Description:
Born into slavery in 1818, Frederick Douglass rose to become one of the nation's foremost intellectuals—a statesman, author, lecturer, and scholar who helped lead the fight against slavery and racial oppression. But unlike some other prominent abolitionists, Douglass embraced the U.S. Constitution, insisting that it was essentially an anti-slavery document and that its guarantees for individual rights belonged to all Americans, of all races. Further, in his most popular lecture, "Self-Made Men," Douglass spoke of people who rise through their own efforts and devotion rather than through circumstances of privilege. As the nation pauses to remember him on his bicentennial, Frederick Douglass: Self-Made Man takes a fresh look at his remarkable life and ideas and the enduring principles of equality and liberty. Weaving together history, politics, and philosophy, this new biography illuminates Douglass's immense scholarship with his personal experiences. Please join us as we discuss how Douglass's legacy continues to inspire today.

Description:
Directions to ARPA-E from the metro ARPA-E's offices are accessible underground from the L'Enfant Plaza Metro station: To exit the station, follow signs to the 9th and D Streets/L'Enfant Plaza Concourse exit (astronaut mural that has a dog head for a face above the exit, see picture to the right). Pass through the exit turnstile. Follow the path towards the escalator, and take the escalator up. At the top of the escalator, proceed through the double glass doors located ahead to the food court. Proceed through the food court plaza and take the first right after Roti Restaurant. Proceed down the hallway towards the center atrium (currently under construction) and turn left after CVS. Proceed down the hallway towards South Building escalators. Take the escalators to the 1st floor and check in with security. Thank you for your willingness to participate in the NASA iTech Energy Cycle. I am excited that we have partnered with DOE's ARPA-E for this cycle to jointly identify energy focused solutions to some of the challenges we share. I have attached the agenda and the directions to ARPA-E (for NASA attendees). If you have questions, please give me a call. Best Regards, Kira Check out NASA iTech www.NASAITech.com
