1. Qui tam relator Maria Guzman (“Guzman”), by her attorneys, individually and on behalf of the United States of America, files this complaint against INSYS Therapeutics, Inc. (“INSYS”) to recover damages, penalties, and attorneys’ fees for violations of the federal False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. §§ 3729 et seq., (“FCA” or “False Claims Act”).

2. INSYS instituted a kickback-fueled off-label marketing campaign to induce doctors to prescribe INSYS’s drug SUBSYS, a powerful opioid agonist drug that stimulates activity at opioid receptors in the central nervous system normally stimulated by naturally occurring opioids. SUBSYS is a fentanyl product, in the opioid agonist family with such other drugs as morphine, oxycodone, and heroin. As a result of the off-label campaign and egregious financial kickbacks, SUBSYS is being marketed and prescribed far beyond its stated indication, which is limited to breakthrough cancer pain only, at a beginning dosage of 100 micrograms.

3. The FDA has contraindicated SUBSYS for several uses due to the risk of overdose and requires enrollment in a special program in order to prescribe this potent and addictive drug. INSYS’s off-label campaign, which includes the kiss of death message, which encourages doctors to quickly titrate patients, has resulted in at least one pharmacist contacting the relator to ask her to return a patient to a lower, safer dosage. INSYS off-label marketing and financial inducements have been

1 successful as many doctors write SUBSYS for contraindicated and off-label uses in
2 Medicare and Medicaid patients, including for postoperative pain and back pain,
3 which is counter to FDA warnings of respiratory failure and death. INSYS also 4 utilizes a mail order pharmacy that sends SUBSYS to patients who had not requested
5 the drug and that does not properly instruct patients on the storage of SUBSYS,
6 which can lead to children fatally ingesting the drug.

8
9 4. INSYS instituted programs throughout the country to induce doctors to 10 prescribe SUBYS over those of competitors by means of monetary payments, trips to 11 strip clubs and shooting ranges, stock options, hiring physician’s significant others,
12 and expensive meals in violation of federal anti-kickback laws. One physician, Dr.
13 Stuart Krost, was promised a $100,000 payment for this “support with SUBSYS” and 14 INSYS spent $58,000 on meal expenses for doctors in just one month. INSYS,
15 focusing on increasing its market share and generating high revenues, disregarded 16 patient well-being, such as sending congratulatory emails to sales representatives that 17 state, “Cha Ching again!” when a patient is prescribed SUBSYS for $40,000. INSYS
18 has increased profits enough to publicly trade SUBSYS, earning $36 million in gross
19 proceeds from the sale of 4.6 million shares in May 2013. Many of the INSYS
20 executives have stock options for hundreds of thousands of dollars.
23

26 5. INSYS also maintains a work environment in which the male-dominated 27 executive and management team frequently sexually treat female doctors who fail to

1 prescribe “enough” SUBSYS in exchange for their kickbacks from INSYS with 2 blatant disrespect, best summarized in a text message from INSYS Vice President of 3 Sales Alec Burlakoff, in a text message to the Relator regarding a female doctor in 4 her territory: “She fuckn sucks kock mia! What else can I say! XOXOXO...I hate
5 that stupid bitch – dr banchik!!!!!!!!!! I want to jerk off in her fuckn face! Joe would 6 jerk off in her face, but his dick is too tiny for him to grab.” The same attitudes and 7 behavior were used harass female sales representatives.

Parties

2 10. Relator Maria Guzman is a citizen of the United States and a resident of 3 Clayton, North Carolina.

5 11. Relator resided in Florida until June 2013.

6
7 12. Guzman began working for INSYS in January 2012 as a Specialty Sales
8 Professional and was fired in July of 2013.

10 13. At all times material hereto, John N. Kapoor was the Founder and 11 Executive Chairman of INSYS, and held the majority of its shares. He exercised his 12 authority to direct and control many of the activities described herein. Kapoor was 13 adamant that doctors selected for the speakers program be actively prescribing
14 Subsys. In addition, Kapoor was aware of and supported the sales initiative to push 15 doctors to prescribe 400 mcg only instead of 100 or 200 mcg doses.

17
18 14. At all times material hereto, Michael Babich was the Chief Executive 19 Officer of INSYS, and exercised his authority to direct and control many of the 20 activities described herein.

22 15. Michael Babich has served as President since November 2010 and was 23 appointed Chief Executive Officer in March 2011. From March, 2007 until his 24 appointment as President of INSYS Therapeutics. Babich was Chief Operating 25 Officer and a Director of INSYS Pharma, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary. He had
28

1 previously worked at EJ Financial Enterprises, Inc., a venture capital firm founded by 2 Defendant Kapoor.

4 16. Alec Burlakoff was originally hired by INSYS as a regional sales
5 manager but in September of 2012, was quickly promoted to national Vice-President
6 of Sales, where he exercised his authority to direct and control many of the activities
7 described herein

8
9 17. Before coming to sell INSYS' opioid, Burlakoff had been previously
10 employed selling opioids for Cephalon, which plead guilty to criminal charges for the 11 illegal marketing of the opioid Actiq. To illegally market Actiq, Cephalon had its 12 sales representatives (a) call on physicians who would not normally prescribe the 13 drugs in the course of their practice; (b) prompt the doctors to initiate conversations 14 about off-label uses; (c) tell doctors how to document their off-label uses to get the 15 drugs paid for by Medicare, Medicaid, and private insurers; and (d) send the doctors
16 to lavish "consultant" meetings. Cephalon also underpaid its sales representatives, 17 and then offered them sizeable sales-based bonuses to encourage off-label sales.

20
21
22 18. Burlakoff helped manage Cephalon's sales of Fentora, a fentanyl-based 23 drug that Cephalon sold after the Actiq scandal broke, and adopted Cephalon's
24 criminal marketing strategies when he moved to INSYS.

26 19. Defendant INSYS Therapeutics, Inc. is a specialty pharmaceutical 27 company headquartered at 444 South Ellis Street, Chandler, Arizona, 85224.

20. INSYS is incorporated in Delaware at 1209 Orange Street, City of Wilmington, County of New Castle, Delaware, 19801.

21. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that each of the entities identified as Does 1-15, inclusive, were the employers, agents, contractors, directors, or otherwise responsible for the acts alleged herein. Their identity is unknown at this time and will be set forth later when it is known.

22. INSYS has two marketed products: SUBSYS and Dronabinol SG Capsule, and is awaiting approval for Dronabinol Oral Solution.

23. SUBSYS is a fentanyl sublingual spray: a proprietary, single-use product that delivers fentanyl, and opioid analgesic, in seconds for transmucosal absorption under the tongue.

24. Transmucosal immediate-release fentanyl (“TIRF”) products generated $440 million in U.S. sales in 2010 and INSYS believes this market has the potential to expand with its faster-acting fentanyl product, SUBSYS.

25. In March 2011, INSYS submitted a New Drug Application to the Food and Drug Administration (“FDA”) for Fentanyl SL Spray for the treatment of breakthrough cancer pain in opioid-tolerant patients.

26. The FDA approved SUBSYS for the limited use of relieving breakthrough cancer pain, which is characterized by sudden, often unpredictable, episodes of intense pain that can peak in severity despite pain medication.

1 27. SUBSYS was approved for sale on January 5, 2012 and was made
2 publicly available on March 26, 2012.

4 28. On May 7, 2013, 5 days after its initial public offering of common stock,
5 INSYS closed the offering as all 4,600,000 shares had been sold, with aggregate
6 gross proceeds of $36.8 million.

8 29. INSYS’s Executive Team is comprised of three men and the INSYS
9 Board of Directors has seven male members; there are no females on the Executive 10 Team or the Board and very few female managers.

12 30. The absence of women in leadership roles at INSYS contributes to the 13 rampant sexual harassment and the hostile work environment for its female 14 employees, including sales representatives experiencing unwanted flirtatious
15 comments from executives and management sending sexually explicit text messages
16 to female members of their sales team.

