

Albert L. Modiano

Albert L. Modiano is President of US Oil & Gas Association in Washington, DC. The Association has over 4,500 members with Divisions in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Alabama and Mississippi.

Prior to joining the US Oil & Gas Association, Mr. Modiano served as Deputy Director of the Minerals Management Service, U.S. Department of the Interior. Mr. Modiano also served as an Office Director Oil Policy in the U.S. Department of Energy. His prior experience includes positions with the American Petroleum Institute, International Energy Agency, and Federal Energy Administration and as an energy legislative assistant to Senator Howard Metzenbaum.

Mr. Modiano received several awards and commendations while serving at the Department of the Interior, including the Secretary's Silver Medal.

Mr. Modiano has served on the Secretary of the Interior's Royalty Policy Advisory Committee and the Secretary of Energy's Ultra-Deepwater OCS Advisory Committee.

Mr. Modiano's publications include Energy Data of Developing Countries for IEA and "Energy Conservation in US Refineries" in Hydrocarbon Processing. For several years he penned a monthly "Washington Report" in publication published by and for the Texas oil and gas industry.

Mr. Modiano graduated Phi Beta Kappa and Cum Laude from Hobart College. He was a Hillman Fellow at the University of Chicago and also attended Harvard University.

Dear Ms. Oliver:

Pursuant to the notification published in the Federal Register regarding the establishment of a Royalty Policy Committee and the call for nominations to serve and provide advice to the Secretary of the Interior on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues derived from the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands, we support the nomination of Albert L. Modiano, President of the US Oil & Gas Association, to be on the Committee.

From our perspective as President of state oil and gas associations, the management of federal royalty policy often has implications for State royalty collection issues. We applaud the Secretary in seeking wide and knowledgeable individuals to be a forum for discussion of such issues.

Albert L. Modiano's background and expertise on royalty issues inside and outside of government will be an asset to the Secretary's Royalty Policy Committee.

Dear Ms. Oliver:

Pursuant to the notification published in the Federal Register regarding the establishment of a Royalty Policy Committee and the call for nominations to serve and provide advice to the Secretary of the Interior on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues derived from the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands: I nominate Albert L. Modiano.

Albert Modiano has over thirty years' experience working on federal, state and Indian royalty issue. He would make a significant contribution to the success of the Committee as a representative of oil and natural gas stakeholders regarding Federal and Indian royalty policy matters.

Albert Modiano worked on royalty issues as Senate staff member in the 1980s and again in the 1990s while he was Deputy Director of the Department of the Interior's Minerals Management Service. During his tenure at DOI/MMS the royalty collection program reported to him. Today he is the President of the US Oil & Gas Association with over 5,500 members engaged the development of energy and mineral resources, many of them, as lessees, operating on Federal and Indian lands. While MMS Deputy Director he was involved, on a daily basis, with all facets and issues of royalty collection and valuation issues. He participated in the development of royalty rulemakings, managed royalty disputes and settlements, participated in the Department's hearings and appeals process, communicated, worked with the Department of Justice on royalty issues in the courts and met often with states and tribal leaders regarding auditing, valuation and royalty collection issues and concerns.

Following his tenure at DOI, Albert Modiano continued to work on royalty issues in the private sector, working on royalty legislation having to do with royalty simplification, royalty-in-kind and other legislative measures where federal royalty policy was under consideration. He has testified before Congress and his expertise was sought by both Democrat and Republican presidential transition teams since 1996 seeking background of the federal government's royalty valuation and collection procedures and programs.

Albert Modiano received several awards and commendations while serving at the Department of the Interior, including the prestigious Secretary's Silver Medal.

The Honorable Ryan Zinke
Secretary of the Interior
U.S. Department of the Interior
1849 C Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20240

April 5, 2017

Dear Secretary Zinke:

Congratulations on your confirmation as the 52nd Secretary of the Interior. I am writing in response to your creation of a charter for a Royalty Policy Committee to advise the Department regarding royalties for natural resources extracted from federal lands. As an organization with a long track record of advocacy for the taxpayer's interest in federal natural resources, I would like to request that Taxpayers for Common Sense (TCS) be appointed to the Committee.

TCS is a national, non-partisan budget watchdog organization that promotes sound fiscal policy across the federal government. Since 1995, we have actively worked to ensure that taxpayers receive a fair return on all resources extracted or developed on federal lands and waters, including hardrock minerals, oil and gas, coal, wind and solar projects. We have no objection to the development of federal natural resources, but we believe that as the rightful owners, taxpayers are entitled to fair market compensation for the resources extracted from our lands and waters, just like any private landowner.

Natural resources extracted from federal lands and waters provide great benefit to the country, including valuable revenue for the federal coffers, but any development or mining on federal lands and waters must also be conducted in a manner that protects taxpayers' interests. Broad principles that protect the taxpayers in the operation of these programs include increasing transparency, decreasing federal liabilities, and ensuring fair return on federally owned assets. Specific program elements that must be shaped to safeguard taxpayer interests include applying and collecting appropriate fees, rents, and royalties in exchange for access to public resources and requiring fiscal guarantees that prevent the taxpayers from bearing long-term liabilities created by such access, like clean-up or mitigation costs.

I enclose a copy of TCS' comments on the Office of Natural Resources Revenue's oil, gas and coal valuation rule, and the Bureau of Land Management's wind and solar leasing rule. Please let me know if I can provide any further information regarding TCS and our interest in assisting your policy review as a member of the Royalty Policy Committee.

Sincerely,

Re: Nomination for Royalty Policy Committee Membership, Docket No. ONRR-2012-0003, 82 Fed. Reg. 16222 (April 3, 2017)

Dear Mr. Secretary:

The American Petroleum Institute (“API”) supports your decision to re-establish the Royalty Policy Committee (RPC) Federal Advisory Committee. The RPC has previously served as an effective forum for open engagement on royalty and revenue issues and provides an opportunity for all stakeholders to work with the ONRR in its efforts to improve and strengthen the royalty collection program.

API represents over 625 oil and natural gas companies, leaders of a technology-driven industry that supplies most of America’s energy, supports more than 9.8 million jobs and 8 percent of the U.S. economy, and, since 2000, has invested nearly $2 trillion in U.S. capital projects to advance all forms of energy, including alternatives. The industry has paid more than 150 billion dollars in royalty revenues to the federal treasury.

