Gethsemane Lutheran Pastor Leaving for Omaha Church

Rev. M. L. Landsgnridt will resign his position as pastor of Gethsemane Lutheran Church, Omaha, at the close of services on Saturday, March 5.

Rev. Landsgnridt has served the church for more than 20 years. He was called to the church in Omaha in 1942 and has been pastor ever since.

A native of Sweden, Rev. Landsgnridt was educated in the Lutheran Church and received his theological training at the University of Chicago.

He is the father of two sons, who are both graduates of the University of Nebraska.

The church will hold a farewell service on Sunday, March 6, at 3 p.m., to honor Rev. Landsgnridt for his many years of service.

Thousands Seeking "Miracle"

LA FUGA, Nov. 16—Thousands of persons from Trout and Nebraska are visiting the 11th Annual Miracle Mission of the Church at Trout, a small town in the southwest part of the state. The mission is sponsored by the Trout Lutheran Church and has been going on for the last three years.

The mission began on Monday, November 15, and will continue until November 19. During this time, the church will hold a series of services and events to bring the community together.

The mission was started by the Rev. M. Landsgnridt, pastor of the Trout Lutheran Church, who has been in charge of the mission for the past three years.

Rev. Landsgnridt said that the mission is a way for the community to come together and enjoy each other's company.

The mission will feature a variety of events, including a dinner, a dance, and a service of prayer.

All Rise Religion

Religion should not be taught in public schools, according to a new study by the American Psychological Association.

The study, released on October 15, concludes that religion should not be taught in public schools, as it is not a subject that can be taught in a secular context.

The study, which was conducted by a team of psychologists, found that religion cannot be taught in a secular context, as it is a religious activity.

The study also found that religion should not be taught in public schools, as it is not a subject that can be taught in a secular context.

Religion is a personal and private matter, and should not be taught in public schools, as it is not a subject that can be taught in a secular context.

The study was based on a survey of 1,000 people, who were asked to rate their views on religion.

The survey found that 75% of respondents believed that religion should not be taught in public schools, as it is not a subject that can be taught in a secular context.
