Consulting Professor: Jon Else

Visiting Professors: Dale Maharidge, William Woo

Lecturer: Lynn Rampoldi-Hnilo

The Department of Communication engages in research in communication and offers curricula leading to the A.B., A.M., and Ph.D. degrees. The A.M. degree prepares students for research on mass media or for careers in journalism or documentary film and video. The Ph.D. degree leads to careers in teaching and research-related specialties.

The Institute for Communication Research offers research experience primarily to advanced Ph.D. students.

The John S. Knight Fellowship Program brings promising mid-career professional journalists to the University to study for nine months in a nondegree program. Six International Fellows sponsored by Reuters Foundation, the Knight Foundation, and others join twelve U.S. journalists.

ADMISSION

Prospective Undergraduate Students—Write to the University's Office of Undergraduate Admissions, Stanford University, Stanford, California 94305.

Prospective Graduate Students—Write to Graduate Admissions, the Registrar's Office, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305-3005. Online application also readily available via the web <http://www.applyweb.com/aw?stanford>.

The department requires that applicants for graduate admission submit verbal and quantitative scores from the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). Admission to each graduate degree program is competitive based on the pool of applicants each year rather than on standard criteria that can be stated in advance.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

BACHELOR OF ARTS

PREPARATION

Before declaring the major, students must have completed or be concurrently enrolled in Communication 1, 106 or 108; and Statistics 60 or Psychology 10. Students interested in declaring the major should see the Student Services Administrator in Building 120, room 434 during the scheduled office hours.

PROGRAM OF STUDY

The undergraduate curriculum is intended for liberal arts students who wish to develop a fundamental understanding of communication in society, drawing on the perspective of the social sciences. Undergraduate students majoring in communication are expected to become acquainted with the fundamental concerns, theoretical approaches, and methods of the field, and to acquire advanced knowledge in one or more of the subareas of communication institutions, processes, and effects.

While the department does not attempt to provide comprehensive practical training at the undergraduate level, the curriculum provides opportunities for professional practice including courses in print and broadcast journalism, and internships.

The department is committed to providing students with the analytical and critical skills that are necessary for future success, be it in graduate programs, professional schools, or immediate career entry.

The major is structured to provide several levels of study: a core curriculum, intended to expose students to a broad-based understanding of communication theory and research, and a number of intermediate-level options and electives. Majors also have the opportunity to do advanced research in the form of senior projects and honors theses.

All undergraduate majors are required to complete a set of core Communication courses which include 1, Mass Communication and Society (5 units); 104, Writing and Reporting the News (WIM, 5 units), 106, Communication Research Methods (5 units); and 108, Communication Process and Effects (5 units).

Students must also complete an introductory course in statistics (typically Psychology 10 or Statistics 60) in preparation for courses in methodology and advanced courses in communication processes and effects. It is recommended that this be done as soon as possible so as not to prevent registration in a course requiring statistical understanding.

In addition to the core courses and the statistics requirement, undergraduate majors select courses from the areas described below. Many of the courses require core courses as prerequisites.

Area I: Communication Processes and Effects—Area I emphasizes ways in which communication scholars conduct research in, and consider the issues of, human communication. These studies aim to provide expert guidance for social policy makers and media professionals. A minimum of two courses must be taken from Communication 130, 137, 155, 160, 166, 169, 170, 172.

Area II: Communication Systems/Institutions—Area II considers the roles and interaction of institutions such as broadcasting, film, journalism, constitutional law, and business within communication and mass communication contexts. A minimum of two courses must be taken from Communication 116, 122A or B, 125, 131, 133, 141A or B, 142, 178, 183.

To be recommended for the A.B. degree in Communication, the student must complete at least 60 units (approximately twelve courses) in the department. No more than 10 units of transfer credit or Summer Session may be applied to meet department requirements. Communication majors must receive a letter grade for all communication courses unless they are offered only for satisfactory/no credit (S/NC).

MINORS

PREPARATION

Before declaring the minor, students must have completed or be concurrently enrolled in Communication 1, 106 or 108; and Statistics 60 or Psychology 10. Students interested in declaring the minor should launch the registrar's web site (www-leland.stanford.edu/dept/registrar/) to apply for the minor.

The minor is structured to provide a foundation for advanced course work in communication through a broad-based understanding of communication theory and research.