API would like to submit the following nominees as member and alternate to represent API and its members on the Department of the Interior’s Royalty Policy Committee (RPC):

- Member Nominee: Emily Hague
Senior Policy Advisor
Upstream and Industry Operations
American Petroleum Institute hague@api.org
202-682-8260

- Alternate Nominee: Erik Milito
Director
Upstream and Industry Operations
American Petroleum Institute
militoe@api.org
202-682-8273

The Honorable Ryan K. Zinke

Ms. Hague is a Senior Policy Advisor with the American Petroleum Institute in Washington, DC, with a focus on royalty matters, oil spill response and other upstream issues. She staffs the API Royalty Subcommittee and works to advance public policy on behalf of API Industry members that positively impacts royalty issues. She has also worked extensively with the Department of Interior's U.S. Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (USEITI) Multi-Stakeholder Group (MSG) Federal Advisory Committee serving as a liaison to the USEITI Industry Sector. Prior to joining API, Ms. Hague worked at the Department of the Interior as a program analyst with ONRR's predecessor, the Minerals Management Service (MMS). During her tenure with MMS, she helped implement major reform of the previous Royalty Policy Committee, coordinating implementation by the Agency of 110 recommendations made by the Subcommittee on Royalty Management. She also analyzed royalty appeals and designed and evaluated policies for onshore and offshore energy activities including alternative energy issues.

Mr. Milito is the director of Upstream and Industry Operations for the American Petroleum Institute. His work covers regulatory and legislative matters related to domestic exploration and production, including access to domestic oil and natural gas resources both onshore and offshore. He has also worked as a career attorney with the Solicitor's Office of the U.S. Department of the Interior, focusing on royalties, employment law, and disability access issues.

Thank you for considering the API nomination of Emily Hague and Erik Milito to represent industry interests on the Royalty Policy Committee. Also enclosed is additional biographical information for each of our nominees. Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

SUMMARY

Kwame Awuah-Offei is currently an associate professor of mining engineering at Missouri University of Science & Technology. He recently served as a mining engineering academic fellow for the US Securities & Exchange Commission and is currently a consultant to the Commission on mining property disclosure issues. He holds a PhD from University of Missouri-Rolla (UMR). A major part of his PhD work was done at the University of Alberta, Canada. He holds a BS (Hons) from the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science & Technology, Ghana. He has over 14 years of research, teaching and industry experience. Dr. Awuah-Offei's research interests include modeling and optimization of mining systems, and design and management of sustainable mining systems.

His total research funding is over $24.5m ($3m by percent effort). He has published 39 peer-reviewed journal papers and 27 papers in conference proceedings. He has graduated four PhD and four MS students. He has also successfully mentored two post-doctoral fellows. He currently advises two PhD students. He has worked in surface gold mining and aggregates operations. In his current role, he teaches (or has taught in the past) graduate and undergraduate mining engineering courses on Environmental Aspects of Mining, Surveying for Mineral Engineers, Surface Mine Design, Geostatistics & Ore Reserve Analysis, Computer-Aided Mine Design, Simulation of Mining Systems, and Optimization Applications in Mining. Dr. Awuah-Offei is a nationally active member of the Society of Mining, Metallurgy and Exploration (SME), a member of the Society of Mining Professors, and a fellow of the West African Institute of Mining, Metallurgy & Petroleum (WAIMM). He is a past chair of the SME Sustainable Development Committee.

ACADEMIC EXPERIENCE

- PhD in Mining Engineering; University of Missouri-Rolla (UMR), Rolla, MO, USA (2006)
 - Dissertation: Dynamic Modeling of Cable Shovel-Formation Interactions for Efficient Oil Sands Excavation
 - Advisor: Dr. Samuel Frimpong
- PhD Candidate in Mining Engineering, University of Alberta, Edmonton, Canada (2002-2004, Transferred to UMR)
- BS (Hons) in Mining Engineering, Kwame Nkrumah Univ. of Science & Tech. (KNUST), Kumasi, Ghana (1997-2001)
 - Honors Thesis: Predicting Equipment Requirements Using SIMAN Simulation - A Case Study of the Damang Gold Mine
 - Advisor: Dr. Victor A. Temeng

WORK EXPERIENCE

Missouri University of Science & Technology, Rolla, MO (09/2013-Date)

Associate Professor

Responsibilities are to:

- Teach graduate and undergraduate mining engineering courses including surface mine design, computer-aided mine design, environmental aspects of mining, geostatistics and optimization applications in mining.
- Conduct funded research, which includes successfully attracting grants and contracts to support the research effort (including supporting graduate students) and disseminating the research results through peer-reviewed publications and other media.
- Provide appropriate level of service to the University, Department, and my academic and professional communities.

United States Securities & Exchange Commission, Washington, DC (02/2015-08/2016)

Mining Engineering Academic Fellow

Served as technical lead to review the Commission's rules on mining property disclosure rules contained in Regulation S-K and Industry Guide 7 and propose new rules, if appropriate. Also, to provide technical advice to the Commission's staff to propose and adopt Rule 13q-1 and an amendment to Form SD to implement Section 1504 of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act relating to disclosure of payments by resource extraction issuers. Key achievements include:

- Worked with Commission staff to draft adopting release titled "Disclosure of Payments by Resource Extraction Issuers" (Release No. 34-76620); and
- Worked with Commission staff to propose mining property disclosure rules in a release titled "Modernization of Property Disclosures for Mining Registrants" (Release Nos. 33-10098; 34-78086).

Missouri University of Science & Technology, Rolla, MO (09/2007-08/2013)

Assistant Professor

Responsibilities were the same as current responsibilities. Key achievements include:

- Successfully tenured with unanimous support at each stage of review;
- Led the effort to transform undergraduate and graduate education mine planning and design; and
- Contributed to increasing the Departments productivity with a consistent publication and citation record.

Granite Construction, Inc. (NYSE: GVA), Sacramento, CA (01/2006-08/2007)

Mine Planning Engineer (05/2007-08/2007)

Responsible for developing medium-, and long-range mine plans for new projects, acquisitions and existing operations. Key achievements include:

- Successfully developed long range mine plans for senior management and subsequent Board approval for new development.
- Implemented innovative sand and gravel pit optimization and mine scheduling model, which was later well received at a conference by peers.

Plant Engineer (01/2006-04/2007)

Responsible for planning, directing, and coordinating activities concerned with the design, construction, modification, and maintenance of aggregate processing equipment and machinery at 40+ locations in the Western US; evaluating capital expenditure requests and recommending appropriate actions to the VP for Construction Materials; planning and establishing sequences of operations to schedule and track plant production and maintenance; recommend and implement methods for process improvements; prepare reports and budgets to determine standards and establish quality and reliability objectives of finished products; ensure workforce safety and monitor for environmental compliance; and estimate and manage plant products. Key achievements include:

- Successful management of ~$1m overland-conveyor belt extension.
- Design & implementation of secure asset tracking system for managing portable processing plant equipment deployed on company intranet.
- Produced the technical review of Handley Ranch Quarry water-use evaluation to defend the company against lawsuit arising out of permitting process.

University of Missouri-Rolla, Rolla, MO (01/2005-12/2005)

Graduate Research/Teaching Assistant

Conducted original research on, Dynamic Modeling of Cable Shovel-Formation Interactions For Efficient Oil Sands Excavation; and served as teaching assistant for surface mining course.

