You refer to a "database used to organize applications." I would like a copy of that entire database, in electronic format. I would like it in Excel or CSV format along with a data dictionary or other documentation used to interpret the data or column headings.