Case No. 2:18-cv-18-4761

COMPLAINT FOR COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

1
2 1. This is a copyright infringement case by the Estate of Michael Jackson, 3 through various companies, against The Walt Disney Company and ABC, Inc.

4 2. The action arises under the United States Copyright Act of 1976, 17 5 U.S.C. §§ 101, et. seq. This court has original and exclusive jurisdiction pursuant to 6 28 U.S.C. § 1338(a).

7 3. Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1400(a), 8 because defendants and their agents reside in, or may be found in, this district.

9 FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

10 4. The Walt Disney Company is one of the world’s largest media 11 conglomerates. Its affiliates include Walt Disney Pictures, Pixar, Lucasfilm, Marvel 12 Entertainment, ESPN, and ABC, Inc. (collectively “Disney”). Disney controls some 13 of the most beloved characters and stories in modern culture, such as: Mickey 14 Mouse, Donald Duck, and friends; classic animated films like Peter Pan, 15 Cinderella, Pinocchio, and others; modern classics like Toy Story, Finding Nemo, 16 The Incredibles, and other Pixar movies; the Star Wars franchise; Spiderman, the 17 X-Men, and other characters and stories from the world of Marvel Comics; and 18 ESPN’s popular 30 for 30 documentary series.

19 5. Disney’s media business depends on its intellectual property and, more 20 specifically, the copyrights it holds in its well-known characters, motion pictures, 21 music, and the like. Disney has never been shy about protecting its intellectual 22 property. Indeed, its zeal to protect its own intellectual property from infringements, 23 real or imagined, often knows no bounds.

24 a. Disney has threatened to sue independent childcare centers for 25 having pictures of Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck on their walls, forcing 26 them to remove all pictures of Mickey or Donald—and other 27 anthropomorphized mice or ducks—rather than face ruinous litigation from 28 one of the world’s largest corporations.

1           b.       Disney once sued a couple on public assistance for $1 million 2 when they appeared at children’s parties dressed as an orange tiger and a blue 3 donkey. Apparently, these costumes cut too close to Tigger and Eeyore for 4 Disney’s tastes.

5           c.       Disney takes a very narrow view of copyright law’s “fair use” 6 doctrine. For example, just a few years ago, it sent DMCA takedown notices
7 to Twitter, Facebook, and other websites and webhosts, when consumers 8 posted pictures of new Star Wars toys that the consumers had legally 9 purchased. Apparently, Disney claimed that simple amateur photographs of 10 Star Wars characters in toy form infringed Disney’s copyrights in the 11 characters and were not a fair use.

12       6.       In light of all of this, the plaintiffs in this case—various companies that 13 comprise a part of the Estate of Michael Jackson (collectively, “the Estate”)—were 14 genuinely shocked when they watched Disney’s prime-time two-hour television 15 program, The Last Days of Michael Jackson, which aired in prime time on ABC on 16 Thursday, March 24, 2018.

17       7.       Although titled The Last Days of Michael Jackson, the program did not 18 focus on Michael Jackson’s last days. Rather, it was simply a mediocre look back at 19 Michael Jackson’s life and entertainment career. A Rolling Stone review described 20 the program as “offer[ing] little in the way of new revelations or reporting and at 21 times seems heavy on armchair psychoanalysis and unsupported conjecture.” The 22 magazine was being too generous. The program contained nothing “in the way of 23 new revelations or reporting.”

24       8.       Unable to make a compelling presentation about Michael Jackson on its 25 own, Disney decided to exploit the Jackson Estate’s intellectual property without 26 permission or obtaining a license for its use. After all, there there is always a healthy 27 audience for Michael Jackson’s timeless music, his ground-breaking videos, and 28 footage of his unforgettable live performances. Why not just use Michael Jackson’s

1 works if one can get advertisers to buy time on the program? But in order to use 2 these valuable assets, a license must be obtained for it by the Estate.

3 9. Like Disney, the lifeblood of the Estate’s business is its intellectual 4 property. Yet for some reason, Disney decided it could just use the Estate’s most 5 valuable intellectual property for free. Apparently, Disney’s passion for the 6 copyright laws disappears when it doesn’t involve its own intellectual property and 7 it sees an opportunity to profit off of someone else’s intellectual property without 8 permission or payment.

