake a significant program of research. It represents the department's commitment to and recognition of the value of research and of the individual professor/student mentoring relationship in undergraduate education. Working in a one-on-one mentor relationship with a faculty adviser, seniors may earn up to 15 communication units culminating in an honors thesis. Interested majors should apply to the program late in their junior year.

The designation, "graduation with honors," is awarded by the Department of Communication to those graduating seniors who, in addition to having completed all requirements for the Communication major:

1. Complete an honors thesis;
2. Maintain a distinguished grade average in all communication course work;
3. Are recommended for distinction by the Communication faculty.

COTERMINAL PROGRAM

The Department of Communication offers a coterminal program with an A.M. emphasis in Media Studies; see Lola Romero, Student Services Administrator, for more information.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS MASTER OF ARTS

The department awards terminal A.M. degrees in three fields: Media Studies, Journalism, and Documentary Film and Video Production. Students interested in doctoral work are evaluated for admission on different criteria. Students who complete the A.M. degree and who desire entry into the Ph.D. program must file a new application for admission and are considered together with all other doctoral applicants. A student may complete more than one A.M. degree in the department, but course work applied to the requirements for one A.M. degree may not be applied to a second. All work to fulfill graduate degree requirements must be in courses numbered 100 or above.

MEDIA STUDIES

The Media Studies master's program (formerly called Applied Communication Research) provides a broad introduction to scholarly literature in mass communication. This one-year program is designed primarily for students without prior academic work in communication, experienced media professionals who wish academic preparation for teaching, or coterminal students at Stanford.

Media Studies students must complete 42 units in Communication and related areas in the social sciences and humanities, maintaining high academic standing throughout. In consultation with professors, students must also complete extensive projects in two of the courses listed below. Communication 206 and 208 are required of all students; a minimum of seven additional courses must be taken in the department from:

- 201. Film Aesthetics
- 206. Communication Research Methods
- 210. Communication Law
- 216. Media Law
- 225. Perspectives on American Journalism
- 231. Media Ethics and Responsibility
- 233. Communication and Culture
- 239. Literature of the Press
- 240. History of American Journalism
- 241. History of Film
- 243. Seminar in Communication Institutions
- 257. Public Information Programs
- 260. Political Communication
- 269. Communication, Technology, and Society
- 270. Communication and Children
- 272. Psychological Processing of Media
- 273. Communication and Health
- 276. International Communication
- 278. Media Management

Additional courses are selected in consultation with an academic adviser.

JOURNALISM

The graduate program in Journalism is a one-year professional program designed for students with an interest in the news-editorial areas of journalism. Students without significant journalism experience or an undergraduate degree in journalism are encouraged to apply. However, basic course work in reporting and editing must be completed before the beginning of the academic year (Autumn Quarter). This is not a requirement for admission but it is a prerequisite for enrollment.

The master's degree requires a minimum of 47 units, including 4 units dedicated to a master's project. All courses must be selected in consultation with (and approved in writing by) an academic adviser. Amendments to, or deviations from, the approved Program Proposal must be approved in writing by an adviser. To remain in good standing, students must maintain an average letter grade indicator (LGI) of 'B.' Students who do not remain in good standing may not be able to complete the program. The students share a core of six courses as follows:

- 216. Media Law
- 225. Perspectives on American Journalism
- 240. History of American Journalism
- 275. Reporting of Public Affairs
- 290. A.M. Project
- 291. Graduate Journalism Seminar

Students are required to take a minimum of four additional courses, two in specialized writing and two in communication.

The two specialized writing courses must be chosen from the following:

- 236. Broadcast Journalism
- 250. Magazine Writing
- 277B. Science Writing
- 277F. Feature and Analytical Writing
- 277G. Social Issues Reporting
- 280. Film Criticism

The two communication courses must be chosen from the following:

- 201. Film Aesthetics
- 206. Communication Research Methods
- 208. Mass Communication Theory
- 222A. Documentary Film
- 231. Media Ethics and Responsibility
- 241. History of Film
- 242. Broadcasting in America
- 257. Public Information Programs
- 260. Political Communication
- 269. Communication, Technology, and Society
- 270. Communication and Children
- 272. Psychological Processing of Media
- 273. Communication and Health
- 276. International Communication

Two additional courses from within or outside the department are selected in consultation with an academic adviser. In addition to course work, the journalism program requires satisfactory completion of a master's project.