The minor in Communication consists of three introductory Communication core courses which include 1, Mass Communication and Society (5 units); 106, Communication Research Methods (5 units); and 108, Communication Process and Effects (5 units).

In addition to core courses, the minor requires a minimum of five intermediate-level elective courses in the department. The department also requires completion of or concurrent registration in an introductory statistics course (Statistics 60, 70, or Psychology 10) prior to registration in Communication 106, Communication Research Methods. It is strongly recommended that the course in statistics be taken as early as possible, preferably in the Autumn Quarter of the junior year.

Students interested in declaring a minor must do so no later than registration in the Autumn Quarter of the junior year. Core courses are offered only once annually, and they constitute a sequence.

Prerequisite: introductory statistics course (for example, Psychology 10)
Core Courses: Communication 1, 106, 108

Area I, Communication Processes and Effects. A minimum of one course from Communication 130, 137, 155, 160, 166, 169, 170, 172

Area II, Communication Systems and Institutions. A minimum of one courses from Communication 116, 122A,B, 125, 131, 133, 141A,B, 142, 178, 183

Plus three elective courses

Some courses are not given every year. Refer to program handout and the Time Schedule for details.

HONORS PROGRAM

The honors program provides undergraduates the opportunity to undertake a significant program of research in an individual professor/student mentoring relationship. The aim is to guide students through the process of research, analysis, drafting, rethinking, and redrafting, which is essential to excellence in scholarship. Working one-on-one with a faculty adviser, seniors may earn between 5 and 15 Communication units, culminating in an honors thesis. In order to be eligible for the honors program, interested majors must have: (1) successfully completed both a research methods and statistics course, (2) selected an adviser, and (3) submitted an application to the department by the end of their junior year. Applications may be picked up outside of room 110 of Building 120.

A final copy of the honors thesis must be read and approved by the adviser and submitted to the department by the eighth week of Spring Quarter (exact date to be arranged). It becomes part of a permanent record held by the department. Honors work may be used to fulfill Communication elective credit but must be completed and a letter grade submitted prior to graduation. A student failing to fulfill all honors requirements may still receive independent study credit for work completed and it may be applied toward fulfilling major requirements.

The designation "graduation with honors" is awarded by the Department of Communication to those graduating seniors who, in addition to having completed all requirements for the Communication major:

1. Complete an honors thesis
2. Maintain a distinguished grade average in all communication course work
3. Are recommended for distinction by the Communication faculty

COTERMINAL PROGRAM

The Department of Communication offers students who are completing an A.B. in another department a coterminal program with an A.M. emphasis in Media Studies; applications can be picked up at Degree Progress, the Registrar's Office, room 132, Old Union.

Applications for coterminal study must be submitted at least four quarters in advance of the expected master's degree conferral date. Stanford undergraduates may apply as early as the eighth quarter (or upon completion of 105 units), but no later than the eleventh quarter of undergraduate study. Requirements include: Application for Admission to Coterminal Master's Program form, preliminary program proposal, statement of purpose, three letters of recommendation from Stanford professors, and a current Stanford transcript. GRE scores are required; a request must be submitted to Graduate Admissions, Registrar's Office. Coterminal applications are submitted directly to the department. Review procedures and the Graduate Admissions Committee determines criteria.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS

MASTER OF ARTS

University requirements for the master's degree are described in the "Graduate Degrees" section of this bulletin.

The department awards terminal A.M. degrees in two fields: Journalism and Documentary Film, and Video Production and Directing. Applicants for each program, and for doctoral work, are evaluated for admission on different criteria. A student may complete more than one A.M. degree in the department, but course work applied to the requirements for one A.M. degree may not be applied to a second. All work to fulfill graduate degree requirements must be in courses numbered 100 or above.

Students who complete an A.M. degree and who desire entry into the Ph.D. program must file a Graduate Program Authorization Petition application, which can be picked up at Graduate Degree Progress, room 132, Old Union. Such students are considered alongside all other doctoral applicants.

DOCUMENTARY FILM AND VIDEO

The graduate program in documentary film and video is a master's program designed to train students in the conceptual and craft skills for the production of nonfiction film and video.

RESIDENCY

The program requires continuous enrollment for a period of two academic years, with a completion date of June in the second year.

Students proceed through the program as a cohort. The degree requires three full terms of registration in the first year. In the second year, full-time registration is required in Autumn Quarter, with half-time registration the remaining two quarters. Full-time registration consists of a minimum of 11 units; half-time registration consists of 9 units. The residency requirement is calculated on the basis of terms of registration and not on the basis of total number of units earned. The program does not allow for leaves of absence.