18 31. The INSYS Code Conduct states that, “INSYS values a work
19 environment that is free of any form of harassment...[which] can included 20 unwelcomed sexual conduct, threats or offensive comments.”

22
23 FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

24
25 Work History and INSYS’s Hiring Strategies.

26 32. In January 2012, Guzman began working for INSYS as a Specialty Sales
27 Professional.

1 33. Guzman remains on the INSYS South East Region sales team, with her
2 territory in the West Palm Beach area of Florida.

4 34. Before serving as a sales representative for SUBSYS, Guzman did not
5 possess any pharmaceutical sales experience: Guzman earned her Bachelor's degree
6 in Education and Dance, worked for G&K Services (a company that provides work
7 uniforms), and was a Marketing Associate for Corporate Counseling Associates.

8
9 35. INSYS hiring individuals without pharmaceutical experience as sales
10 representatives serves as a standard practice for the company.

12 36. INSYS Specialty Sales Professionals who lack previous pharmaceutical 13 experience are unfamiliar with compliant marketing standards.

15 37. In or around late 2012, INSYS hired [REDACTED], a dental hygienist
16 who lacked pharmaceutical sales experience, as a South East Region sales
17 representative.

19 38. INSYS apparently hired [REDACTED] to have sexual relations with doctors in 20 exchange for SUBSYS prescriptions, which has been implied by INSYS management
21 and employees, through statements such as one in which Joe Rowan, the Southeast
22 Regional Sales Manager told Dr. Bart Gatz that she [REDACTED] was as dumb as rocks, 23 but that she was sleeping with another doctor and getting a lot of prescriptions out of 24 him." During the April 2013 National Sales Conference Rowan publicly stated that

1 [REDACTED] had been “out there working it” in regards to forming relationships with her
2 doctors.

4 39. Aside from recruiting individuals who lack pharmaceutical sales
5 experience, INSYS has also hired many former Cephalon, Inc. employees. One such 6 employee was Karen Hill, who became Insys’ national trainer for sales and actively
7 promoted Insys’ aggressive off label marketing strategy.
8

9 40. On or around September 29, 2008, the Department of Justice (“DOJ”)
10 announced a $435 million settlement to resolve off-label marketing claims relating to 11 Actiq, a TIRF product, and two other drugs.

13 41. On or around September 29, 2008, the DOJ stated that $375 million of 14 the plea agreement was to resolve False Claims Act allegations arising from claims to 15 Medicaid, Medicare, and other federal programs.

17 42. Like the SUBSYS label, the Actiq label stated that the drug was for 18 opioid tolerant cancer patients with breakthrough cancer pain, to be prescribed by 19 oncologists or pain specialists familiar with opioids.

21 43. Cephalon utilized the mantra “pain is pain,” and instructed Actiq sales
22 representatives to focus on physicians other than oncologists and to promote Actiq
23 for uses other than breakthrough cancer pain.

25 44. INSYS employees also promote this motto and target doctors other than 26 oncologists.

1 45. In December 2011, INSYS hired Matt Napoletano (“Napoletano”), a
2 former Cephalon executive who led the launch for several of its pain products, as its 3 Vice President of Marketing.
4

5 46. In or around November or December 2012, INSYS hired former 6 Cephalon employee Dan Tondre (“Tondre”) as a Specialty Sales Professional.
7

8 47. During a conference call in late 2012 or early 2013 with other Special
9 Sales Professionals and managers, Tondre described how he sold INSYS drugs to 10 doctors, stating that, “Pain is pain. It does not matter whether it is back pain or a 11 migraine. Pain is pain and SUBSYS treats pain.”

13 48. INSYS management frequently has praised Tondre for his success at 14 Cephalon and has instructed other sales representatives to follow his lead in the 15 marketing of SUBSYS.

17 49. In December 2012, Rowan sent a text message to the South East Region
18 sales team congratulating Tondre for making a 1200 mcg SUBSYS sale and then 19 stating that Tondre was “asking for the business wow...it works...let’s get them

22 50. INSYS has hired other former Cephalon employees, many of whom 23 handled marketing for that company, including Vice President of Sales Alec
24 Burlakoff, Specialty Sales Professional and National Trainer Karen Hill, Specialty
25 Sales Professional and Regional Sales Manager for the South East Region Joseph

1 Rowan, Specialty Sales Professional and Regional Trainer Nannette Alonzo, Specials
2 Sales Professional Marcus Seiferth, and Medical Marketing Communications Senior
4 Manager Desiree Hollandsworth.

5 51. INSYS has comprised a team of employees who have either been 6 recruited from a pharmaceutical company that settled a multi-million dollar off-label
7
8 marketing lawsuit or individuals without any pharmaceutical sales experience or 9 familiarity with compliant marketing standards.

11 52. Babich has actually praised the hiring strategy, stating “The majority of 12 our sales reps have no prior pharmaceutical experience. We think that is very 13 important from the perspective of “they are out there delivering a message.”

15 53. Burlakoff effected and supported Babich’s marketing strategy. INSYS,
16 for example, hired Sunrise Lee, a former dancer at a Florida strip club as a sales
17 executive. Sunrise also managed an escort service and had no academic degree.
18 Burlakoff defended the decision, claiming “Doctors really enjoyed spending time 19 with her and found Sunrise to be a great listener.” “She’s more of a closer”, he 20 added praising her “empathy”.
22

23 54. Babich also established a compensation system certain to induce 24 misbehavior. Under Babich, INSYS established sales force incentives which 25 completely reverse the pharmaceutical industry compensation manual. Although 26
27 typical pharmaceutical reps earn salaries in the $80-90,000 range with a potential for

1 $30-40,000 in bonuses, Subsys reps earn only $40,000 in salary with a potential
2 $72,000 in bonuses. Babich boasted that Subsys’ 38% sales growth between the 3 third quarter and the fourth quarter of 2013 was “strong testimony to the success of 4 this approach.”

5
6 55. Babich’s carrot was paired nicely with Burlakoff’s stick. Burlakoff
7 frequently threatened to fire any sales representative who didn’t get at least one new 8 prescription written every day.

11 56. INSYS also established relationships with and speaker programs for 12 former Cephalon prescribers, including Doctor Stuart Krost (“Dr. Krost”), Doctor
13 Bart Gatz (“Dr. Gatz”), and Doctor Lisa Banchik (“Dr. Banchik”).

15 The INSYS Business Model and Kickbacks to Doctors.

16
17 57. After Burlakoff arrived, the speaker program became an overt kickback
18 program sometimes with just the doctor and one attendee. Relator is informed and 19 believes and based thereon alleges that Burlakoff told the sales staff that the purpose
20 of the speaker’s program was to “put money into the pockets” of doctors

22 58. Under Burlakoff, the INSYS business model consists of providing 23 doctors with substantial compensation – including, stock options, strip club trips, and 24 hiring physicians’ significant others – so that the doctor then returns the “favor” to 25 the sales representative by prescribing SUBSYS. One physician was even offered 26 $100,000 in payments.

1 59. In or around March 2013, National Trainer Karen Hill created a
2 PowerPoint presentation (“2013 PowerPoint”) for Specialty Sales Professionals
3 which illustrates the centrality of payoffs, such as instructing representatives to target
4 Drs. Lee and Arcila for more lucrative speaking opportunities and stating that Drs.
5 Kornick, Kramarich, and Khanna will be paid through more preceptorships (which 6 usually entail allowing a representative to shadow the doctor but which INSYS is 7 using as another marketing tool).

10

13

14 61. The 2013 PowerPoint outlines what “hot buttons” representatives should 15 utilize with doctors, such as “$” and “hanging out.”

17 62. The 2013 PowerPoint provides “special notes” about the doctors and 18 ways to increase sales with them such as “loves to party.”

20 63. The 2013 PowerPoint highlights “challenges” that representatives will 21 face with some of the doctors such as “very conservative and cautious...continue 22 challenging her thinking” as well as “potential” with some physicians, such as “good 23 with increasing strengths.”