DOCUMENTARY FILM AND VIDEO

The Documentary Film and Video A.M. program is designed to train filmmakers in the production of nonfiction films. The curriculum requires 5.5 academic quarters of residency: full-time registration is required in the first year. Students may choose one quarter in the second year in which to register half-time. Half-time registration usually occurs in the Winter Quarter, when students are typically shooting their A.M. projects. During the first year of study, students are required to complete:

- 202A,B,C. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television (three quarters)
- 222A. Documentary Film
- 223A,B,C. Documentary Film/Video Directing (three quarters)
- 224A,B,C. Documentary Film/Video Production (three quarters)

During their second year of residence, students are required to complete 292A,B,C, Documentary Film and Video A.M. Project Seminar (three quarters). A minimum of two electives are to be taken from each of the following lists. The fifth elective can be from either group. Students may petition to take a fifth elective not included here with the approval of her/his adviser. The course should be relevant to the subject matter of the A.M. project. The following is based on current information.

1. Departmental Electives

- 115. Ethnographic Film
- 138. Film Images of African-American Culture
- 201. Film Aesthetics
- 206. Communication Research Methods
- 208. Mass Communication Theory
- 210. Communication and Law
- 216. Media Law
- 220. Mass Media and Society
- 225. Perspectives on American Journalism
- 231. Media Ethics and Responsibility
- 240. History of American Journalism
- 241. History of Film
- 242. Broadcasting in America
- 243. Seminar in Communication Institutions
- 257. Public Information Programs
- 260. Political Communication
- 269. Communication, Technology, and Society
- 270. Communication and Children I
- 271. Communication and Children II
- 272. Psychological Processing
- 273. Communication and Health
- 280. Film Criticism

2. Other Electives: the list will be part of your orientation packet.

The department maintains film and video production facilities for teaching and research purposes. However, the costs of supplies and processing services are the responsibility of the students. These costs currently approximate $1,800 for the first year of residence.

In the second year students produce their diploma films. Costs vary depending on subject, medium, length, and logistics, but $5,000 represents the minimum cost.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

The department offers the Ph.D. in Communication Theory and Research. First-year students are required to complete introductory courses in communication theory and research, research methods, and statistics. These core courses are grounded in the social science literature. In addition, Ph.D. students must complete a minimum of four literature survey courses and four advanced seminars in communication and related departments. Each student builds a research specialty relating communication to such areas as campaigns, children, ethics, health, information processing, law, organizations, politics and voting, psychological processing, or technology. Regardless of the area of specialization, the Ph.D. program is designed primarily for students interested in teaching and research careers or policy formation positions.

The Ph.D. program encompasses four years of graduate study (subsequent to completion of the A.B. degree) during which, in addition to fulfilling University residence requirements, Ph.D. candidates are required to:

1. Complete all departmental course requirements with an LGI of at least 'B.'
2. Pass general qualifying examinations by the end of the second quarter of the second academic year of study and pass a specialized area examination by the end of the third academic year of study.
3. Demonstrate proficiency in tools required in the area of specialization. Chosen with the advice of the faculty, such tools may include foreign languages, statistics, computer programming, and so on.
4. Complete a first research project and a pre-dissertation research project.
5. Teach or assist in teaching at least two courses, including Communication 1.
6. Complete a dissertation satisfactory to an advisory committee of three or more faculty members.
7. Pass the University oral examination, which is a defense of the dissertation.

Students are expected to complete departmental examinations and a first project by the end of the second year of study, after which they must apply for admission to candidacy.

Because the multifaceted nature of the department makes it possible for the Ph.D. student to emphasize one of several areas of communication study, there tend to be several "typical" programs of course work followed by students, depending on their area of specialization. The variation in course programs tends to occur after the first year of graduate study, since the first year is devoted primarily to the "core" courses required of all students.

In addition, students must complete other advanced Communication theory courses. Specification of these courses depends on (1) individual student needs to prepare for preliminary and area examination, and (2) the requirements of the particular area of emphasis chosen by the student.

Ph.D. candidacy is valid for five years. Extensions of candidacy require reexamination.

Ph.D. MINOR

Candidates for the Ph.D. degree in other departments who elect a minor in Communication are required to complete a minimum of 20 units of graduate courses in the Department of Communication, including a total of three theory or research methods courses, and are examined by a representative of this department. The balance among communication theory, methods, and applications courses are determined by the candidate and his or her adviser.

THE INSTITUTE FOR COMMUNICATION RESEARCH

This institute operates as an office of project research for the faculties of the Department of Communication on grants from foundations, communication media, and other agencies. Research assistantships are often available to qualified Ph.D. students in communication.