9 10. The extent of Disney’s use of the Estate’s intellectual property in The 10 Last Days of Michael Jackson is truly astounding. The program used dozens of 11 copyrighted works owned by the Estate, but obtained no license. In fact, Disney-12 owned ABC never even approached the Estate to seek a license or let the Estate 13 know what it was doing.

14 11. In total, the program used at least thirty different copyrighted works 15 owned by the Estate without permission, including but not limited to the following:

16 a. Substantial portions of some of Michael Jackson’s most famous 17 music without permission, including Michael’s recordings of songs such as 18 Billie Jean, Beat It, Don’t Stop ‘Til You Get Enough, The Girl is Mine, and 19 Leave Me Alone. Disney used this music without obtaining required 20 permissions from both the owners of the sound recordings (the Estate) and the 21 owner of the musical compositions (the Estate for most songs, and third 22 parties for a few others).

23 b. Extensive parts of Michael Jackson’s copyrighted music 24 videos—or “short films” as Michael called them—such as Michael Jackson’s 25 Thriller, Billie Jean, Black or White, and Childhood. The program used, 26 without permission, substantial portions of well over a dozen Michael Jackson 27 music videos without permission from the Estate.

28

1 c. Considerable parts of Michael Jackson's copyrighted video
2 productions, including: The Making of Thriller (which has only been released 3 on VHS and has never been released on DVD or any other digital medium) 4 and Dangerous: The Short Films.

5 d. Concert footage owned by the Estate such as the productions
6 Michael Jackson: Live at Wembley and Michael Jackson: Live in Bucharest, 7 along with extensive portions of Michael performing with his brothers on the 8 Triumph tour (the copyrights to which are owned by the Estate).

9 e. Significant parts of the Estate's critically-acclaimed film, This Is 10 It, the most successful music documentary in history, which was released 11 shortly after Michael's tragic death; and the Estate's 2016 Spike Lee directed 12 documentary Michael Jackson's Journey from Motown to Off the Wall. Of 13 course, when the Estate wanted to use clips of Sylvia Chase's 1980 interview 14 of Michael Jackson from ABC's 20/20 for that same documentary, Michael 15 Jackson's Journey from Motown to Off the Wall, the Estate sought, obtained, 16 and paid for a license from Disney itself.

17 f. Copyrighted footage owned by the Estate that the Estate has 18 never commercially exploited. In particular, the Disney program included 19 footage of one of Michael Jackson's children's heartbreaking remarks about 20 her father at the July 7, 2009 memorial service for Michael Jackson at Staples 21 Center. The Estate has never licensed this footage for commercial use. Yet 22 even after being advised that the Estate owned the copyright in it, Disney 23 cynically used it anyway.

24 12. The Estate only learned that Disney intended to use any of its 25 copyrighted works in the program itself two days before it aired. On March 21, 26 2018, the Estate contacted The Walt Disney Company's General Counsel when the 27 Estate was informed that the trailer for the special was using certain copyrighted 28 images owned by the Estate. The next day, a Disney attorney responded to the

1 Estate and advised that Disney would remove the copyrighted images “as a 2 courtesy.”

3 13. When the Estate asked the Disney attorney if any other copyrighted
4 property belonging to the Estate was being used in the program itself, the Disney 5 attorney replied that some small portions of copyrighted music were being used.

6 14. When asked which particular copyrighted music was being used, the 7 Disney attorney unequivocally refused to answer. Obviously, if Disney thought it 8 was not doing anything wrong, the Disney attorney would have not have refused to 9 tell the Estate what they were doing. The Disney attorney said that its uses were all a 10 “fair use” because the program was a “documentary.” When pressed, the Disney 11 attorney kept falling back on the fact that the program was a “documentary.” 12 Apparently, Disney’s newfound position is that any uses of copyrighted works in 13 “documentaries” is a fair use—presumably, so long as the copyrights are not 14 Disney’s. As explained below, this position is dead wrong.

15 15. The Estate wrote to the General Counsel of The Walt Disney Company, 16 and other legal representatives of Disney, in two further letters on March 22 and 17 March 23, 2018. Disney ignored the Estate’s letters. To this day, it has never 18 bothered to respond.