University of Alberta, Edmonton, AB, Canada (09/2002-12/2004)

Graduate Research/Teaching Assistant

Conducted original research, on Dynamic Modeling of Cable Shovel-Formation Interactions For Efficient Oil Sands Excavation, in collaboration with other researchers; and served as teaching assistant for surface mining and underground mining courses.

University of Mines & Technology, Tarkwa, Ghana (09/2001-08/2002)

Teaching Assistant, National Service Person

Served as teaching assistant for capstone design project – providing computing support for students during this process; and assisted in managing the University's internet-café.

African Mining Services (Ghana) Pty. Ltd., Tarkwa, Ghana (06/2000-06/2001)Mining Engineering Intern

Worked as the principal modeler under the supervision of Dr. V. Amoako Temeng to build a simulation model for the load and haul operations of the Damang Gold Mine. The resulting simulation model was favorably received by management and was subsequently published to highlight the novel techniques used. Designed and implemented a data acquisition program to acquire model input data.

TEACHING HIGHLIGHTS

Missouri University of Science & Technology

- Six departmental and university-level teaching awards
- One undergraduate course in 2007/2008; Three undergraduate courses offered each of 2008/2009 to 2010/2011 academic years; two undergraduate courses offered 2011/2012.
- Four graduate courses offered since 2007.
- Semester average of student evaluations of teaching effectiveness consistently above departmental and university averages.

Graduate Teaching Assistantships

Graduate teaching assistantship positions in three institutions in three countries – University of Mines & Technology, Tarkwa, Ghana; University of Alberta, Edmonton, Canada, University of Missouri-Rolla, Rolla, US.

AWARDS

- 2016 Carnegie African Diaspora Fellow
- 2015 US Securities & Exchange Commission Mining Engineering Academic Fellow
- 2014 Missouri University of Science & Technology Global Learning Teaching Commendation
- 2013 Missouri S&T Mines & Metallurgy Academy Outstanding Junior Faculty Award
- 2012/2013 Missouri University of Science & Technology Outstanding Teaching Award

SUMMARY

Kwame Awuah-Offei is currently an associate professor of mining engineering at Missouri University of Science & Technology. He recently served as a mining engineering academic fellow for the US Securities & Exchange Commission (SEC) and is currently a consultant to the Commission on mining property disclosure issues. He holds a PhD from University of Missouri-Rolla (UMR). A major part of his PhD work was done at the University of Alberta, Canada. He holds a BS (Hons) from the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science & Technology, Ghana. He has over 14 years of research, teaching and industry experience. Dr. Awuah-Offei's research interests include modeling and optimization of mining systems, and design and management of sustainable mining systems.

His total research funding is over $24.5m ($3m by percent effort). He has published 39 peer-reviewed journal papers and 27 papers in conference proceedings. He has worked in surface gold mining and aggregates operations. He teaches (or has taught in the past) graduate and undergraduate mining engineering courses on Environmental Aspects of Mining, Surveying for Mineral Engineers, Surface Mine Design, Geostatistics & Ore Reserve Analysis, Computer-Aided Mine Design, Simulation of Mining Systems, and Optimization Applications in Mining. Dr. Awuah-Offei is a nationally active member of the Society of Mining, Metallurgy and Exploration (SME), a member of the Society of Mining Professors, and a fellow of the West African Institute of Mining, Metallurgy & Petroleum (WAIMM). He is a past chair of the SME Sustainable Development Committee.

- Worked with SEC staff to draft adopting release titled "Disclosure of Payments by Resource Extraction Issuers" (Release No. 34-76620)
- Played a critical role in drafting the SEC proposed rule # 33-10098 ("Modernization of Property Disclosures for Mining Registrants"). I worked with SEC staff to draft the proposed rule for the Commission's consideration and adoption. Currently, working with SEC staff (as consultant) to revise proposed rules for the Commissions' consideration.
- Significant industry experience in industrial minerals feasibility studies which include 2 years as an engineer in the corporate office of Granite Construction Inc. (NYSE: GVA) working on new mine projects and continuous improvement of existing mines.
- Exposure to gold mining, through 1-year internship at Goldfields' Damang Mine, Ghana, and to coal mining through two projects funded by the Illinois Clean Coal Institute to assist Illinois coal mines (one underground one surface) to improve operations.
- Exposure to oil sands mining through PhD research at University of Alberta, Canada.

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

Missouri University of Science & Technology, Rolla, MO (09/2013-Date)

Associate Professor

Responsibilities are to:

- Teach graduate and undergraduate mining engineering courses including surface mine design, environmental aspects of mining, geostatistics, simulation of mining systems, and optimization applications in mining.
- Conduct funded research, which includes successfully attracting grants and contracts to support the research effort (including supporting graduate students) and disseminating the research results through peer-reviewed publications and other media.
- Mentor untenured faculty in mining engineering assigned by Department Chair.
- Provide appropriate level of service to the University, Department, and my academic and professional communities.

Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, DC (02/2015-08/2016)

Mining Engineering Academic Fellow

Responsibilities are to work with SEC staff to review existing mining disclosure regulations and propose new rules for the Commission's consideration. I played a key role in the drafting proposed rules, which were officially proposed, for public comment, by the Commission.

Missouri University of Science & Technology, Rolla, MO (09/2007-08/2013)

Assistant Professor

Responsibilities were to:

- Teach graduate and undergraduate mining engineering courses including surface mine design, computer-aided mine design, environmental aspects of mining, geostatistics and optimization applications in mining.
- Conduct funded research, which includes successfully attracting grants and contracts to support the research effort (including supporting graduate students) and disseminating the research results through peer-reviewed publications and other media.
- Provide appropriate level of service to the University, Department, and my academic and professional communities.

Granite Construction, Inc. (NYSE: GVA), Sacramento, CA (01/2006-08/2007)

Mine Planning Engineer (05/2007-08/2007)

I was responsible for developing medium-, and long-range mine plans for feasibility studies of new projects and acquisitions and continuous improvement of existing operations. Key achievements include:

- Successfully developed long range mine plans for senior management and subsequent Board approval for new development.
- Implemented innovative sand and gravel pit optimization and mine scheduling model, which was later well received at a conference by peers.

Plant Engineer (01/2006-04/2007)

I was responsible for planning, directing, and coordinating activities concerned with the design, construction, modification, and maintenance of aggregate processing equipment and machinery at 40+ locations in the Western US; evaluating capital expenditure requests and recommending appropriate actions to the VP for Construction Materials; planning and establishing sequences of operations to schedule and track plant production and maintenance; recommend and implement methods for process improvements; prepare reports and budgets to determine standards and establish quality and reliability objectives of finished products; ensure workforce safety and monitor for environmental compliance; and estimate and manage plant products. Key achievements include:

- Successful management of ~$1m overland-conveyor belt extension.
- Design & implementation of secure asset tracking system for managing portable processing plant equipment deployed on company intranet.
- Produced the technical review of Handley Ranch Quarry water-use evaluation to defend the company against lawsuit arising out of permitting process.

