that that was not welcome; that you did not want that done as part of the massage?

A. Well, considering I've only gotten a massage one other time with one other person, I was just thinking to myself, first, I was just trying to recall if Helen had did that before. And when I recalled that she didn't, then I -- it did cross my mind, like maybe or is this -- I thought about how, like, is this what they're supposed to do?

But then I thought of the fact that, you know, Massage Envy is such a reputable company, and I've gotten massages from there before. I mean, you know, they're kind of like Publix, you see them everywhere.

[redacted]