19 16. Disney’s fair use argument is patently absurd. Even setting aside 20 Disney’s blatant hypocrisy given its notorious history regarding third party uses of 21 its own copyrights, Disney’s argument here is one that would probably make even 22 the founders of Napster pause.

23 17. If Disney’s position on fair use of the Estate’s copyrights were 24 accepted, a network, studio or producer could make a documentary about Walt 25 Disney, and spend most of the documentary’s time using, without Disney’s 26 permission, extensive clips of Mickey Mouse, Walt Disney, and Disney movies.
27 Disney’s music could play in the background to the narrator and the interviews.
28 Likewise, if Disney’s position on fair use of the Estate’s copyrights were accepted,

1 one could create a two-hour documentary about the Star Wars franchise, by 2 summarizing each film and using extensive clips from each film while playing the 3 iconic Star Wars music in the background of interviews and narration, and all 4 without permission from Disney. We are confident that Disney would not react 5 kindly to attempts by others to create such projects without getting permission from 6 Disney and paying Disney for the use of its property.

7 18. Disney's fair use arguments are also completely inconsistent with the 8 practice of documentary filmmakers in general. The Estate is routinely contacted by 9 documentary filmmakers seeking to obtain licenses for Michael Jackson's works.
 10 When the Estate makes its own documentaries, it also routinely seeks and obtains 11 licenses before using copyrighted footage (including from Disney itself, as 12 discussed above).

13 19. Disney did not obtain a license for its extensive use of dozens of the 14 Estate's copyrighted works in The Last Days of Michael Jackson. Disney is 15 obviously aware of the copyright laws. Disney knows that permission from the 16 copyright owner must be obtained before using copyright works, particularly in 17 commercial projects like the one at issue here. Disney did not do that. Rather, it 18 engaged in flagrant and willful infringement of the Estate's copyrights. Through this 19 suit, the Estate seeks all appropriate redress for those violations of its rights.

20 PARTIES

21 20. Michael Jackson is one of the most famous entertainers, songwriters 22 and recording artists of all time. His 1982 album, Thriller, is the best-selling album 23 of all time. His other original, studio albums as an adult, solo artist—Off the Wall 24 (1979), Bad (1988), Dangerous (1991), HIStory (1995), and Invincible (2001)—are 25 all classics in their own right. Each was certified platinum several times over.

26 21. Michael Jackson also revolutionized music videos. His 1983 video for 27 the track, Thriller, is the greatest music video of all time. At one point, MTV was 28 playing it every hour, on the hour. In 1991, the video for Black or White premiered

1 on the Fox Network, with Fox earning its single largest audience ever up to that 2 date. Numerous other Michael Jackson music videos—Beat It, Billie Jean, Bad, 3 Smooth Criminal, Remember The Time, You Are Not Alone, Ghosts, Scream, and so 4 many others—are also classics in the genre.

5 22. In addition to all of this, Michael Jackson was among the greatest 6 dancers of all time. Even today, over three decades after he first performed it while 7 dancing to Billie Jean at Motown’s 25th anniversary special, the “moonwalk” is 8 probably the most well-known contemporary dance move in the world.

9 23. The plaintiffs are all companies that were wholly owned by the late 10 Michael Jackson at the time of his untimely death on June 25, 2009. Today, the 11 plaintiffs are all currently part of the corpus of real and personal properties 12 comprising the Estate of Michael Jackson.

13 a. Plaintiff MJJ Productions, Inc., is a California corporation with 14 its principal place of business in Los Angeles County. It was founded by 15 Michael Jackson and “loaned out” his services as a recording artist during his 16 lifetime. It is the sole owner of substantially all sound recordings created by 17 Michael Jackson as a solo, adult recording artist.

18 b. Plaintiff Optimum Productions, Inc. (“Optimum”), is a California 19 corporation with its principal place of business in Los Angeles County. It was 20 founded by the late Michael Jackson and “loaned out” his services as a 21 filmmaker during his lifetime. It holds copyright interests in films Michael 22 Jackson owned or produced (or both). Since Michael Jackson’s untimely 23 death in 2009, Optimum has continued to produce films, including 24 documentaries about Michael Jackson and his life, such as the critically-25 acclaimed Spike Lee documentaries Bad 25 (2012) and Michael Jackson’s
26 Journey from Motown to Off the Wall (2016).