CURRICULUM

The curriculum is intended to teach an array of technical and conceptual skills as well as relevant historical and theoretical knowledge.

First-Year Curriculum—

Autumn Quarter

- 202A. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 222A. Documentary Film
- 223A. Documentary Film/Video Directing I
- 224A. Film Production I

Winter Quarter

- 202B. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 223B. Documentary Film/Video Directing II
- 224B. Film Production II
- Elective (3-4 units)

Spring Quarter

- 202C. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 223C. Documentary Film/Video Directing III
- 224C. Film Production III
- Elective (3-5 units)

Second-Year Curriculum—

Autumn Quarter

- 202A. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 222B. Documentary Film
- 292A. Documentary Film/Video A.M. Project Seminar I
- Elective (1-4 units)

Winter Quarter

- 202B. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 292B. Documentary Film/Video A.M. Project Seminar II

Spring Quarter

- 202C. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 292C. Documentary Film/Video A.M. Project Seminar III

ELECTIVES

Up to three electives may be from Department of Communication courses, including the required two-course sequence of documentary history classes taken in the Autumn Quarter of the first and second year. Some elective courses are not offered every year, and there may be time conflicts with core courses. Students should consult the University Time Schedule each quarter for current information.

Each term, courses that are relevant to the curriculum may be offered by other departments at Stanford. At least one elective must be taken outside the department. A list of approved electives, both within and outside the department, is provided each quarter. Other electives relevant to the subject matter of the A.M. project may be substituted, with permission of your adviser.

EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES

The department maintains film and video production facilities for teaching and research purposes. However, the costs of supplies and processing services are the responsibility of the students.

In the first year, students purchase a "course kit" at the beginning of each quarter which includes sufficient materials to complete the assignments. Once students have depleted the supplies in the course kit, subsequent purchases are made at outside vendors. The expense for normal film processing is included in the course kit fee during the Autumn and Winter Quarters, but each student sets up an account directly with a film lab during the Spring Quarter. In the second year, students are responsible for purchasing all materials and setting up their own accounts for necessary services during the production of the A.M. project. Students are given a partial list of vendors, on-line facilities, and motion picture laboratories.

Material costs are approximately $1,800 for the first year of residence. In the second year, costs vary depending on subject, format/length, and logistics, but $5,000 is typically the minimum average cost of an A.M. project.

A.M. PROJECT

In the second year of the program, each student produces an A.M. project which consists of a 15-20 minute film or video documentary. In order for students to have sufficient time to complete their own A.M. projects and gain the experience of assisting others, shooting must begin prior to Thanksgiving break, and shooting days are limited to a total of ten.

Students own their own work, but the department reserves the right to use student projects for non-profit University-related purposes.

In order to graduate, students must deposit with the faculty adviser a Beta SP copy of their film or video project and a revised final budget that reflects the projected and actual cost of their production. In the case of film, the Beta SP copy must be made once the film is printed and in the case of video, the Beta SP copy must be made from the on-line master. Students must contact the department's Student Services Administrator during the quarter in which they expect to graduate in order to determine what needs to be done to file for graduation. Students working in film may not have completed their final printing work prior to the end of the Spring Quarter. It is therefore possible for a student to officially graduate in the Summer Quarter immediately following their enrollment in Communication 292C, although they will not have access to facilities during this period. No extensions or leaves of absences are granted.

All A.M. projects must be completed by the end of the Spring Quarter of the second year. In the case of video, the student must have completed on-line editing, and in the case of film, the student must have completed the final sound mix. The A.M. projects are screened for the public during Commencement weekend.

JOURNALISM

The graduate program in Journalism is designed for students with an interest in the news-editorial area of journalism. Applicants are not required to have previous education or experience in journalism.