25 64. In July 2012, Vice President for Sales Alec Burlakoff sent a text
26 message to Guzman stating, “I know pedro [Dr. Charles Huang’s physician’s 27
28

1 assistant] very well also...He’s the one who probably writes the most. Let’s take
2 pedro out for some fun! I bet you he would LOVE to smoke with us!”

4 65. INSYS’s tactics have resulted in doctors recommending and writing
5 SUBSYS prescriptions for their patients, including those on Medicare and Medicaid,
6 in exchange for kickbacks, and often times switching patients from Actiq, SUBSYS’s
7 competitor.
8

9 Kickbacks and Speaker Programs.

10
11 66. One of the primary ways INSYS provides doctors with kickbacks for 12 prescribing SUBSYS is through its speaker programs.

13
14 67. INSYS speaker programs consist of the doctors giving presentations to 15 others regarding their experience with SUBSYS and in return they receive a speaker 16 fee.

18 68. INSYS officially states that speaker programs are based on clinical 19 experience, and not on the amount of SUBSYS the doctor prescribes. However, John 20 Kapoor, INSYS’ founder and executive chairman, instructed Burlakoff that Subsys 21 speakers should support and show belief in the product or they would have to be 22 removed from the speaker program. This support and belief was evidenced by high 23 prescriptions.

26 69. In July 2012, Burlakoff sent a text message to several sales
27 representatives in which he stated “we have done all these programs and we are flat

1 in sales...Are our speakers doing their part...We must hold our speakers accountable,
2 programs are going to begin to get cancelled very quickly...Clearly, we have done a
3 poor [job] setting proper expectations for our speaker.”

5 70. In July 2012, Burlakoff sent Guzman a text message stating, “Don't 6 worry about Dr Banchik or Dr Vendry's speaking abilities. They do not need to be 7 good speakers, they need to write a lot of Subsys.”

9 71. In December 2012, Burlakoff sent the following text message: “Mia -
10 just wanted to make sure you know that Dr Banchik is taking you for a ride. She 11 doesn't produce shit for units or dollars. She needs to understand you can't keep 12 giving her programs, when gatz has truly earned them! Show her the numbers!”

15 72. During the April 2013 conference, Rowan explained how he would like
16 the speaker program ran, instructing representatives not to take doctors to Ruth's
17 Chris Steakhouse or other expensive restaurants because he did not want a large 18 amount of money spent on “dipshits that aren't going to write,” but would rather keep 19 that money in the budget to spend on other doctors for “better uses.”

22 73. The INSYS Code of Conduct states that the company must “monitor all 23 fees, payments, and compensation paid for advisory, consulting or other services to 24 avoid even the appearance of inappropriate influence.”

26 74. The INSYS Certificate of Compliance states, “INSYS has established an 27 annual spending limit of $1,500 on meals and educational items which may be

3 value...items of nominal value (less than $10) or financial support for educational 4 programs are also exempt from this amount.”

7 75. In April 2013, Burlakoff sent Dr. Krost a text message in April 2013
8 which stated, “Dr. Krost...I know it[']s not a lot to you, but I can commit to 100K to 9 you via speaker programs or meals toward your restaurant. We don’t need the food,
10 just charge our card and give [a]s an itemized receipt. Just need your support on
12

14 76. In October 2012, Burlakoff sent Guzman a text message and an email
15 stating that Dr. Krost would earn $1,600 per program and that INSYS would hold all 16 of Dr. Krost’s programs in the restaurant he owns, to persuade him to switch his 17 Aqtq patients to SUBSYS.

20 77. In October 2012, Burlakoff indicated to Guzman in a text message that 21 INSYS would pay Dr. Gatz $750 per hour for trainings conducted via telephone.

24 78. In December 2012, Burlakoff sent Guzman a text message stating that 25 INSYS paid Dr. Gatz $36,000 in one quarter for speaker programs.
26

28 79. The doctors affiliated with INSYS participate in the speaker programs because of the substantial payments and kickbacks they receive, rather than their belief in the benefit of the drug for cancer patients.

1 80. In September 2012, Burlakoff sent Guzman a text message indicating
2 that "I think dr krost would want to speak, he loves money."

4 81. On August 16, 2012, Dr. Banchik sent a text message to Guzman
5 thanking her for a "fun night" and stating "I just wish I had more MD'S that can 6 write it themselves but these people will refer to me to write it for them."

8 82. In 2012, Dr. Banchik received speaker fees and referrals from 9 participating in the INSYS speaker programs, and because she then obtained more
10 patients through these referrals, she was able to prescribe more SUBSYS and in 11 return earn more speaker programs and fees from INSYS.

13 83. In September 2012, Dr. Banchik indicated how important these speaker
14 fees to her when she sent a text message to Burlakoff asking why INSYS had failed
15 to pay her for her program, stating, "I am not happy Alec."

18 84. In September 2012, Dr. Gatz sent Guzman an email inquiring about 19 when he would be paid the $7,200 he was offered for three speaker programs in 20 which he participated, as his honoraria check had been lost.

22 Strip Clubs, Shooting Ranges, Meals, and Referrals.

23
24 85. In addition to the program speaker fees that doctors receive for 25 prescribing SUBSYS, INSYS also provides doctors with other kickbacks.

1 86. On or around Friday, January 18, 2013, Burlakoff and Rowan treated Dr.
2 Gatz to a strip club visit, where they purchased him two $500 private champagne
3 room sessions, to ensure he continued prescribing SUBSYS.

5 87. On or around January 19, 2013, Burlakoff sent Guzman a text message
6 expressing that it “[w]ent fantastic last night. Bart and I got back around 4 am.”
7

8 88. Shortly after January 18, 2013, Rowan sent Dr. Gatz a text message
9 stating, “Dr. Gatz, we appreciate you more than you could believe...Leaving that 10 meeting Alec and I felt very confident and what was going to happen....And you
11 show loyalty to us like no other... You need anything at all, it is done.”

13 89. Dr. Gatz responded to Rowan’s text message in January 2013 with, 14 “Thank you for the best weekend in years!!!”
15

16 90. The strip club visit resulted in an increase in prescription volume, as 17 Guzman reported to Burlakoff and Rowan on Wednesday, January 23, 2013, just five 18 days later, that Dr. Gatz had already written 17 SUBSYS prescriptions in three days.

20 91. Under the its Code of Conduct, the $1,000 INSYS spent for private 21 champagne room sessions would not qualify as payment for an advisory services
22 from Dr. Gatz nor would it qualify as gift of less than $100 designed for the patient or 23 for educational purposes; it would fall under the category of prohibited recreational 24 activity.

1 92. INSYS has also provided Dr. Gatz with many expensive dinners, stock
2 options, lunches for his office, and a trip to a shooting range, which serves as part of 3 a company-wide scheme to both encourage doctors to, and reward them for,
4 prescribing SUBSYS.
5

6 93. From on or about July 2 to July 10, 2012, Dr. Gatz prescribed 120 units
7 of SUBSYS.
8

9 94. On July 18, 2012, Burlakoff instructed Guzman in a text message that 10 she could take Dr. Gatz and “whoever out,” and that he would supply his credit card
11 number for the dinner.

13 95. From on or about July 23 to July 30, 2012, Dr. Gatz prescribed a total of 14 300 SUBSYS units.

16 96. On or about October 10, 2012, INSYS provided Dr. Gatz’s office with 17 lunch.

19 97. From on or about October 16 to October 30, Dr. Gatz wrote
20 prescriptions for 720 units of SUBSYS.

22 98. In or around November 2012, Rowan suggested that INSYS send top
23 prescribing doctors Thanksgiving dinners. Thanksgiving dinners were provided to 24 Dr. Gatz’ entire office staff. Insys correspondingly increased spending limits on sales
25 representatives’ charge cards to cover this additional expense.