University of Missouri-Rolla, Rolla, MO (01/2005-12/2005)

Graduate Research/Teaching Assistant

Conducted original research on, Dynamic Modeling of Cable Shovel-Formation Interactions for Efficient Oil Sands Excavation; and served as teaching assistant for surface mining course.

University of Alberta, Edmonton, AB, Canada (09/2002-12/2004)

Graduate Research/Teaching Assistant

Conducted original research, on Dynamic Modeling of Cable Shovel-Formation Interactions for Efficient Oil Sands Excavation, in collaboration with other researchers; and served as teaching assistant for surface mining and underground mining courses.

University of Mines & Technology, Tarkwa, Ghana (09/2001-08/2002)

Teaching Assistant, National Service Person

I served as teaching assistant for capstone design project – providing computing support for students during this process; and assisted in managing the University’s internet-café.

African Mining Services (Ghana) Pty. Ltd., Tarkwa, Ghana (06/2000-06/2001)

Mining Engineering Intern

I was the principal modeler under the supervision of Dr. V. Amoako Temeng to build a simulation model for the load and haul operations of the Damang Gold Mine. The resulting simulation model was favorably received by management and was subsequently published to highlight the novel techniques used. I designed and implemented the data acquisition program to acquire model input data.

Recommendations for the Royalty Policy Committee (ONRR-2012-0003)

Dear Kim,

I have been involved with COPAS and the handling of Federal and Indian royalties for over 20 years, and during that time I have participated in all major ONRR (MMS) and USEITI initiatives, and have participated and/or facilitated comments to all ONRR (MMS) Federal Register Notices for which COPAS commented on. I have also served as a COPAS alternate on previous Royalty Policy Committees (RPC), and actively participate on various RPC subcommittee groups.

With that said, I have known and worked with Rebecca Paris and Jeremy Norton for many years, and have worked with them on both the development of COPAS's comments to various Federal Register Notices, and on the development of questions/issues for the PASO Federal and Indian Royalty Compliance Workshops.

Based upon Jeremy's and Rebecca's knowledge, experience, and involvement in Federal royalty issues, and my personal working experience with them, I strongly recommend they be selected as COPAS's representatives on the re-established Royalty Policy Committee. If you have any questions regarding our comments, please contact me at (918) 661-4381.

Sincerely,

Robert O. Wilkinson

Good evening,

Doug Burgum, governor of North Dakota, would like to nominate to the Royalty Policy Committee lieutenant governor Brent Sanford, with Lynn Helms as an alternate.

Brent Sanford, both as lieutenant governor and former mayor of the city most impacted by oil development in the state, is uniquely positioned to provide both state policy and local experience perspectives. He is widely considered an expert in energy policy across the state. Lynn Helms is the Director of the Department of Mineral Resources, possessing a wealth of information and leadership on the safe development of North Dakota's resources. If there is any additional information I can provide, please let me know. Thank you.

Levi Bachmeier

Policy Advisor

Office of the Governor

701.200.0586 (c)

701.328.1048 (w)

lebachmeier@nd.gov

Brent Sanford was elected North Dakota's 38th lieutenant governor on November 8, 2016, and took office on December 15, 2016.

A Watford City native and third-generation business owner, Sanford served as mayor of his hometown from 2010 to 2016 and as a city councilman for four years before that.

Sanford brings a strong background in business and finance to the lieutenant governor's office, coupled with a deep understanding of the importance of local control and the need to keep property taxes low.

Under his leadership as mayor, Watford City experienced a period of rapid expansion that saw its population skyrocket from about 1,500 to 7,000 amid the state's oil boom. Major investments were made in community infrastructure, including a new high school, events center, airport terminal, hospital and law enforcement center, all while limiting property tax increases to 3 or 4 percent.

Sanford earned a degree in accounting from the University of North Dakota in 1994 and is a certified public accountant. He worked at Eide Bailly in Fargo for eight years before being hired as chief financial officer for Transwest Trucks, a multi-location truck dealership, financing and manufacturing operation with more than 400 employees headquartered in Brighton, Colorado.

In November 2004, Sanford became owner and president of S & S Motors in Watford City, an auto dealership founded by his grandfather in 1946. He steered the stagnant former Ford dealership to 10 consecutive years of sales increases and created a unique custom vehicle procurement service in an isolated western North Dakota community.

As a board member with the McKenzie County Job Development Authority, Sanford helped the region manage the economic swings of the Bakken oil play. He also is a founding board member of a community-owned nonprofit that established a 62-unit affordable housing complex for essential service workers and a 190-child daycare facility to help meet the area's workforce and childcare needs.

As lieutenant governor, Sanford serves as president of the state Senate, leads the North Dakota Trade Office and chairs the State Investment Board, the Capitol Grounds Planning Commission, the Higher Education Challenge Fund Commission, the Early Childhood Education Council and the Northern Plains Unmanned Aircraft Systems Authority.

Sanford and his wife, Sandi, have three children, Sydney, Nicolas and Erin.

Governor Bill Walker
STATE OF ALASKA

May 24, 2017

The Honorable Ryan K. Zinke
Secretary
U.S. Department of the Interior
1849 C Street NW
Washington, DC 20240

Dear Secretary Zinke:

Thank you for notifying me of your action to establish the Royalty Policy Committee (RPC) and providing the opportunity to submit nominations for primary and alternate RPC members. I am pleased to offer my nomination of Lieutenant Governor Byron Mallott to serve as a primary member and a nomination of John Crowther to serve as an alternate on behalf of the State of Alaska.

As an Alaska Native, in years of leadership of the Sealaska Corporation, and now on behalf of the State Lieutenant Governor Mallott has long expertise in the areas of resource development, renewable energy resources, and the potential impacts of proposed policies and regulations. Likewise, John Crowther has served the State working for the Alaska Department of Natural resources for a number of years, and he is an extremely knowledgeable source on all things related to Alaska's mineral and energy resources. We will be putting his expertise to work in my Washington DC office to make sure Alaska's interests in these areas are well-represented, as the ability to develop our significant natural resources is paramount to our success as a state.

I look forward to the benefits of the meaningful and valuable work of the Royalty Policy Committee, and appreciate your full consideration of my nominees.

Sincerely,

Lt. Governor Mallott Biography

Governor Bill Walker and Lt. Governor Byron Mallott took office in December of 2014 as the first non-partisan administration in Alaska history. They are also the first Alaska-born Governor and Lt. Governor to serve together.

Byron Mallott was born in Yakutat, the ancestral home of his mother's Tlingit clan. Yakutat remains the voting residence of the Lt. Governor and his wife Toni, who was born and raised in the Athabascan village of Rampart on the Yukon River. Together they have raised their blended family of five children. Their eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild live close by – a true blessing.