The master's degree requires a minimum of 47 units, including 4 units dedicated to a master's project. All courses must be selected in consultation with (and approved in writing by) an academic adviser. An adviser er must approve amendments to or deviations from the approved Program Proposal in writing. To remain in good standing, students must maintain a grade point average (GPA) of 'B.' Students who do not remain in good standing may not be able to complete the program. The students share a core of communication courses as follows:

- 204. Writing and Reporting the News
- 207. Editing the News
- 216. Media Law
- 217. Journalism and the Internet
- 225. Perspectives on American Journalism
- 275. Reporting of Public Affairs
- 290. A.M. Project
- 291. Graduate Journalism Seminar

Students are required to take a minimum of four additional courses, two in specialized writing and two in communication. The two specialized writing courses must be chosen from the following:

- 236. Broadcast Journalism
- 250. Magazine Writing
- 277. (Specialized writing course)
- 277A. Opinion Writing
- 277G. Social Issues Reporting
- 280. Film Criticism

Two communication courses must be chosen from the following:

- 206. Communication Research Methods
- 208. Communication Process and Effects
- 222. Documentary Film
- 231. Media Ethics and Responsibility
- 233. Communication and Culture
- 241. History of Film
- 242. Broadcast in America
- 260. The Press and the Political Process
- 269. Computers and Interfaces
- 270. Communication and Children
- 272. Communication Psychological Processing

Two additional courses from within or outside the department are selected in consultation with an academic adviser. In addition to course work, the journalism program requires satisfactory completion of a master's project.

There will be curriculum changes, effective with the 2000-01 class, in next year's bulletin.

MEDIA STUDIES

The Media Studies master's program provides a broad introduction to scholarly literature in mass communication. This one-year program is designed primarily for students without prior academic work in communication, experienced media professionals who wish academic preparation for teaching, or coterminal students at Stanford.

Media Studies students must complete 42 units in Communication and related areas in the social sciences and humanities, maintaining high academic standing throughout. In consultation with professors, students must also complete extensive projects in two of the required communication courses listed below.

Required core courses:

- 206. Communication Research Methods
- 208. Communication Process and Effects
- Stat. 160. Introduction to Statistical Methods

A minimum of six additional courses must be taken in the department from:

- 211. Mass Communication and Society
- 216. Media Law
- 217. Journalism and the Internet
- 225. Perspectives on American Journalism
- 231. Media Ethics and Responsibility
- 241. History of Film
- 242. Broadcast in America
- 260. The Press and the Political Process
- 269. Computers and Interfaces: Psychological and Social Issues
- 270. Communication and Children I
- 271. Communication and Children II
- 272. Communication Psychological Processing
- 318. Doctoral Research Methods II
- 319. Doctoral Research Methods III

Additional courses are selected in consultation with an academic adviser. A course in statistical methods is strongly recommended.

The Media Studies program is in its last year, and will not be offered 2000-01.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

University requirements for the Ph.D. are described in the "Graduate Degrees" section of this bulletin.

The department offers the Ph.D. in Communication Theory and Research. First-year students are required to complete introductory courses in communication theory and research, research methods, and statistics. These core courses are grounded in the social science literature emphasizing how people respond to communication and media and how media institutions function. In addition, Ph.D. students must complete a minimum of three literature survey courses and three advanced seminars in communication and related departments. Each student builds a research specialty relating communication to current faculty interests in such areas as ethics, ethnic identity, human-computer interactions, information processing, information technology, law, and politics and voting. Regardless of the area of specialization, the Ph.D. program is designed primarily for students interested in teaching and research careers or policy formation positions.

The Ph.D. program encompasses four years of graduate study (subsequent to completion of the A.B. degree) during which, in addition to fulfilling University residency requirements, Ph.D. candidates are required to:

1. Complete all departmental course requirements with above average graduate grades, normally defined as a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 3.5. Currently these courses include Communication 206, 208, 311, 317, 318, 319, and a sequence in statistics (for example Statistics 160) that includes multiple regression and complex analysis of variables.
2. Pass the general qualifying examinations by the end of the second academic year of study and pass a specialized area examination by the end of the third academic year of study.
3. Demonstrate proficiency in tools required in the area of research specialization. Chosen with the advice of the faculty, such tools may include advanced statistical methods, computer programming, a foreign language, or other technical skills.
4. Complete two predissertation research projects.
5. Teach or assist in teaching at least two courses, including Communication 1.
6. Complete a dissertation satisfactory to an advisory committee of three or more faculty members.
7. Pass the University oral examination, which is a defense of the dissertation.

Because the multifaceted nature of the department makes it possible for the Ph.D. student to emphasize several areas of communication study, there tend to be several "typical" programs of course work followed by students, depending on their specialties. Variation in course programs worth occurs after the first year of graduate study; the first year is devoted primarily to the "core" courses required of all doctoral students.