27 c. Plaintiff New Horizons Trust III, LLC (“MIJAC”), is a Delaware 28 limited liability company that does business under the name MIJAC Music

1 with its principal place of business in Los Angeles County. MIJAC Music 2 owns copyrights in musical compositions that Michael Jackson wrote. It also 3 owns copyrights in musical compositions created by others that Michael 4 Jackson acquired throughout the years.

5 d. Plaintiff The Michael Jackson Company, LLC (“TMJC”), is a 6 Delaware limited liability company founded by the late Michael Jackson with 7 its principal place of business in Los Angeles County. It is the owner of the 8 copyright in the film This Is It, along with various other copyrights associated 9 with the film.

10 e. Plaintiff MJJ Ventures, Inc., is a California corporation founded 11 by the late Michael Jackson with its principal place of business in Los 12 Angeles County. It is the registrant of certain copyrighted works created in 13 whole or in part by the late Michael Jackson.

14 24. When unnecessary to distinguish between the plaintiffs, they are 15 referred to in this pleading simply as “the Estate.”

16 25. Defendant The Walt Disney Company is a Delaware corporation with 17 its principal place of business in Los Angeles County.

18 26. Defendant ABC, Inc. (“ABC”) is, on information and belief, a wholly-19 owned subsidiary of The Walt Disney Company. On information and belief, it is a 20 Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Los Angeles County.

21 27. Defendants DOES 1 through 10, inclusive, are individuals and entities 22 who were involved in, or were responsible in some manner for, some or all of the 23 acts of infringement alleged herein and liable to the Estate for those infringements.
24 The Estate will amend this complaint to state the true names and capacities of DOES 25 1 through 10 when their names and capacities, along with facts respecting their 26 responsibility for the infringements, have been ascertained.

28. Michael Jackson passed away, as a result of a homicide by his “doctor,” on June 25, 2009. He was just two months shy of his 51st birthday.

29. ABC aired The Last Days of Michael Jackson on March 24, 2018 at 8 p.m. and 7 p.m., Central Time. ABC included advertising between segments of The Last Days of Michael Jackson and was paid for such advertising.

30. ABC is currently making The Last Days of Michael Jackson available on the internet such that viewers may view the program on demand on personal computers, tablets, mobile devices, and internet enabled televisions.

31. On information and belief, ABC plans to re-air The Last Days of Michael Jackson on television in the future.

32. On information and belief, ABC is selling, or planning to sell, digital and physical copies of The Last Days of Michael Jackson.

33. On information and belief, ABC plans to license The Last Days of Michael Jackson to other television providers, both domestically and internationally.

34. As relevant to the production and airing of The Last Days of Michael Jackson, ABC was acting as an agent for The Walt Disney Company such that The Walt Disney Company is liable for ABC’s copyright infringement alleged herein. On information and belief, The Walt Disney Company exercises a high degree of control over ABC; there is an extraordinarily close relationship between The Walt Disney Company and ABC; there is an overlap in the officers and directors of The Walt Disney Company and ABC; and the revenues of ABC are a part of the revenues of The Walt Disney Company generally.

As relevant to the production and airing of The Last Days of Michael Jackson, The Walt Disney Company is also liable for ABC’s copyright infringement alleged herein pursuant to the doctrine of vicarious infringement. 1 of The Last Days of Michael Jackson, specifically. On information and belief, The 2 Walt Disney Company received a financial benefit from the production and airing of 4 36. As relevant to the production and airing of The Last Days of Michael 5 Jackson, The Walt Disney Company is also liable for ABC’s copyright infringement

6 alleged herein pursuant to the doctrine of contributory infringement. The Walt 7 Disney Company knew of ABC’s planned infringing activity with respect to the 8 production and airing of The Last Days of Michael Jackson. Its General Counsel 9 was sent numerous letters about the subject in the days prior to airing of the 10 program, and ignored the last two letters. On information and belief, the Walt 11 Disney Company, owner of ABC, knew of the alleged infringing activity, and 12 induced, caused, or materially contributed to the production and airing of The Last 13 Days of Michael Jackson.