Mallott entered public life as mayor of Yakutat at age 22 and has since held many positions of responsibility in the public, private and non-profit sectors. He has served as the state's first commissioner of community and regional affairs under Governor Bill Egan; president of the Alaska Federation of Natives; founding president of the First Alaskans Institute; trustee, chair and executive director of the Alaska Permanent Fund Corporation; and chair of the Nature Conservancy of Alaska.

In the private sector, Mallott has served as chair, president and CEO of Sealaska Corporation; served on the board of Alaska Air Group, and Bank of America subsidiary boards in Washington and Alaska; and as a director of the U.S. Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco. Mallott has also been a small business owner and commercial fisherman.

Mallott says his proudest service is as clan leader of the Tlingit Raven Kwaash Kee Kwaan Clan of Yakutat.

The Mallott's spend as much time as possible with their children and grandchildren. They enjoy birding, hiking, fishing and boating in Alaska's incredible outdoors, and traveling to visit friends and discover new places.

Re: Royalty Policy Committee

Secretary Zinke,

Thank you for the letter dated April 26, 2017 concerning the establishment of a "Royalty Policy Committee". The Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma and the tribal members own a substantial amount of oil and gas interest. Also, Congratulations on your appointment to lead the Department of the Interior.

According to the letter, you are accepting nominations for members to serve on the committee. The objective and scope of activities will be beneficial to the Tribe as well as our Choctaw members.

I would like to nominate Mr. Charles E. Robertson as our delegate to the committee. Mr. Robertson has over 36 years of experience in dealing with Indian oil and gas revenues. He retired from the Bureau of Indian Affairs and Minerals Management Service with over 30 years of employment. He started his own consulting firm that deals strictly with Indian Minerals Consulting. He is also the Executive Director of the Arkansas Riverbed Authority. The Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma has contracted with Mr. Robertson to handle our Minerals Division. His resume is attached. Please consider him as a valuable member to this committee.

I would like the opportunity to meet with you at your convenience. Please call my office if your schedule permits.

Sincerely,

Chief Gary Batton

Education: Northeastern State University
Tahlequah, Oklahoma
B.S. - May 1969

Present Position: Director - Five Civilized Tribes Mineral Consulting, Inc.

Work History: Minerals Management Service
Program Analyst 1999-2002

Resolved oil and gas related problems and/or issues brought by Indian Tribal representatives or by individual Indian mineral owners. Utilized automated tools, retrieved and analyzed data, identified problems and worked with other interior Agencies and royalty payers, as applicable, to initiate a corrective action. Responsible for coordinating and conducting outreach meetings for the benefit of Indian mineral owners including Tribal governments. Meetings provided education and advice for the mineral owners on issues regarding all aspects of their oil and gas leases.

Bureau of Indian Affairs
Realty Officer 1971-1999

Set Up the Inherited Minerals Resources Office, to assist heirs affected by the 1947 Act.

Started the Outreach Program for the B.I.A. Muskogee Area Office, Mineral Department.

Appraised mineral interests of Individual Indians of the FCT, for sales through District Court, pursuant to the Act of August 4, 1947.

Manager of the Minerals Program responsible for planning, organizing, directing, and controlling all aspects involved in the leasing of individual and tribal restricted lands of the Five Civilized Tribes. Responsibility included resolving critical or unusual problems for a broad range of complex realty projects.

Served as a technical authority regarding the laws, regulations, and policies affecting tribes under Muskogee Area's jurisdiction. This included the Osage and Miami Agency Tribes. Duties included consultation as to the status of the tribes property holdings to determine if the property in question was trust, allotted, inherited, restricted, unrestricted, and/or taxable or non-taxable.

Responsible for the conservation and development of oil, gas, sand, gravel, and other mineral deposits on individual Indian and tribal-owned lands. Responsible for the mineral deposits on the Arkansas Riverbed for the direct benefit of the Cherokee, Choctaw, and Chickasaw Tribes.

Established quarterly meetings to provide updates of pending court cases, royalties received, new lease recommendations, and to answer questions the tribes had regarding their property. Directed the coordination between various governmental agencies involved in the quarterly meeting project in order to bring together the government agencies in one location for the Individual Indians and Tribes convenience and benefit. This required in-depth knowledge of sub-surface leasing regulations, laws, directives, policies, and guidelines and the ability to apply the governing rules, and regulations.

Provided technical assistance to the agencies' land resources personnel, Arkansas Riverbed Authority, tribal contract personnel, tribal officials, tribal councils, self-governance tribes, individual tribal members, branches of the BIA, MMS, BLM, OTFM, and other branches of Government, private industry, and the general public on matters concerning the minerals leasing program. Started outreach meetings, and seminars, to inform and educate as required. This required an in-depth knowledge of regulations, procedural directives, and policies with respect to oil and gas royalty collection, distribution, and accountability.

Work involved various types of real property interest in forty-one (41) counties in Oklahoma with checkerboard ownership covering over a million acres. Title and land ownership dates back several generations and title transfers are often undocumented. These problems required thorough research to make conclusive determination, which must stand scrutiny under legal proceedings and court testimony.

Thoroughly familiar with Federal and State Statutes; United States Code Annotated; Code of Federal Regulations; Departmental BIA, MMS, BLM, and OTFM Manuals; Secretarial directives; policies; procedural directives; Solicitor's opinions; Court Cases and established criteria dealing with the Five Civilized Tribes.

Special Task Force: Four Corners Trust Services Laboratory Team: Appointed by Vice-President Al Gore to evaluate, re engineer, and streamline bureau processes in the Farmington, New Mexico Indian Minerals Office in 1996. This led to improved fulfillment of the Department's fiduciary responsibility to Navajo allottees.

Chair of the Arkansas Riverbed Federal Negotiation Team: Appointed by Deputy Secretary of the Interior to facilitate and negotiated a resolution and settlement to a long-standing dispute involving United States Government and various Indian Tribes regarding the Arkansas Riverbed.

Services Provided: Customized Royalty Report: Breakout of MMS Financial Distribution Report (FDR) into monthly reports, showing Tribe's share of royalty from a lease, with total income for a particular month or year. (TRIBES ONLY)

Re: Royalty Policy Committee; Nomination of Christopher Adam Red

Dear Ms. Oliver:

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe supports Secretary of the Interior Ryan E. Zinke's reestablishment of the Royalty Policy Committee as an advisory body on policies and regulatory approaches related to mineral development and royalty collection on Federal and Indian lands.

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe has been actively involved in natural gas leasing and development on our lands since the late 1940s. Over that time, the Tribe has evolved from the role of passive royalty owner to also being a significant working interest owner and operator. Through direct experience, we understand how prudent energy development can serve as a financial engine for maintaining tribes as institutions and for improving the lives of tribal members.

Over the last three decades, our diversified energy activities have expanded well beyond the Southern Ute Indian Reservation, and through our divisions and affiliates, our energy assets and operations are now found throughout the Rocky Mountain and Mid-continent regions, as well as offshore in the deep Gulf of Mexico. As an Indian mineral lessor, as a lessee of Federal minerals, and as a tribal government and steward, our interests and perspectives are unique.