1 99. During the April 2013 Arizona conference, Rowan and his South East
2 Region sales team acknowledged how successful these meals were and, in particular,
3 how Dr. Gatz’s Office Manager ensured that prior authorizations were completed
4 after the meals were delivered.
5

6 100. A January 2013 report sent to INSYS sales representatives indicates 7 that the company spent over $58,000 on meal expenses for doctors, with Rowan and 8 Burlakoff spending a total of approximately $15,000.
9

10 101. The INSYS Code of Conduct states that “[m]eals may occasionally be 11 provided to HPCs [health care professionals] so long as they are modest and shared at 12 a reasonable location that is conducive to discussing educational information.”

14 102. The INSYS Certificate of Compliance specifies that “INSYS has 15 established an annual spending limit of $1,500 on meals” per provider.

17 103. The Compliance Guidance for Pharmaceutical Manufacturers states that 18 “entertainment, recreation, travel, meals and other benefits...potentially implicate the 19 anti-kickback statute if any one purpose of the arrangement is to generate business for 20 the pharmaceutical company.”

22 104. The INSYS Code of Conduct states that the company must “monitor all

1 105. In the January 2013 email containing the expense report, Burlakoff
2 stated that the representatives with the highest meal expenses should be ranked 3 number one in their region and obtaining a “return on investment.”
4

5 106. From on or about January 24 to February 5, 2013, Dr. Gatz prescribed a
6 total of 670 SUBSYS units.
7

8 107. On or about February 5, 2013, Rowan sent text messages to Dr. Gatz
9 and Guzman asking, “Would you like to get a bite to eat? Somewhere spectacular!
10 Maybe shoot guns before?”
11

12 108. On or about February 19, 2013, Rowan took Dr. Gatz to the shooting
13 range.

15 109. From on or about February 19 to March 7, 2013, Dr. Gatz prescribed a 16 total of 1010 units of SUBSYS.

18 110. On or about March 11, 2013, Rowan sent Dr. Gatz a text message
19 stating that he would take Dr. Gatz out to dinner anywhere he wanted, so that they 20 could “eat and celebrate life.”

22 111. INSYS also celebrated Dr. Gatz’s loyalty in recommending SUBSYS by 23 providing him with stock option.
24

25 112. In early 2013, Dr. Gatz had a conversation with Guzman regarding the 26 stock options INSYS had offered her and she ascertained from his excited tone and 27 knowledge of managing this particular stock that he was also receiving such options.
28

1 113. On February 19, 2013, Guzman’s belief that Dr. Gatz was receiving
2 stock was confirmed by a conversation that she heard between Rowan and Dr. Gatz
3 while the three were out at the shooting range and dinner, a conversation in which 4 Rowan told Dr. Gatz that “INSYS takes care of its people” and that “I [Rowan] have 5 stock options, [Guzman] has stock options, and you will have stock options.”

8 114. During the conversation regarding the stock options, Dr. Gatz also 9 indicated that he would like a position with INSYS and a home in Arizona, and 10 Rowan reiterated that “INSYS takes care of its people.”
11

12 Hiring a Doctor’s Significant Other Family Member, or Friend.
13

14 115. In addition to the monetary and meal kickbacks, INSYS also encourages
15 doctors to subscribe SUBSYS by hiring their significant others or family members.

17 116. On or around August 18, 2012 Burlakoff sent a text message to Dr.
18 Charles Huang (“Dr. Huang”) stating “I need to know if Paula [Dr. Huang’s
19 girlfriend] would take a full time job working for me? I also could use a few Subsys
20 prescriptions. We have not seen anything, I want to have some fun!!! Can't do it w/o
21 subsys scripts coming in at least once a day. Have Paula call me next week. Let's
22 make it like the old days, turn the subsys switch on please Dr Huang!!...We mean 23 what we say, just need you too (sic) get it going strong.”
25
26

27 117. From on or about August 21, 2012 to August 22, 2012, Dr. Huang
28 prescribed 60 units of SUBSYS.

1 118. INSYS hired Dr. Huang’s girlfriend, Paula, in or around fall 2012.

2 119. On or about March 28, 2013, Rowan asked Guzman if she could
3 recommend any sales representatives for the Nashville, Tennessee region, and stated
4 that the only qualification that INSYS required was that the individual was eighteen
5 years old and that he did not care if the person did not possess a college degree.

8 120. During the conversation regarding a Nashville sales representative on or 9 around March 28, 2013, Rowan told Guzman that the individual could be “anyone as 10 long as it was a doctor’s girlfriend, son or daughter,” and further that if the individual 11 were “banging a doctor, that would be perfect.”
12

13 121. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that that 14 Burlakoff had personal knowledge of INSYS hiring other sales representatives at the 15 request of Subsys prescribers.
16
17

18 122. Babich engaged in the same misconduct. Relator is informed and 19 believes and based thereon alleges that Dr. Ruan in Mobile, Alabama promised
20 promised Babich that if Babich hired Joe Rowan as a sales representative, Dr. Ruan
21 would become the top prescriber of Subsys. Rowan was hired and assigned to Dr.
22 Ruan, who did indeed become a top prescriber of Subsys for certain periods. Dr.
23 Ruan’s partner, Dr. Couch, was also a top Subsys prescriber and the two doctors had 24 ownership interest in a pharmacy that dispensed Subsys.

Burlakoff Offered Physicians Lucrative Business Deals and Partnerships

2 123. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that
3
4 Burlakoff personally offered Gawin Awerbuch, M.D., financial incentives, including 5 commissions based on the number of prescriptions and the strength of the dosage.
6
7 These illegal incentives triggered a prescription-writing spree which did not abate
8 until May of 2014 when Awerbuch was arrested for Medicare fraud and illegal
9 distribution of controlled substances. By then Awerbuch had written 1,283
10 prescriptions for Subsys for Medicare beneficiaries alone, costing Medicare nearly 11 seven million dollars.

14 124. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that 15 Burlakoff gave the manager of a multisite pain management clinic an annual 16 compensation package of $73,000 for the manager’s “contacts” while letting the 17 manager keep the INSYS job secret from the pain management clinic.
18

Instructions for Avoiding Anti-Kickback Standards.

19 20 125. Some INSYS managers and sales representatives were aware of the 21
22 illegality of using kickback schemes to obtain SUBSYS sales, particularly the former 23 Cephalon employees.

25 126. During the April 2013 INSYS conference in Arizona, management and 26 specialty sales professionals shared methods with one another on how to avoid anti-27 kickback standards.

1 127. During the April 2013 conference, former Cephalon employee and
2 INSYS National Trainer Hill stated that she would have a “legit [speaker] program”
3 at an inexpensive restaurant where INSYS would provide her with $100 to spend per 4 person, and she would use that budget to purchase wine and instruct the restaurant
5 staff to box the wine for the doctors to take home, remaining cautious as to how the
7

9 128. During a meeting at the April 2013 Arizona conference, Former 10 Cephalon employee and Manager Rowan stated that he is able to order beer, wine,
11 cigars, and expensive meats through his friend who owns a delicatessen, and that him
12 and another employee have been “doing this for years,” which is one of the reasons
13 he hired that employee.

16 129. After informing his sales team about his delicatessen owner friend at the 17 2013 conference meeting, Rowan then asked his representatives, “do you think he 18 runs it through as a cigar or a filet mignon? No. He runs it across as, you figure the

22 130. During the April 2013 meeting, Rowan indicated that the representatives
23 would receive more of a benefit from providing the doctor and his or her family with 24 some filet mignons and bottles of wine than by providing a lunch to the office.

26 131. During the 2013 conference meeting, Rowan stated that he used his 27 friend to order expensive products and then used them to encourage physicians to

1 prescribe SUBSYS, providing the example of how he inconspicuously placed a

4

5 132. After Rowan described his methods for avoiding kickback standards
6 during the 2013 conference meeting, Hill instructed that the representatives should 7 get everything through a caterer, and that she had heard of other representatives
8 getting televisions for their doctors through a caterer.
9

10 133. After Hill’s comments regarding obtaining items for doctors through 11 caterers during the April conference meeting, Rowan then told the South East Region
12 team, “I don’t want to know what you do,” but stated that they should do what they 13 need to, but “it’s not on me.”

