MARS, INCORPORATED UPDATE ON SUSTAINABLE PALM OIL SOURCING

Mars introduces supplier scorecard to support supply chain transparency and transformation

SUMMARY

In 2013, we developed our global palm oil position, outlining our commitment to source fully sustainable and traceable palm oil that is free from deforestation and produced with respect for human rights. Since then, we have sourced 100% of our palm oil through the Roundtable on Sustainable Palm Oil's (RSPO) mass balance program and have traced the origins of our palm oil to the mills where it was processed.

We continue to collaborate with suppliers on ways to transform palm oil production to a level that meets our policy requirements, a process we call our GOOD program. This program supports our commitment to reducing our environmental impacts in line with what science says is necessary, and to improving the lives of a million people in our value chain as we strive to make our business Sustainable in a Generation.

As part of this work, Mars and our suppliers are streamlining our palm oil supply chain to include fewer refineries, enabling us to target our resources for more effective transformation by deepening our engagement with defined suppliers.

Our Progress

This update summarizes our actions in 2017 (to date) across three key areas – supply chain traceability, supplier engagement, and collaboration and transformation – and our planned steps for further progress in 2018.

What we've been doing

Achieved 99% traceability of palm oil supplies to mill level in the first half of 2017 up to June 2017

Traceability

Our traceability levels remain high in 2017 with 99% of our palm oil traceable to mill level during the first half of the year. Through ongoing traceability efforts, we are working to gain clearer insights into where our volume originates and the complexities of the palm oil industry at large. Our experience shows that we cannot be effective in driving change across all origins and must focus our efforts on select refineries and supply sheds. We are working with our suppliers to streamline our supply chain by minimizing the number of refineries we source from, which will enable us to use our resources more effectively and bring about more rapid transformation.

Supplier Engagement

Testing a new tool with suppliers

Embedding sustainable practice in how we source is a crucial part of meeting our commitments and driving long-term change. To support this, we have created a scorecard that rates palm oil suppliers' efforts across six sustainability criteria: policies, transparency, traceability, transformation programs, verification processes and grievance mechanisms. To focus on actions rather than words, the scorecard applies greater weighting to the last three areas.

We rolled out the scorecard in July of this year. Each of our direct suppliers received the results of their scorecard and responded positively about us being clear with our expectations. We will incorporate the scorecard results into our annual supplier selection process.