For those reasons, we are nominating Christopher A. "Adam" Red to become a member of the RPC. Adam has served the Southern Ute Indian Tribe for over twenty years in various capacities. Adam serves as a Member of the Southern Ute Indian Tribal Council. Prior to his election, Adam spent over ten years as a GIS Specialist in the Southern Ute Growth Fund's Department of Energy. As a tribal member, a longtime tribal employee, and now, a tribal official, Adam has experienced firsthand the significant and positive impact of energy development. In particular, through his work at the Southern Ute Growth Fund, Adam has gained extensive knowledge about the Southern Ute Indian Tribe's mineral resources and he has built solid foundation of mineral resource development experience, including familiarity with the auditing process, severance tax, royalties, and the Tribe's relationship with the Office of Natural Resources Revenue. As his attached resume demonstrates, Adam is a strong supporter of Indian energy development and we urge Secretary Zinke to appoint Adam to the RPC.

In conclusion, we look forward to working with Secretary Zinke and other officials within the Department of the Interior in addressing the interests and needs of Indian country. Your consideration of our request is appreciated.

Sincerely,

Clement J. Frost, Chairman

Dear Secretary Zinke,

Recently, you reestablished the Royalty Policy Committee (RPC)—an effort we support. Although it is a discretionary advisory committee, it can be a valuable resource when filled with experienced and well-rounded members of the business community. Mr. Christopher Friez of Bismarck, North Dakota is one of those valuable resources.

We write to express our support for the appointment of Mr. Friez to the RPC. As Vice President of North American Coal Royalty Company and manager of the Land Office, Mr. Friez oversees the mineral leasing, lease maintenance, title and land acquisition operations for North American Coal and its subsidiaries across seven states. Prior to working for North American Coal, Mr. Friez was a practicing attorney specializing in title examination and all aspects of mineral and natural resource exploration and development, serving numerous clients involved in the energy industry, particularly coal, oil, and gas.

Mr. Friez also serves or has served on committees of the local Chamber of Commerce, is a board member of the Bismarck Public Schools Foundation, and is a member of the North Dakota Bar, the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation, and the North Dakota Lignite Energy Council. In addition, Mr. Friez has authored articles on legal developments in the oil and gas industry, has been a frequent speaker at seminars on the topic of oil and gas and energy issues, and was a former adjunct instructor for a class titled Government Regulations in the Energy Industry.

Mr. Friez's vast knowledge of private, state and federal mineral leasing and royalty policy, in addition to his well-rounded professional experience are perfectly suited for the RPC. We believe that Mr. Friez would be an invaluable asset as the RPC advises the Department of the Interior in fulfilling its mission to ensure that the taxpayer receive full return on the natural resources entrusted to the federal government for production.

Based on these qualifications, Mr. Friez would serve as a valuable member of the RPC and we hope that he will receive your favorable consideration.

Re: State of Wyoming's nomination to the Royalty Policy Committee

Dear Secretary Zinke,

I nominate my energy and natural resources policy advisor Colin McKee as my representative to the Royalty Policy Committee. Wyoming receives more than $10 million annually in federal mineral royalty revenues. If Wyoming is selected to be on the Committee, Colin is highly qualified to represent me.

Colin would be an asset to the Committee. Wyoming generates more federal mineral royalties than any other state, over $1.2 billion in 2016. These revenues are generated from coal, natural gas, oil, trona, carbon dioxide and other resources. Colin will bring Wyoming's perspective and expertise to the group.

Colin played an integral role in implementing my 2013 Energy Strategy. This strategy addressed economic development, natural resource conservation, innovation and education – key components of an effective plan for energy and the environment in Wyoming and for the nation. Colin continues to be a thought leader in this area and is currently working on the implementation of the 2016 version of the Energy Strategy.

Colin is, in addition, my liaison to the Northern Arapaho and Eastern Shoshone Indian tribes and local government. He has developed strong relationships with these groups. They know they can count on Colin for accurate advice, solutions to any issue and follow through.

During the last six years, Colin has responded to federal regulations aimed at the nation's coal and utility industries and tracked the progress and results. He has substantiated the defects in many of these federal proposals and at the same time offered solutions to address the issue identified.

Wyoming prides itself on providing the energy the nation needs and on responsible stewardship of natural resources. Wyoming's participation on this Committee will bring about policies that work for the nation and that work for a state that has so much at stake in the policies implemented by the Department of the Interior. Colin McKee will be an effective, proactive member of the team.

Thank you for your consideration. Please let me know if I can be of further assistance.

Sincerely,

Matthew H. Mead

Recommendations for the Royalty Policy Committee (ONRR-2012-0003)

Dear Kim,

I have been national revenue chair for COPAS going on two years now, additionally I have been active in the Federal/Tribal reporting space for 7 years as a supervisor and manager for a midsize E&P. I have been actively working in the oil and gas space for 12 years now and know what is required to work with agencies and across organizational departments. Additionally, discussion with long-time COPAS members and those active in the space for many years COPAS would like to formally nominate Rebecca Paris of WPX and Jeremy Norton of Devon Energy to the Royalty Policy Committee.

I have worked with Rebecca through PASO, COPAS and local meetings related to oil and gas reporting requirements related to Federal and Tribal minerals. Her diligence and passion is impressive, as is her ability to learn quickly. She has been active in providing comments through COPAS to numerous issues impacting Federal and Tribal reporting over the last several years. She understand the oil and gas business and ONRR objectives, she also understands the nuances associated with field operations that have the potential to impact reporting. She would be a great asset to the RPC.

Jeremy Norton of Devon Energy is passionate about correctly reporting production and royalties he also understands in great detail the issues facing reporters and has great ideas on how to possibly simplify, streamline and improve the reporting process both for producers and ONRR. You will find he is enthusiastic about working with ONRR and developing better reporting guidelines for industry going forward in the hopes of improving resource utilization for both producers and ONRR.

Based upon Jeremy's and Rebecca's knowledge, experience, and involvement in Federal royalty issues, and my personal working experience with them, I strongly recommend they be selected as COPAS's representatives on the re-established Royalty Policy Committee. If you have any questions regarding our comments, please contact me at (918) 877-0792.

Please find their enclosed resumes and additional letters of recommendation for your consideration and approval.

Sincerely,

Trey Thee

Ms. Kim Oliver
Office of Natural Resources Revenue
Department of the Interior
1849 C Street NW, MS 5134
Washington, DC 20240

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I would like to nominate myself for the Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee. I believe I possess the necessary experience, education and knowledge to be an active and contributing member of the committee.

I have over 35 years of professional experience in energy-related businesses. This includes a decade each with a major coal producing company and a major US railroad, as well as several years of engineering work and coal analysis with two different electric utilities. These positions have given me a broad understanding of the US energy industry from the perspectives of a mining extractor, a coal transporter, and an end user of our country's vital energy resources.