16 134. During the April conference meeting, Rowan instructed his sales 17 representatives to “think outside of the box,” and provided the example of going into 18 a restaurant during lunch, asking the staff to ring up a to-go receipt for ten people, but 19 then asking them to not provide the lunch but rather give the representative credit for 20 when they returned with the doctor and his or her spouse later that night for dinner.

23 135. After providing the example of how to treat doctors to dinner by 24 appearing to be within kickback standard limits during the April 2013 conference,
25 Rowan then told the representatives, “This is the shit we’ve done all of our careers.

1 But be smart about it, don't be a dipshit. I'm not forcing you to do this, but just
2 telling you this is what we do.”

4 136. After explaining how he encouraged doctors to write SUBSYS
5 prescriptions by offering them filet mignons and dinners during the 2013 conference
6 meeting, Rowan explained “I don't think I did anything wrong because I did it with 7 food;” however, when one sales representative in the meeting began writing notes
8 regarding his methods, Rowan stated, “there is nothing to write down, just thinking 9 outside of the box.”

11
12 SUBSYS's Indication and Usage, and INSYS's Off-Label Marketing.
13

14 137. INSYS developed methods for persuading doctors to prescribe SUBSYS
15 for contraindicated and off-label uses, which the FDA states can be deadly.

17 138. According to its label, the FDA indicated SUBSYS for the limited use of 18 management of breakthrough pain in adult cancer patients who are already receiving 19 and who are tolerant to around-the-clock opioid therapy for their underlying 20 persistent cancer pain.

22 139. Patients considered opioid tolerant are those who are taking around-the-
23 clock medicine consisting of at least 25 mcg of transdermal fentanyl/hour.
24

25 140. The FDA contraindicated SUBSYS for use in opioid non-tolerant 26 patients because life-threatening respiratory depression and death could occur in 27 patients not on a chronic regiment of opioids. For this reason, SUBSYS is

1 contraindicated in the management of acute or postoperative pain, including 2 headaches or migraines.

4 141. According to the label, the FDA intended that SUBSYS be used only in 5 the care of cancer patients and only by oncologists and pain specialists who are 6 knowledgeable of and skilled in the use of Schedule II opioids to treat cancer pain.

7
8 142. According to the label, the initial dose of SUBSYS to treat episodes of 9 breakthrough cancer pain is always 100 mcg.

11 143. According to the SUBSYS label, due to the potential for fatal overdose, 12 physicians should not convert patients on a mcg per mcg basis from any other
13 fentanyl product.

15 144. According to the SUBSYS label, death has been reported in children 16 who have accidentally ingested transmucosal immediate-release fentanyl products and 17 therefore SUBSYS must be kept out of the reach of children.

19 145. Due to the risk of misuse, abuse, addiction, and overdose, SUBSYS is 20 only available through a restricted program created by the FDA: the TIRF Risk
21 Evaluation and Mitigation Strategy (REMS) program.

23 146. INSYS has systematically violated and continues to violate every one of 24 these FDA indications and warnings

26 147. INSYS has created the “effective dosage message,” which continually
27 encourages sales representatives to push doctors to prescribe doses higher than 100

1 mcg and to quickly titrate patients to high levels because low SUBSYS dosages, as 2 Babich states, are known as “the kiss of death.”

4 148. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that
5 Burlakoff personally trained representatives to use the off-label message that if
6 patients had previously taken another Fentanyl product, the doctors should start
7 patients on dosage levels higher than those indicated by the FDA because the FDA-
8 approved starting dose might be insufficient. Burlakoff insisted that “everyone 9 knows it doesn’t work at that level.”

12 149. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that the field
13 training Burlakoff conducted via “ride alongs” differed markedly from their formal
14 trainings, as Burlakoff recommended that doctors start patients on doses 400%
15 greater than the FDA-approved starting dose, and that they move patients to doses 16 800% and 1600% greater as quickly as possible.

19 150. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that Babich
20 was fully aware of the financial advantage to INSYS of pushing patients to 21 dangerously high dosage levels. For example, at a May, 2014 conference, he stated
22 that “as patients stay on the drug longer, they have a tendency to move up in dose, 23 making prescriptions more valuable as the patient stays on the drug . . .”

26 151. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that Kapoor
27 yelled at sales representatives to get doctors to quickly move patients to higher doses,

1 and that he also pressured sales managers to start their patients on doses higher than 2 the FDA allowed.

4 152. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that at the 5 same April, 2014 sales meeting where Burlakoff told his sales staff to disregard his 6 previous instructions to push off-label uses and off-label dosage labels for Subsys, he 7 also warned the staff that anyone who discussed problems with doctors or patients in 8 an email would be fired.
9

11 153. INSYS has recently begun to rely on Linden Care Pharmacy, a mail
12 order pharmacy in New York, for its SUBSYS supply.

14 154. INSYS management promotes sales representatives and doctors to use
15 this pharmacy, as illustrated in a text message that Burlakoff sent to Guzman on or 16 around February 20, 2013, instructing her to, "Just use Linden care, they don't bitch."

18 155. In March 2013, Guzman became concerned about using this pharmacy
19 because a pharmacist in her territory, Doctor Brad Williams ("Dr. Williams") from 20 Family Care Pharmacy, told her in both a telephone conversation and email letter that 21 it was dangerous for SUBSYS to be distributed to patients through the mail as this 22 illustrated that a pharmacist had not properly educated the patient on storage and 23 disposal of the drug, which could result in children or pets accidentally ingesting and 24 overdosing on this powerful drug.

1 156. During the March 2013 telephone call with Guzman, Dr. Williams told 2 her that some of his patients had come into the pharmacy complaining that they had
3 not even ordered SUBSYS but that it had arrived through the mail at their homes.
4

5 157. During the March 2013 conversation with Guzman, Dr. Williams also 6 expressed his concern that medication crossing state lines from New York, where 7 Linden Care is located, to Florida, where his patients lived, violated state laws.
8

9 158. Guzman alerted Burlakoff to Dr. William’s concern with the potential
10 risk to patient health and safety by utilizing a mail order pharmacy, but INSYS
11 continues to instruct sales representatives to use Linden Care.

13 159. During the April 2013 conference in Arizona, Liz Gurrieri (“Gurrieri”)
14 from the Internal Reimbursement Center (“IRC”) stated that representatives could 15 pre-populate their opt-in forms with Linden Care for the pharmacy section of the 16 form.

18 160. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that Babich
19 knew that only about 10% were for patients with a cancer diagnosis. The majority of 20 prescriptions were for patients with low back pain, sciatica, or peripheral neuropathy
21 secondary to diabetes. Babich observed this because he personally saw all of the 22 patients’ diagnoses as they were funneled through the PA team, which was given
23 each patient’s diagnosis and a list of drugs the patient had previously taken. It was so 24 unusual for the team to actually see a patient with a cancer diagnosis that they would

1 get excited. Babich, who remained in close personal contact with the PA team, was 2 aware of this..

4 161. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that
5 Burlakoff trained the Subsys sales force to “agree” with doctors that the drug was 6 good for any pain spike, whether or not it was for breakthrough cancer pain.
7

8 162. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that Babich
9 also, at a September, 2012 sales meeting, instructed the sales staff to give physicians 10 the off-label message that “breakthrough pain is the same as breakthrough cancer 11 pain”.

13 163. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that 14 Burlakoff would do “ride alongs”, where he accompanied sales representatives on 15 physician calls so he could teach them his illegal techniques, and that those 16 representatives with pharmaceutical industry experience were alarmed by what they 17 saw and heard Burlakoff do.