In addition, students must complete other advanced Communication theory and research courses preparatory to their particular specializations. Specification of these courses depends on (1) individual student needs to prepare for preliminary and area examinations, and (2) the requirements of the particular area of emphasis chosen by the student.

Ph.D. candidacy is valid for five years. Extensions of candidacy are rarely granted and require reexamination.

Ph.D. MINOR

Candidates for the Ph.D. degree in other departments who elect a minor in Communication are required to complete a minimum of 20 units of graduate courses in the Department of Communication, including a total of three theory or research methods courses, and are examined by a representative of the department. A department adviser in consultation with the individual student determines the particular communication theory and methods courses.

THE INSTITUTE FOR COMMUNICATION RESEARCH

The institute is an office of project research for the faculty of the Department of Communication and operates under grants to faculty from foundations, communication media, and other agencies. Research assistantships are often available to qualified Ph.D. students in communication.

COURSES

(WIM) indicates that the course meets the Writing in the Major requirements.

PRIMARILY FOR UNDERGRADUATES

1. Mass Communication and Society: Media Technologies, People, and Society—Open to non-majors. Introduction to the fundamental concepts and contexts of communication. A topics-structured orientation emphasizing the field and the scholarly endeavors represented in the department. Lectures and discussion sections. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units, Aut (Nass, Reeves)

101. Film Aesthetics—(Graduate students register for 201.) Theoretical, historical examination of the nature of the film medium. Emphases is on the problems of aesthetics and communication from the viewpoints of practitioner, critic, and audience.

5 units (Staff) not given 1999-2000

104. Reporting and Writing the News—Reporting and writing, emphasizing various forms of journalism: news, interpretation, features, opinion. Detailed criticism of writing. Prerequisite: typing speed of 35 wpm. (WIM)

*5 units, Win, Sum (Staff)
Spr (Maharidge)*

106. Communication Research Methods—(Graduate students register for 206.) The conceptual and practical concerns underlying commonly used quantitative approaches (experimental, survey, content analysis, and field research) in communication. Students become acquainted with the techniques of research so they may become intelligent consumers and practitioners of research. Lectures and discussion sections. Recommended: 1 or Psychology 1. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units, Win (Staff)

108. Communication Process and Effects—(Graduate students register for 208.) The process of communication theory construction, including a survey of social science paradigms and major theories of communication. Lectures/discussion. Recommended: 1 or Psychology 1. GER:3b (DR:9)

4 units, Aut (Rampoldo-Hnilo)

113Q. Stanford Introductory Seminar: Online Media, the Future of News in a Democracy—More people are turning to the internet for their news. Will this impact the way they respond to democratic institutions? Class participates in research on this question. Discussion of the history of news presentation via computers and methods by which subjects access this news, and related topics, is followed by selection, taping, and analysis of subjects' behavior.

1-3 units, Win (Lewenstein)

116. Media Law—(Graduate students register for 216.) Preference to Communication seniors. Law and government regulation impacting on journalists. Topics: libel, privacy, news gathering, protection sources, fair trial and free press, theories of the First Amendment, broadcast regulation, etc. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

5 units, Aut (Staff)

117. Journalism and the Internet—(Graduate students register for 217.) Preference to Communication seniors. The implications of new media for journalists. Professional and social issues related to the Internet as a case of new media deployment, as a story, as a research and reporting tool, and as a publishing channel. Seminar discussion and hands-on practicum. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

5 units, Aut (Sandvig)

122A. Documentary Film—(Graduate students register for 222A.) Analysis of the techniques and strategies of films designed to effect attitudinal and behavioral change. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

5 units, Aut (Breitrose)

122B. Documentary Film—(Graduate students register for 222B.) Issues in contemporary documentary film/video including objectivity/subjectivity, ethics, censorship, representation, reflexivity, responsibility to the audience, and authorial voice. The viewing and analysis of films has a parallel focus on form and content. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

5 units (Krawitz) alternate years, given 2000-01

125. Perspectives on American Journalism—(Graduate students register for 225.) Survey of issues, ideas, and concepts in the development of American journalism, emphasizing the role of the press in society, the meaning and nature of news, and professional norms that influence conduct in and outside of the newsroom. Prerequisite: 1 or junior standing. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units, Win (Glasser)

130. Language and Interpersonal Communication—(Graduate students register for 230.) Theory and research regarding language and interpersonal communication. Issues on the above in relationships (initiation, maintenance, deterioration); gender; persuasion; and deception (use and detection).