My current position allows me perhaps the greatest opportunity to contribute to this endeavour. I'm Research Director for Wood Mackenzie, an international research and consulting firm, that specializes in analyzing the energy and mining industries. One of my key roles is serving as our firm's expert on the Powder River Basin, Alaska, and US Western Bituminous coal regions, where I track mine costing, geology, valuations and local fiscal tax regimes. A part of my effort includes tracking and analysing royalty and tax policies of resource extraction on Federal and Indian lands.

I have been to every major coal producing region in the US, and have also visited resource production centers in various countries of the world including Canada, Colombia, Australia, Poland and Russia. I have observed numerous operations and studied foreign tax and royalty structures. This experience provides me with unique perspectives that could be used serving on this committee.

My current employer, Wood Mackenzie, maintains clients from all over the world that include E&P producers, mining companies, railroads, utilities, financials, environmental concerns, and governments, including the US EPA and US BLM. One of the main reasons that my company has been successful over the years is that we take an independent view in our analyses. Our forecasts are data-oriented and grounded in industry expertise. It is this approach that I would like to bring to the committee.

Attached you will find my resume. Thank you for your consideration.

Ms. Kim Oliver
Department of the Interior
Office of Natural Resources Revenue
1849 C Street NW., MS 5134
Washington, DC 20240

Dear Ms. Oliver:

Re: Response to Request for Nominations for the Royalty Policy Committee

By this letter, I am submitting my name as a nominee—a volunteer—to serve on the Department of Interior Royalty Policy Committee. I do so because my over 40-year career in public administration has included extensive engagement in public land and resource issues, including mineral taxes and royalties. The knowledge and judgment gained from this experience would be a valuable contribution to this committee. I would bring to this work a strong commitment to and record of working to ensure that the American people secure a full and fair return on the minerals they own as the law requires. Fulfilling that statutory purpose is especially important to providing resource production states and communities their proper share of royalty revenues so they can strengthen and diversify their economies and mitigate the impacts of production.

My experience is uniquely relevant to the Royalty Policy Committee because I am one of a small group of persons who has served as a public official administering laws generating public revenues from resource production that are directly comparable to the laws governing royalties on public lands. This work has included adopting rules on mineral valuation, developing and overseeing effective compliance programs, allocating appropriate resources and taking other actions to ensure that revenue laws were properly implemented. I initiated and oversaw Montana's participation in the joint federal-state mineral auditing program. For decades, I have advised elected officials on public revenue and expenditure policies related to resource production. I have also actively engaged Interior's policy making processes from 2015 forward on mineral leasing and royalty issues and testified to Congress on such matters. I have been a witness for over forty years to the major changes in energy production on the Northern Plains—from the growth in Powder River Basin coal, to the Bakken oil boom in Bakken and the emergence of commercial wind farms. From this perspective, I acquired a deep understanding of the relationship of these changes to the human and natural environment.

As to which categories of membership my nomination falls, there are at least two: energy stakeholder or public interest representative. Administering revenue laws on energy production, advising state officials on natural resource revenue and expenditure issues, initiating and overseeing Montana's partnership in the federal-state royalty auditing program, consulting on energy and minerals policy, and engaging Interior and Congress as an expert on these issues surely qualifies a person as an energy stakeholder. At the same time, the purpose of my career and the substance of my work has been to serve the public interest in securing proper and fair revenues under the law, which should qualify me as a public interest representative. Further, I understand that what are commonly referred to as "public interest groups" support my nomination. I could be considered in either category.

I enclose as a supplement to this letter a resume summarizing my professional background. This letter describes in specific detail the experience, knowledge and understanding gained through my career that is relevant to the work of the Royalty Policy Committee.

Facts and Trends Shaping Energy Issues on Public Lands

In the 1970s, in the immediate aftermath of the OPEC oil crisis and the release of the North Central Power Study, I was engaged in the energy development and environmental issues that rose to prominence in the Northern Plains states. At the time, I served as a principal policy advisor and intergovernmental relations officer for South Dakota Governor Richard Kneip. Energy, natural resource, tax and economic issues were a major focus of my work along with coordinating the state's relationship with the federal government, other states, tribal and local governments. I served as one of the governor's staff representative to the Old West Regional Commission, a federally-supported regional economic development agency that included the states of Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Nebraska.

The Old West Regional Commission operated only from the early 1970s until the 1980s when the Reagan Administration disbanded it and other such commissions. However, it existed at a critical time when dramatic changes were set in motion by the advent of large-scale coal development in the Powder River Basin. The commission directed funds from the Department of Commerce to a host of studies related to the challenges and opportunities inherent in that development. This work provided all of us involved with a "crash course" in the social, economic, environmental and community issues surrounding the major changes then underway. During this period, the principal energy production states in this group—Wyoming, Montana, and North Dakota—developed fiscal structures in response to rising energy development. Wyoming and Montana most notably expanded severance taxes and dedicated portions of the revenues to long-term trust funds to counteract the traditional boom and bust cycle of resource development in the West.

The knowledge gained of the institutions, landscapes, competing demands, and regulatory and fiscal mechanisms related to energy development served as a foundation for subsequent energy work throughout my career. While circumstances have changed after four decades—concerns over the prospects for coal communities and workers have displaced earlier fears of impacts from overwhelming growth—the basic framework of knowledge developed forty years ago is as relevant today as it was then.

Detailed Valuation, Royalty and Revenue Policy Experience

My career transitioned from South Dakota to Montana after earning an M.P.A. degree at the University of Montana and working for the National Conference of State Legislatures directing its science and natural resource programs. In late 1981, I was chosen to serve as Deputy Director of the Montana Department of Revenue (Montana DOR), which led to direct engagement in natural resource revenue issues, including public royalties.

At the time, the department's administration of natural resource taxes was plagued by inefficiencies, erratic valuation practices, policies contrary to state law, and a lack of transparency. The department administered both local resource production taxes and state mineral severance taxes, but did so separately and inconsistently with each other. Over the next several years, I provided leadership to consolidate and strengthen the administration of Montana's natural resource revenues and to update rules for the valuation of oil, natural gas, and coal. We achieved consistency and greater equity in the valuation of the same minerals for local and state purposes. In several instances, the updated rules provided the industry and the public with knowledge and certainty for the first time regarding the department's valuation practices and policies.

These administrative reforms enabled the Montana DOR to become one of the first states to accept the Department of Interior's invitation in the early 1980s to participate in the newly-created federal-state audit program for federal royalties. This program was developed in the wake of the Linowes Commission formed to address the widespread royalty accountability problems that came to light following the discovery of the theft of oil from the Wind River Reservation in 1980. Throughout my tenure as Deputy Director, I provided active leadership and oversight of our agency's participation in the federal royalty program.