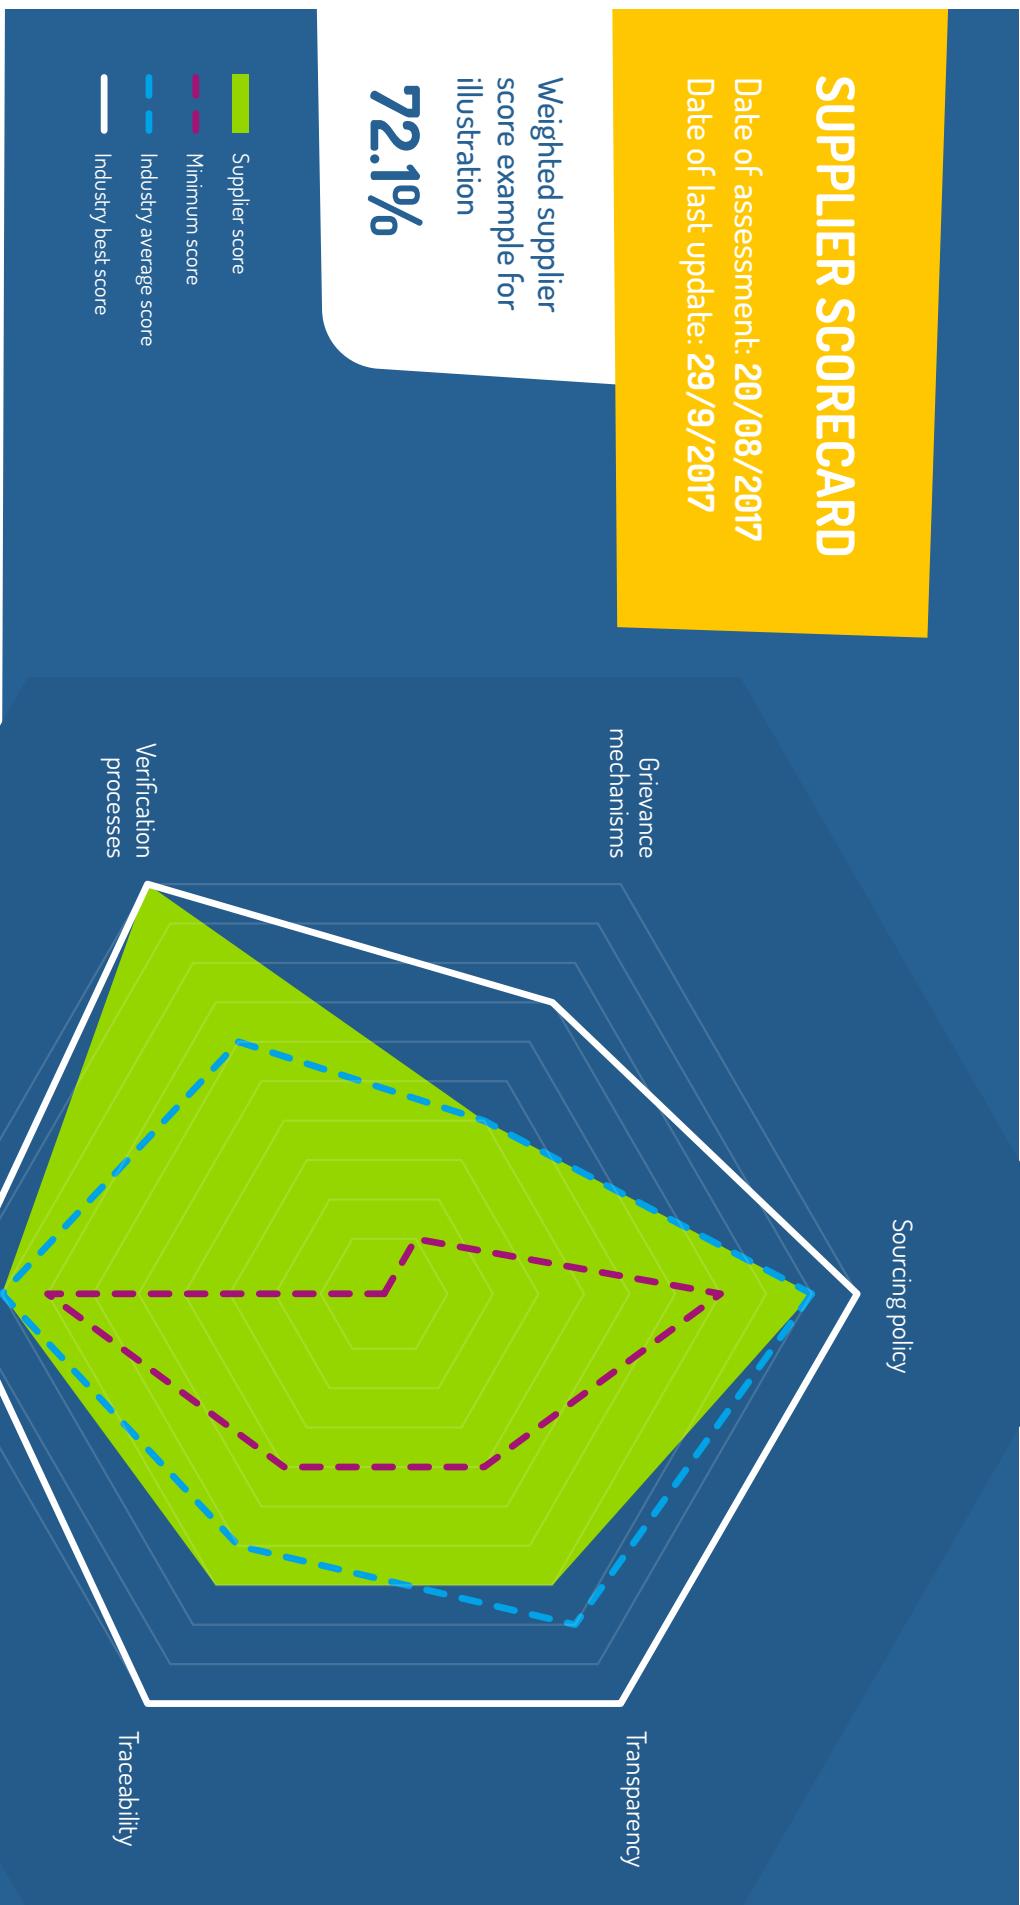

Moving forward, we will track progress and co-create strategies with these suppliers to drive collective improvement. We have communicated our intent to award business based on performance and in doing are holding both our suppliers and ourselves accountable.

Collaboration & Transformation

Our support to the landscape level work in Aceh has enabled us to map key areas at risk of deforestation. TFT's aim is to assess the likelihood and underlying causes of any deforestation encroaching on Leuser, and to collaborate with palm oil producers, the Aceh government, national parks and other local stakeholders to take effective action to address the root causes.

In Malaysia, we have maintained our support for TFT's Aggregator Refinery Transformation (ART) program in Pasir Gudang by supporting training for refineries' third party suppliers.