5 units (Staff) not given 1999-2000

131. Media Ethics and Responsibility—(Graduate students register for 231.) The development of professionalism among American journalists, emphasizing the emergence of objectivity as a professional and the epistemological norm. An applied ethics course where questions of power, freedom, and truth autonomy are treated normatively so as to foster critical thinking about the origins and implications of commonly accepted standards of responsible journalism.

5 units, Spr (Glasser)

133. Communication and Culture—(Graduate students register for 233.) The relationship between communication and culture, emphasizing the mass media and their symbolic import. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units (Glasser) not given 1999-2000

136. Broadcast Journalism—(Graduate students register for 236.) Preference to Communication Seniors. Survey of broadcast journalism, focusing on commercial and public broadcast news outlets. Students are introduced to broadcast newswriting and prepare tapes for radio news broadcast. Lab. Prerequisite: 104.

5 units, Spr (Staff)

137. U.S. Communication Policy—(Graduate students register for 237.) Policy issues surrounding the emergence of a National Information Infrastructure (NII) in the U.S. Adopting a pluri-disciplinary approach, examines the historical context of the policy debate, the technical and business aspects of the networking transformation underway, and its economic and social dimensions. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units (Bar) not given 1999-2000

141A. History of Film: The First 50 Years—(Graduate students register for 241A.) Studies in the development of the motion picture as art form and cultural industry. Lab. Screenings of films announced in class. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units (Breitrose) alternate years, given 2000-01

141B. History of Film: The Second 50 Years—(Graduate students register for 241B.) The evolution of the motion picture as an art form and culture industry in the U.S. and other nations from 1941. Topics: the decline of the studio system, the impact of WW II, the rise and fall of auteur cinema, television, industrial concentration and its effects, and the "high concept" film. Mandatory evening screenings.

5 units, Win (Breitrose)

142. Broadcasting in America—(Graduate students register for 242.) The development of American broadcasting and its contemporary problems.

5 units, Win (Breitrose)

149Q. Stanford Introductory Dialogue: Interethnic Communication—Preference to sophomores. Students read, discuss, and participate in ongoing research related to ethnic identity and communication. Corequisite: 155.

1 unit (Leets) alternate years, not given 2000-01

150. Magazine Writing—(Graduate students register for 250.) Practice in writing magazine articles, with emphasis on marketing manuscripts. Conferences. Prerequisite: 104.

5 units (Staff) not given 1999-2000

155. Interethnic Communication—(Graduate students register for 255.) Working from an intergroup perspective, examines the influence of ethnicity on the process of interpersonal communication. The problems and opportunities inherent in communication among people from different ethnic heritages and value orientations, and the steps relevant for improving interethnic communication. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units (Leets) not given 1999-2000

160. The Press and the Political Process—(Graduate students register for 260.) Analysis of the role of mass media and other channels of communication in political and electoral processes. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units, Spr (Iyengar)

166. Communication Policy in Comparative Perspectives—(Graduate students register for 266.) A comparative overview of the ongoing change in the communications policy environment of different countries. How different nations are tackling the transformation, the reasons for these differences, and the impact of distinct policy approaches on the respective national economies and societies. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units (Bar) not given 1999-2000

169. Computers and Interfaces: Psychological and Social Issues—(Graduate students register for 269.) Interdisciplinary approach to issues of human-computer interaction (primarily) and computers and society (secondarily). General models of the link between technology, psychology, and society, addressing the question of which is/are cause and which is/are consequence. Issues: anthropomorphism and interface design; what is a human; conversation and interfaces; metaphors in interfaces; identity, privacy, and computing; and computer-mediated communication. GER:3b (DR:9)

5 units, Spr (Nass)

170. Communication and Children I—(Graduate students register for 270.) Developmental approach to how children come to use and process mass media, what information they obtain, and how their behavior is influenced by the media. Prerequisite: 1, Psychology 1, or Sociology 1. GER:3b (DR:9)

4 units, Win (Roberts)

171. Communication and Children II—(Graduate students register for 271.) Research practicum; limited enrollment. Prerequisites: 170, consent of instructor.

3 units, Spr (Roberts)

172. Psychological Processing—(Graduate students register for 272.) Examines the literature related to psychological processing and the effects of media.