MASS MEDIA INSTITUTE

During Summer Quarter, the Department of Communication conducts a series of eight-week workshop production courses in Film Production, Screenwriting, Broadcast News, and Professional Journalism. These are designed as preprofessional training courses and are open to students with junior or higher standing at Stanford and other colleges and universities. Additional courses in Film Aesthetics and Mass Communication in Society are also offered. Stanford undergraduates may apply a maximum of 12 units to their communication major requirements.

Information about the Mass Media Institute may be obtained by writing to: Director, Mass Media Institute, Department of Communication, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305-2050.

COURSES

PRIMARILY FOR UNDERGRADUATES

1. Mass Communication and Society—Open to non-majors. Introductory survey on concepts and issues bearing on the role and responsibilities of mass media in society, including the organization and structure of mass media, the power and influence of mass media, and the tensions inherent in a system of mass communication committed to private enterprise and public service. Lecture plus one-hour weekly discussion sections. DR:9(5)

5 units, Aut (Kinsey)

101. Film Aesthetics—(Graduate students register for 201.) Theoretical, historical examination of the nature of the film medium. Emphasis is on the problems of aesthetics and communication from the viewpoints of practitioner, critic, and audience.

3-4 units (Breitrose)

alternate years, given 1995-96

101S. Film Aesthetics—(Graduate students register for 201S.) Theoretical, historical examination of the nature of the film medium. Emphasis is on the problems of aesthetics and communication from the viewpoints of practitioner, critic, and audience.

3 units, Sum (Staff)

104. Reporting and Writing the News—Reporting and writing, emphasizing various forms of journalism: news, broadcast, interpretation, features, opinion. Detailed criticism of writing. Prerequisite: typing speed of 35 wpm.

5 units, Aut, Spr (Maharidge)

Win (Staff)

106. Communication Research Methods—(Graduate students register for 206.) Formulation of research problems and design, sampling, data collection, and statistical analysis. Basic research approaches: experiments, surveys, and content and secondary analysis. A variety of studies are critically evaluated. Class designs and conducts a small communication study. Prerequisite: statistics. DR:9(5)

4 units, Aut (Detenber)

108. Mass Communication Theory—(Graduate students register for 208.) Mass communication processes and effects. The relationship between media, individuals, and society. DR:9(5)

The interplay between editorial and business decisions. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

4 units, Spr (Lewenstein)

180. Film Criticism—(Graduate students register for 280.) A practical and critical view of film. Readings/discussion consider models of artistic and literary criticism as points of comparison. Weekly reviews stress the analysis of the films and a lucid writing style. Prerequisite: 101 or 141.

4 units, Spr (Breitrose)

185. Internship Experience—Professional experience in the media. Prerequisite: Communication major.

*1-4 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Lewenstein)
by arrangement*

190. Senior Project—Research project or production of a finished piece of work in journalism or film. A combination of the senior project and an internship is possible. Prerequisite: senior standing.

5 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Staff)

195. Honors Thesis—Check with department for prerequisite and information.

5-15 units, Aut, Win, Spr (Staff)

199. Individual Work—Communication majors with high academic standings are permitted to undertake individual work.

*1-4 units, any quarter (Staff)
by arrangement*

PRIMARILY FOR A.M. STUDENTS

200S. Film Production Workshop—Introduction to film writing and production techniques, covering the basics of cinematography, sound, and editing. Students do one or two short super-8 projects, using this as a sketchbook for 16mm, with each student producing, shooting, and editing a 2-minute, black and white film with mixed sound track.

9 units, Sum (Staff)

201. Film Aesthetics—Graduate section; see 101.

201S. Film Aesthetics—Graduate section; see 101S.

202A,B,C. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television—Topics in film and television focusing mainly on production-related issues. Prerequisite: A.M. student in film or television program.

1 unit, Aut, Win, Spr (Staff)

204S. Reporting and Writing the News—Reporting and writing, emphasizing various forms of journalism: news, interpretation, features. Assignments are completed under realistic time and space constraints. Lectures and labs focus on skills needed to produce polished publishable material.

5 units, Sum (Staff)

206. Communication Research Methods—Graduate section; see 106.

207S. Editing the News—Copy editing, headline writing, news display and photo cropping. Lab includes editing copy, Associated Press style, news circulation, and page make-up.

4 units, Sum (Staff)

208. Mass Communication Theory—Graduate section; see 108.

208G. Advanced Mass Communication Theory—Mass communication processes and effects. The relationship between media, individuals, and society. Prerequisite: Media Studies graduate student.

4 units, Aut (Detenber, Kinsey)

209S. Broadcast News Workshop—News production techniques and a lab emphasizing reporting techniques. Training in producing, directing, writing, and delivering television newscasts.

9 units, Sum (Staff)

210. Communication and Law—Graduate section; see 110.
