

mistress, to say nothing of members of the bar. The Court notes counsel's distinguished and learned colleagues whom he cites as authority on all things Dawg-related. The court finds it interesting, however, that counsel has ignored those local attorneys whose connection to the Dawg nation is more widely known. The Court, of course, refers to Sonny Seiler, the celebrated owner of the team mascot, and former players such as Tom Nash and Tim Callaway. Instead, the best that counsel has to offer is his partner, Dana Braun, who if memory serves, spent his undergraduate years at an institution noted more for hurricanes on Bourbon Street than touchdowns at the Rose Bowl.

Lastly, the Court has not failed to note that counsel addressed his Motion to the State Court of Chatham County, rather than to the Superior Court, over which the undersigned presides. This shortcoming suggests that counsel is guilty of a serious lack of preparation. The Court is left to wonder whether the "Rose Bowl" may simply be a subterfuge for counsel's obvious lack of readiness.

Factoring these many considerations into account, the court reluctantly GRANTS Plaintiff's motion for continuance and resets the hearing for 1:30 p.m. on January 25, 2018, on two conditions:

- (1) Plaintiff's counsel must ensure that the Defendant is personally notified of the continuance no later than Friday, December 29, 2017 at 5:00 p.m., with written evidence of such notification to be filed of record with the Clerk; and
- (2) in the unfortunate happenstance that the University of Georgia does not emerge triumphant from the Rose Bowl on January 1st, Plaintiff's counsel must appear before this Court at 9:00 a.m. on January 3rd and show cause as to why he should not be held in contempt for failing to secure a Bulldog victory through his presence in Pasadena.²

SO ORDERED, this 26 day of December 2017.

CHIEF JUDGE, CHATHAM COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT

² Plaintiff's counsel is no doubt aware that contempt of this court is punishable by a fine of up to $1,000.00 and/or 20 days' confinement in the county jail. This Court will consider alternative punishments in this matter, however. Indeed, inquiries have already been made with Mr. Seiler concerning the need for assistance in mucking out Uga's crate following travel to and from the Dawgs' away games next season.