20 164. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that 21 Burlakoff personally trained representatives to use the off-label message that “pain is

24
25 165. Relator and other employees observed and remarked that Babich and 26 Burlakoff were only interested in driving sales and making money by selling Subsys 27 to every kind of patient.
28

1 166. Relator is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that only
2 after law enforcement began scrutinizing INSYS' sales practices and Dr. Awerbuch's 3 Subsyst script-writing spree did Burlakoff, at an April, 2014 training session, tell the 4 sales representatives that they could no longer be doing what he had trained them to 5 do, thus admitting that they had been trained to market Subsyst illegally.
7

8 The IRC and Prior Authorization.
9

10 167. INSYS created the IRC in order to help doctors and patients obtain 11 approval for SUBSYS, including for off-label and contraindicated uses.
12

13 168. The IRC and physicians enter into agreements, in which the physician
14 provides patient information that the IRC then uses to complete prior authorization 15 forms.

17 169. INSYS utilizes Specialty Sales Professionals to gather patient
18 information and assist in receiving prior authorization. This includes instructing sale 19 representatives to review private patient information within doctors' offices.

21 170. The IRC handles appeals when prior authorization requests are denied.
22

23 171. The IRC occasionally issues "super vouchers" to patients while their 24 prior authorization and appeals are pending, which allows for free SUBSYS until 25 approval is obtained.

1 172. The IRC sometimes uses past and/or later-found instances of patients'
2 cancer diagnoses to obtain the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS")
3 approval for the treatment of non-cancer pain.
4

5 173. On or around April 19, 2013, Gurrieri stated during an INSYS
6 conference presentation to the South East Region team that the IRC needs to know if 7 a patient had cancer in 1992 or if they have cancer – even if that is not what the 8 doctor is treating them for – because that cancer diagnosis is almost an assurance of 9 approval.

11 174. Gurrieri stated during the April 2013 presentation that patient face sheets
12 are important for the representatives to collect from the doctors because it is through 13 reading those forms that the IRC "finds cancer a lot of the time."
14

15 175. During the conference presentation, Gurrieri stated that INSYS is 16 "obviously promoting this on-label," but then went on to instruct the representatives
17 to ask doctors if the patient has a history of cancer and to ensure they include all 18 documentation for SUBSYS approval.

21 Instructing Sales Representatives to Market for Off-Label Uses.
22

23 176. INSYS engages in the off-label marketing of SUBSYS by encouraging 24 doctors to write prescriptions for conditions other than breakthrough cancer pain.
25
26
27
28

1 177. INSYS is careful to not include the promotion of off-label marketing in
2 official training material or emails, and recently warned employees during the April
3 2013 conference to keep questionable communications out of text messages.
4

5 178. INSYS nevertheless educates its sales representatives on how to 6 implement off-label marketing strategies during conference calls and in-person
7 meetings.
8

9 179. During the April 2013 conference in Arizona, Regional Sales Manager
10 Rowan told the South East Region team, "Don't be afraid of what we are indicated 11 for."

13 180. During this conference meeting on or around April 18, 2013, Rowan
14 asked his sales team to state the SUBSYS indication and the team responded it was 15 for breakthrough cancer pain. Rowan replied it was for breakthrough pain in cancer
16 patient, and he then stated "let's change that" and then stressed "pain" in his second 17 pronouncement of the indication.

20 181. Specialty Sales Professional Tondre then instructed the other
21 representatives during the conference meeting on or around April 18, 2013 to ask
22 their doctors if there was any difference in their patients having cancer or back pain,
23 and that if the patient ranks high on the pain scale, that "that's the whole point, pain 24 is pain."

1 182. The “pain is pain” mantra Tondre mentioned during the April
2 conference meeting was the same that he had used in an early 2013 conference call
3 where he stated “pain is pain, and SUBSYS treats pain;” this same mantra helped
4 prompt the DOJ to file a False Claims Act suit against Tondre’s previous employer,
5 Cephalon, as stated in the DOJ September 29, 2008 press release.

8 183. Sales Manager Rowan allowed Tondre to share his methods for 9 encouraging doctors to write off-label or contraindicated prescriptions without 10 interruption during the April 2013 conference meeting.

12 184. Later in the conference meeting on or around April 18, 2013, Rowan 13 instructed the team to call him if there were any issues that should not be put in 14 writing, such as associating speaker programs and fees with how many prescriptions
15 a doctor wrote.

18 185. During the conference meeting on or around April 18, 2013, Rowan told
19 his team that SUBSYS was great for sickle cell anemia, which is not a type of cancer.

21 186. In its September 29, 2008 press release regarding the FCA lawsuit
22 against Cephalon, the DOJ stated that promoting fentanyl products for sickle cell
23 anemia constituted off-label marketing.

25 187. During the conference meeting on or around April 18, 2013, former 26 Cephalon employee Hill instructed other representatives on the methods she utilized

1 on “how to throw something out to a doctor without sounding off-label,” such as

4 188. After Hill stated that a representative could quote another doctor in order
5 to offer the off-label promotion of SUBSYS during the April 2013 conference
6 meeting, Rowan interjected and stated that this was not allowed because a 7 representative cannot use a third party to achieve off-label marketing.

10 189. After Rowan mentioned that using a third party to achieve off-label
11 marketing was not allowed during the April conference meeting, Hill then provided 12 an example of the conversation she would have with the doctor to get around this 13 requirement: “I was speaking to some of the other reps and their doctors are writing
14 for this, that, and the other. Do they have cancer? I don’t know, but they were 15 talking about sickle cell anemia.”

18 190. After Hill provided an alternative to “not sound off-label” when 19 encouraging doctors writing SUBSYS for conditions other than breakthrough cancer
20 pain during the April 2013 conference meeting, Rowan allowed Hill to instruct the 21 other representatives without interruption and did not indicate this method was 22 inappropriate; instead, Rowan stated shortly after that a doctor who writes SUBSYS

26 191. Following the conversation regarding how to encourage doctors to write
27 SUBSYS prescriptions for sickle cell anemia in the conference meeting on or around
28

1 April 18, 2013, a member of the South East sales team mentioned that doctors just
2 want to hear the indication first, and then they are ready to listen to other uses,
3 followed by Rowan adding that “If you want to talk science, you’re going to suck.”
4

5 Targeting Doctors who are Not Oncologists or Pain Specialists.

6 192. INSYS has also pursued relationships with doctors who are not
7 oncologists or pain specialists knowledgeable of and skilled in the use of Schedule II
8 opioids to treat cancer pain, as approved by the FDA.
9

10 193. In its September 29, 2008 press release regarding the FCA suit against 11 Cephalon, the DOJ stated that Cephalon’s focus on physicians other than oncologists
12 constituted off-label marketing.

14 194. On February 21, 2013, IRC Prior Authorization Assistant Tamara
15 Kalmykova (“Kalmykova”) emailed Guzman regarding one of Dr. Banchik’s
16 patients, stating that the approval request was denied partly because Medicaid
17 identified Dr. Banchik as a neurologist and required proof that Dr. Banchik
19

20 195. Dr. Banchik is neurologist at the Neurology Centers of Palm Beach, as 21 stated on her patient forms and on her biography on the Neurology Center’s website.
22

23 196. The Neurology Centers of Palm Beach’s website indicates that Dr.
24 Banchik has experience with and provides lectures on pain management, but that her
25 primary background is in neurology, which includes the specialty area of headaches.

1 197. The Neurology Center of Palm Beach’s website does not list cancer
2 treatment as a specialty area, although it does list headaches/migraines and various
3 forms of injuries as areas of focus for the Neurology Center’s physicians.
4

5 198. INSYS is targeting doctors who are not oncologists or pain management
6 physicians specializing in cancer treatment and who likely see far more neurological 7 patients than cancer patients.
8

9 199. The FDA contraindicated SUBSYS for acute pain stemming from 10 migraines or headaches, due to the serious consequences that could result from 11 prescribing SUBSYS to patient not on a chronic regiment of opioids for cancer 12 treatment.