Supported The Forest Trust (TFT)'s spatial analysis of two districts (Aceh Tamiang and Aceh Singkil) that overlap with the Leuser Ecosystem. The spatial analysis uses Radar technology, and assesses the likelihood and causes of any deforestation encroaching on the Leuser ecosystem.

We continue to support TFT's pilot kumacaya framework for monitoring and verifying commitments to resolve social and environmental grievances. Our support has focused on Peninsular Malaysia and the development of a framework around capability building among local civil society groups, creating a mutual process where small organizations can benefit from being part of a network and carrying out on-the-ground monitoring activities reporting various information (positive or negative) from the ground to companies. The pilot's findings have improved ways of working with the local experts carrying out monitoring.

What we've been doing

Collaboration & Transformation

Partnering with experts to advance respect for rights

In June and October, Mars and our global strategic partner Verité met with key supplier Wilmar to co-create a framework to pilot a human rights program in Wilmar's extended supply chain. Wilmar will implement the plan through its existing ART program in the Pasir Gudang landscape in Peninsula Malaysia, which Mars has helped fund via TFT since 2015. Mars and Wilmar agreed to work together on a detailed roadmap for implementation, in partnership with Verité Southeast Asia. Our collective intent is to share our learnings across the industry, including through the Consumer Goods Forum and the RSP0 Human Rights Working Group, so that together, we can identify solutions to common labor challenges and scale more quickly.

We continue to play an active role in the RSP0 Human Rights Working Group, most recently participating in the P&C review and speaking at the first-ever panel on human rights at the RSP0 Roundtable event, held last June in London.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

Over the next year we're prioritizing our work with our suppliers and industry collaborations for lasting change. Key actions include:

- 1 Work with suppliers to develop more robust measures of verification and transformation for our sustainability scorecard – including key performance indicators for tracking progress against our commitments.
- 2 Work with Wilmar to finalize a practical human rights action plan as part of the existing ART program in Pasir Gudang.
- 3 Engage coalition partners to align on the most effective ways to scale up work at a landscape level around the Leuser ecosystem.
- 4 Continue our leadership in the Consumer Goods Forum globally, as well as support efforts to advance the Priority Industry Principles on Forced Labor in the palm oil sector.
- 5 As an active member of RSPN, strengthen and deepen their approach to incorporating human rights standards.

Palm Oil Supply and Traceability

PepsiCo is committed to a supply chain that is free from deforestation and addresses human rights challenges, and we have committed to sourcing 100% RSPO certified sustainable palm oil by 2020. Traceability plays a critical role in achieving our goals. Our commitment to transparency includes the following:

- We have published a complete list of our 2018 direct palm oil suppliers, shown below. This disclosure builds on our practice since 2015 to disclose our top palm oil suppliers, currently Cargill, Oleofinos and Wilmar. Seventy percent of our palm oil globally is currently supplied by the following nine companies: AFIA, Al-Safwa, ARMA, Cargill, Delmon, Oleofinos, United Oils, Willowton Group and Wilmar.
- Our suppliers are required to provide us with palm oil traceability data using our Palm Oil Traceability Protocol, which we published in 2017. As of March 2018, over 90% of the palm oil we source is traceable to the mill level, based on self-reported data from suppliers, up from 65% in 2015, and we have published our 2017 mill list.
- In 2018, we will roll out our independent third-party verification program on traceability to mill, building on pilots we completed in 2017 and covering supplier procedures, methods of data collection and data management. We see our verification effort as leading practice among industry. It will enhance the integrity and reliability of the data we receive from suppliers.
- In our 2016 Palm Oil Progress Report, we published the total number of direct suppliers and mills in our supply base. We also announced that we developed a new supplier scorecard with emphasis on policy, engagement, certification and grievances. This tool enables us to engage directly with suppliers, gauge their status on key performance measures, and guide a process of continuous improvement to enable them to meet all of PepsiCo's policy commitments. Responsible palm oil production and sourcing requires collaboration and alignment across the supply chain. Our scorecards allow PepsiCo to work in a consistent way with our suppliers to help achieve this.
- To fully understand and manage our palm oil production base, we have an additional commitment of traceability to the plantation level by 2020, with work ramping up in 2018.
- In 2017, we formalized our grievance mechanism for environmental and human rights complaints related to our agricultural supply chain. This enables any organization or individual to engage with PepsiCo about concerns regarding a particular supplier. If that supplier is present in our supply base, the complaint will be investigated and actions to resolve the complaint identified.
- In 2018, we published a significant statement specifically focused on our Indonesian palm oil supply chain.

Enhancing traceability plays a critical role in addressing deforestation and human rights challenges in the palm oil sector and we have welcomed the trend for greater transparency. In collaboration with our partners, we will continue to work to improve our palm oil supply chain. Our forthcoming 2017 Palm Oil Progress Report will provide additional detail on the measures we have taken.