15 200. Dr. Banchik mentioned to Guzman in August 2012 that doctors who 16 were unable to prescribe SUBSYS could refer their patients to her to write the 17 prescription, which indicates that Dr. Banchik was likely unfamiliar with these 18 referred patients’ particular histories, which thus increases the chances of SUBSYS 19 causing serious side effects in these new patients who doctors unfamiliar with 20 SUBSYS referred specifically for such a prescription.
21
22

23 201. INSYS’s pursuit of relationships with non-FDA approved doctors is not 24 an uncommon practice for the company.

1 202. On or around August 16, 2012, National Trainer Hill admitted in a text
2 message to Guzman that none of the attendees at a speaker program she had recently
3 conducted were oncologists or pain specialists.
4

5 203. Hill serves as the INSYS National Trainer and was a former Cephalon
6 employee, who should be aware of FDA standards.
7

8 204. On or around April 19, 2013 during the Arizona conference, a South
9 East Region sales representative stated that she had a neurologist that was prescribing
10 1600 mcg for a patient.

12 INSYS’s Off-Label Marketing Results in Doctors Prescribing SUBSYS for 13 Contraindications, Off-Label Use, and Over-Titrating.
14

15 205. INSYS’s off-label marketing schemes have resulted in doctors writing
16 prescriptions for contraindicated uses, such as postoperative pain, and for off-label
17 uses, such as back pain.
18

19 206. INSYS has also crafted the “kiss of death” and “effective dosage”
20 messages, which encourage doctors to start patients at a higher dose than 100 mcg
21 and/or titrate patients quickly, which is counter to the FDA dosage instructions and 22 can be very dangerous with such a potent opioid agonist.

Prescriptions for Contraindications.

1
2 207. SUBSYS is contraindicated for postoperative pain and for 3
4 headaches/migraines because life-threatening respiratory depression and death could 5 occur in patients.

6 208. INSYS ignores the FDA contraindications warnings and encourages
7
8 doctors to recommend SUBSYS for such uses, which has resulted in prescriptions for 9 contraindicated conditions.

11 209. On or around February 21, 2013, Kalmykova emailed Guzman regarding 12 one of Dr. Banchik’s Medicaid patients, stating that his approval request had been 13 denied because the office notes focused on the patient’s knee surgery rather than the 14 cancer diagnosis, under which the request was filed.

16 210. Dr. Banchik’s Medicaid patient whom Kalmykova emailed Guzman
17 about on or around February 21, 2013 had previously had cancer but the SUBSYS
18 prescription was to treat the patient’s post-operation pain following knee surgery.

20 211. Kalmykova also indicated in her email to Guzman on or around
21 February 21, 2012 that the IRC needed office notes that supported the correct
22 diagnosis (cancer), thus impliedly asking Guzman and Dr. Banchik to alter office
23 notes that had stated the actual purpose for the Medicaid patient’s prescription (post-24 operative pain) so the request would fit CMS’s approval requirements.

1 to ask the patient if there was anything they could not do during the day because of 2 their back.

4 218. During this conference meeting on or around April 18, 2013, Hill and 5 Tondre stated representatives could rephrase this by asking if the patient was 6 restricted from doing anything because of pain or asking about the patient's 7 "functionality."

10 219. After Tondre provided an alternative method for promoting SUBSYS for 11 the off-label use of back pain, Rowan stated that INSYS was lucky to have Tondre's 12 knowledge and then instructed the representatives to paint a picture and allow the 13 doctor "to go there themselves."
14

15 220. INSYS's instructions to representatives on how they can sell SUBSYS
16 for non-FDA approved uses without "sounding off-label" and marketing SUBSYS by 17 utilizing the mantra "pain is pain" has resulted in a substantial number of off-label

21 221. In order to enroll in the REMS program and be authorized by the FDA
22 to prescribe SUBSYS, physicians must sign a TIRF form stating that he or she 23 understands the SUBSYS indication.
24

25 222. On or around March 6, 2013, Dr. Gatz prescribed SUBSYS for a 26 Medicare patient using diagnosis codes 724.2 (lumbago), 722.52, and 721.3 for 27

1 “lumbosacral spondylosis” and “lumbar radiculopathy,” which are, respectively, a
2 degenerative condition affecting the lower spine and lower-back nerve root pain.

4 223. On or around March 11, 2013, Dr. Gatz prescribed 600 mcg of SUBSYS
5 for a Medicare patient with chronic pain; a staff member in Dr. Gatz’s office
6 confirmed in a March 18, 2013 text message to Guzman that the patient had chronic
7 pain and not cancer.

8
9 224. On or around April 11, 2013, Doctor Daniel Ettetdgui (“Dr. Ettetdgui”)
10 prescribed 800 mcg of SUBSYS for a Medicare patient with the diagnosis codes of 11 “Amputation of Leg Above Knee 897.2; Lumbosacral Plexus Lesions 353.1; Sciatica 12 Neuralgia 724.3; Lumber Radiculopathy 724.4.”

13
14
15 225. On or around April 12, 2013 INSYS Director of Managed Markets Mike
16 Grury (“Grury”) sent Burlakoff and Guzman text messages stating that Jessica
17 Chavez from the IRC contacted Medicare in order to get the patient approved for a 18 voucher, which INSYS can use to sway the patient’s purchasing decision and 19 potentially dissuade them from less expensive alternatives and generic medications.

22 226. On December 18, 2012, in text messages between Jay Patel (“Patel”)
23 from Apex Pharmacy and Guzman, Patel confirmed that the diagnosis provided by 24 Dr. Gatz for a SUBSYS prescription was for patient Joseph Leo’s back pain.

26 227. On February 11, 2013, a staff member from Dr. Gatz’s office sent 27 Guzman a text message stating that they had just found out that patient Joseph Leo

1 had cancer, verifying that Dr. Gatz had previously prescribed SUBSYS for the off-
2 label use of treating his back pain.

3
4 Falsification of Documents to CMS.

5 228. The IRC used Dr. Gatz’s new cancer diagnosis for Joseph Leo to 6 continue obtaining approval for the patient’s SUBSYS prescription to treat his back 7 pain, particularly because the IRC stated at the April 2013 conference that the 8 department reviews patients’ medical information to find cancer to obtain prior 9 authorization.

11
12 229. The Relator possess knowledge of at least one instance in which the IRC
13 utilized a previous cancer diagnosis or a cancer diagnosis found after the patient
14 already received SUBSYS to treat a non-cancer condition in order to gain prior 15 authorization from CMS for the non-cancer use through falsification of documents.

18 230. In or around late April or early May 2013, the IRC filled out a prior 19 authorization form and identified the diagnosis as cancer; however, upon receiving 20 the form, Dr. Gatz’s office whited out the cancer diagnosis and wrote “chronic pain,”
21 as this was the reason Dr. Gatz had prescribed SUBSYS.
22

24 231. In or around late April or early May 2013, after Dr. Gatz modified the 25 prior authorization to reflect “chronic pain” as the diagnosis, the IRC indicated to 26 CMS that the form was incorrect and sent a “corrected” form, with the cancer
27 diagnosis, to CMS.

1 232. While Dr. Gatz did not participate in the falsification of the prior
2 authorization form sent to CMS in or around April or May 2013, he and the IRC have
3 worked together in other cases to submit false information to CMS.
4

5 233. On or around December 18, 2012, Dr. Gatz filled out an IRC prior
6 authorization form for a patient and identified the diagnosis as “neoplastic pain,” 7 which matches code 338.3 (Breakthrough Cancer Pain) that the IRC included in the 8 Medicare form for the same patient on or around December 21, 2012.
9

10 234. Dr. Gatz’s January 23, 2013 Patient Face Sheet (which provides 11 background information on the client) for the patient with the December 2012
12 neoplastic pain diagnosis, uses diagnosis codes 719.48 (pain in joint) and 337.00
13 (nerve damage).

15 235. The difference in the diagnosis codes used on the forms submitted to 16 CMS by the IRC and Dr. Gatz with the Patient Face Sheet indicates that Dr. Gatz was 17 prescribing SUBSYS for nerve and joint pain, but he and the IRC were using the 18 cancer diagnosis to obtain CMS approval.

26 switch patients from Actiq and Fentora to SUBSYS.

1 237. During a conference call on or around December 12, 2012, Guzman sent
2 a text message to Hill stating that most patients using Actiq are on Medicare or
3 Medicaid, in response to management instructing the sales representatives on the call
4 to switch Actiq patients to SUBSYS while also stating that compliance issues existed
5 when offering Medicare and Medicaid patients SUBSYS.

8 238. INSYS has been successful in inducing doctors to switch patients from 9 Actiq to SUBSYS, including Dr. Liporace, Dr. Krost, Dr. Banchik, and Dr. Gatz in 10 Guzman’s territory alone.
11

12 239. On or around February 11, 2013, Dr. Gatz prescribed 100 mcg of 13 SUBSYS for a Medicare patient.
14

15 240. On or around March 19, 2013, Dr. Banchik prescribed SUBSYS for a 16 Medicaid cancer patient.
17

18 241. Guzman is informed and based thereon alleges that Medicare and 19 Medicaid patients account for a substantial amount of SUBSYS purchasers in her 20 territory and all over the country.
21

22 242. INSYS management, such as Burlakoff, are careful to officially state
23 that vouchers and other incentives cannot be given to Medicare or Medicaid patients
24 for compliance reasons but management encourages and/or is aware that vouchers
25 and incentives are provided to persuade Medicare and Medicaid to purchase
26 SUBSYS.

1 titrate to higher dosages, with the “magic number” referred to in the April 2013
2 Arizona conference as 800 mcg.

4 250. As part of the effective dosage message or kiss of death campaign,
5 INSYS sends a “Daily Rep Report for Low Strength Use” via email every day for 6 dosages at or below 400 mcg to sales representatives.

7
8 251. While INSYS refrains from referencing the kiss of death or the effective
9 dosage message in official emails and statements, INSYS management encourages 10 this marketing scheme in person, over the telephone, and through some text 11 messages.

13 252. On or around August 24, 2012, Burlakoff sent a text message to Guzman
14 and other representatives stating, “We will do the Matt
15 Napolitano/Marketing/effective dose message.”

17
18 253. Napolitano is a former Cephalon marketing executive.

19
20 254. On or around September 6, 2012, Burlakoff sent a text message to 21 Guzman and other sales professionals stating that INSYS would “get together as a 22 whole company, and review ‘effective dose message;’” indicating that this message is 23 used throughout INSYS.

24
25 255. INSYS’s off-label marketing titration campaign has resulted in doctors
26 starting patients on SUBSYS dosages that are higher than the FDA-approved 100 27 mcg.

1 256. On or around May 13, 2013, Burlakoff sent an email containing a chart
2 of twelve new patients for the week of May 11, all of which were trying SUBSYS for 3 the first time. Only one individual had 100 mcg listed under the “strength” column,
4 with the other eleven patients receiving strengths between 200 mcg and 1600 mcg,
5 with the average dosage level at approximately 600 mcg.
6

8 257. On or around March 1, 2013, Guzman received a voicemail from Patel
9 of Apex Pharmacy stating that the 1200 mcg dosage of SUBSYS for a patient was 10 too high, and that if the prior authorization had not been completed, that INSYS
11 should hold off and return the patient to 800 mcg.
12

14 258. In or around March 2013, Burlakoff sent an email congratulating one
15 individual who had encouraged a doctor to switch a patient from 1600 mcg of Actiq
16 to a SUBSYS prescription that would be titrated to 1200 mcg, and then stated “Cha 17 Ching again!” for the $40,320 that INSYS would make from the sale to this patient.
18

19 259. On or around April 12, 2013, Hill told Guzman during a conversation
20 that the 10-pack of SUBSYS was only to discourage a patient from staying on 100
21 mcg and was to force them to go up in strength.
22

23 260. During the conversation on or around April 12, 2013, Hill told Guzman
24 that Linden Care, upon which INSYS is increasingly relying to supply SUBSYS, 25 will only dispense a 10-pack of 100 mcg or 200 mcg and up.

1 261. On or around April 18, 2013, Rowan instructed representatives during
2 the INSYS conference to “increase the strength as much as possible – that will give 3 you the most bang for your buck.”
4

5 262. On or around April 18, 2013, one sales representative stated during a
6 conference meeting that a doctor had prescribed a 1200 mcg and a 600 mcg dose to a 7 patient, with one being covered by insurance and the other being covered out-of-
8 pocket.

10 263. On the SUBSYS label, the FDA states that, “To reduce the risk of 11 overdose during titration, patients should have only one strength of SUBSYS 12 available at any time.”
13

14 264. After the representative mentioned the dual doses for one patient during 15 the April 2013 conference meeting, Rowan and Gurrieri offered a way around the 16 FDA and CMS standards by stating that one prescription could be filled one day and 17 the second could be filled the next.
18

19 265. On or around April 18, the sales representative stated during the 20 conference meeting that the doctor had switched the patient with two prescriptions 21 doses from another fentanyl product, but prescribed the same amount of mcg for

24 266. The SUBSYS label states that, “When prescribing, do not switch 25 patients on a mcg per mcg basis from any other oral transmucosal fentanyl product to 26
27
28

1 SUBSYS;” the FDA warns against this under the “Medication Errors” portion of the 2 label, stating in bold that this can result in a fatal overdose.

6 Defendants

7
8 267. Guzman realleges and incorporates the allegations set forth above as 9 though fully set forth therein.

10 268. Defendants knowingly caused to be presented to the United States
11 Government false or fraudulent claims for payment or approval under the federally-12 funded Medicaid and Medicare programs in violation of 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1) when 13 INSYS violated 42 U.S.C. § 1320a-7b with its structured kickback system to induce 14 doctors to recommend SUBSYS because 42 U.S.C. § 1320a-7b(g) provides that a
15 claim that includes items or services resulting from a violation of this section
16 constitutes a false or fraudulent claim for purposes of the federal False Claims Act.

19 269. Defendants knowingly offered kickbacks to doctors when its managers
20 instructed representatives to offer incentives to doctors in exchange for SUBSYS
21 prescriptions, even though INSYS management knew this violated FCA laws, 22 including during the April 2013 conference when Rowan told representatives not to 24 SUBSYS a doctor prescribes.

1 270. INSYS management and sales representatives shared methods in which
2 to maneuver around anti-kickback standards and compliance laws, such as ordering 3 meals during lunch as to-go orders but instructing the restaurant to credit the 4 representative when they later brought in just the doctor and his or her spouse, or by 5 ordering televisions through caterers for speaker programs.

8 271. INSYS management was aware of FCA laws and compliance standards
9 but justified its instructions to sales representatives to violate such laws a standards,
10 such as when Regional Sales Manager Rowan stated during the April 2013
11 conference that he did not believe he was doing anything wrong because he was

21 that a previous cancer diagnosis was the reason for Dr. Banchik prescribing SUBSYS

1 273. Defendants knowingly caused to be presented to the Government false
2 or fraudulent claims for payment or approval when in late April or early May 2013,
3 the IRC filled out a prior authorization form and identified the diagnosis as cancer on 4 the form but Dr. Gatz later whited out the cancer diagnosis and wrote “chronic pain”
5 (the reason for the SUBSYS prescription); the IRC told CMS that the form was 6 incorrect with the chronic pain diagnosis and sent a “corrected” form. This practice
7 is widespread throughout INSYS, particularly because the IRC obtains approval from 8 Medicaid and Medicare for the entire company.

12 274. Defendants knowingly caused to be presented to the Government false
13 or fraudulent claims for payment or approval when in or around December 18, 2012,