Reforming the rules and audit practices of the Montana DOR required intense engagement with mineral valuation issues. The following is a sample of the topics addressed:

- The determination of allowable deductions for oil and natural gas valuation,
- The reduction, through effective auditing, of excessive deductions from the value of coal, natural gas and oil beyond the point of marketability of the mineral,

- The specification of the circumstances under which the department would invoke its authority to directly value minerals sold through non-arm's length sales.
- The determination of value and assignment of deductible costs in complex situations such as (a) natural gas marketed through gathering systems owned by one producer under terms that yield below market value returns for other producers using the system and (b) gas pumped back underground for storage purposes instead of being marketed when first extracted.

I resigned as Deputy Director of the Montana DOR in 1988 to become Executive Director of the Multistate Tax Commission (MTC), an interstate compact agency that provides policy development, contested case, audit, and voluntary case resolution services to states on issues involved state taxation of interstate and international commerce. The MTC is also a leading advocate to Congress and the U.S. Supreme Court on these issues.

When I left the department, I thought that we had made progress of an enduring nature in developing natural resource tax practices and rules. Such was not to be the case. Future administrations from 1989 to 2005 placed a low priority on ensuring that resource values reported for tax purposes reflected market value. At one point, one revenue director even prohibited the department from auditing certain natural gas returns and required the staff to accept those returns as filed. In addition, the Montana Legislature substantially revised the structure of the state and local oil and gas production taxes—not once, but twice. What started as two separate taxes were increasingly consolidated until it became a single combined tax with revenues shared by state and local governments. The department did not fully transfer the oil and gas valuation regulations developed in the 1980s to the newly consolidated tax, opening gaps in the rules regarding some of the most challenging valuation issues.

When I returned to the Montana DOR as Director of Revenue in 2005 and learned of this state of affairs, we began a process of upgrading audit practices and reinstating rules that had been allowed to lapse. Thus, we revisited many of the issues addressed in the valuation rules from the 1980s and adopted their substance a second time with adjustments to reflect changed business practices. Improved audit coverage also generated knowledge of valuation issues in a contemporary context. So, twice in my career I had the benefit of detailed experience with critical natural resource valuation issues—experience that is directly relevant to the work of the Royalty Policy Committee. I would also note that when I returned to the department in this period, I resumed my contact with and executive oversight of Montana's participation in the federal-state mineral royalty program.

Both as Deputy Director in the 1980s and Director from 2005-2013, I also was directly involved in a broader set of policy issues regarding natural resource revenues and their uses. Those issues included questions related to (a) the economic impact of taxes on levels of resource production and jobs and (b) the need for governmental services and expenditures to mitigate the impacts of resource production. In both capacities, I supervised the research staff of the department that, in response to repeated questions, developed numerous analyses on the relationship or lack of relationship of taxes and royalties to production levels. Because I advised policymakers on such matters, I also carefully followed outside research on the subject. Further, I also was witness to, and in recent years have written about, Montana's experiment with cutting its severance tax from 30% to 15% in the late 1980s as an effort to stimulate production. Interestingly, coal production on average did not increase following that major rate cut, but instead remained essentially flat for fifteen years. My knowledge of professional research on taxes and royalties and my experience of advising policymakers, again, is relevant to the work of the Royalty Policy Committee and any consideration it might give to the effects of royalty rate changes.

My involvement with policy issues regarding the expenditure of natural resource revenues arise from the unusually prominent role the Montana DOR plays in administration of local finance laws in that state. Montana is one of only two states with a statewide property valuation system under which the MT DOR directly values all property in the state and establishes annually the tax base of each local government and school district in the state. Further, the department administers revenue sharing with local governments and schools from natural resource severance taxes and federal mineral royalties. Consequently, I regularly advised policymakers on the adequacy and use of revenues to meet governmental needs—including the need to mitigate the impacts of resource production and support economic diversification of resource dependent communities. Thus, the issues I had first become involved in through the activities of the Old West Regional Commission in the 1970s became a matter of direct responsibility during my work with the Montana DOR. I would bring to the Royalty Policy Committee direct knowledge of the need for and uses of federal royalty revenues to serve citizens in production states and communities.

Tax Administration Experience Relevant to Royalty Policy Committee

My work with corporate income taxes and property tax administration has also provided knowledge and experience directly relevant to the Royalty Policy Committee, especially regarding the goal of ensuring that minerals are valued at market value for royalty purposes.

The challenge of valuing minerals in the context of non-arm's length sales where (a) resources are sold at below market prices to captive affiliates or (b) deductions for services from affiliates are inflated is a subset of larger, more complex problems that tax administrators face in preventing profit-shifting among states and countries for corporate tax avoidance purposes. Trillions of dollars in corporate profits are held in tax havens overseas due to complex, non-arm's length accounting strategies that have essentially been transported in simpler, but still vexing form to the natural resource tax and royalty arena. I became, through my work with the Montana DOR and with the Multistate Tax Commission (MTC) from 1988-2004 an internationally recognized expert on issues of profit-shifting for tax avoidance. In 2007, the European Commission asked me to serve on a team of six U.S. tax experts to help advise them in Brussels on such matters. After retiring as Montana's Revenue Director, I continued to write on profit-shifting through non-arm's length transactions as a columnist for State Tax Notes and have served as a consultant to a special MTC project on that subject. The relevance to the Royalty Policy Committee is that I have extensive experience in analyzing and developing methods of correcting the underpayment of public revenues (taxes and royalties) using non-arm's length transactions.

The problem of valuation of assets sold in non-arm's length transactions also occurs in property tax administration. Thus, my experience of being responsible for valuing all property in Montana from 2005-2013 is again relevant to the Royalty Policy Committee. Property assessors are faced with the task of eliminating the impact of non-arm's length transactions on their valuations to produce assessments that reflect market value. In simplified terms, they do so by identifying the physical and locational characteristics of each property, determining which properties were last sold in non-arm's length transactions, excluding those sales from their data, and using sophisticated statistical techniques applied to arm's length data for neighborhood markets to generate market value assessments for all properties (including non-arm's length properties) adjusted for physical characteristics. After the fact, assessment agencies use a set of statistical studies to test the accuracy and consistency of their valuations to refine their work in future tax periods. I have developed recommendations for how these market valuation methods could be applied to the valuation of minerals and have included them in materials I have previously submitted in congressional testimony and comments to the Bureau of Land Management. These recommendations, which reflect a wide-ranging and systematic analysis of the problem of valuation in a non-arm's length context, are obviously relevant to the work of the Royalty Policy Committee.

Final Notes

Since 2015, I have been actively engaged in the public participation processes of the Department of Interior regarding public land management and royalty issues and in related public and congressional proceedings. I submitted comments, co-signed by seven Montana legislators, to Interior on May 8, 2015, on Interior's proposed royalty rules. I participated in Interior's listening sessions in Billings, Montana on August 9, 2015, and submitted follow-up written comments on September 17, 2015. On December 8, 2015, I testified on federal royalty issues to the Oversight Hearing, "Ensuring Certainty for Royalty Payments on Federal Resource Production," before the Subcommittee on Energy and Mineral Resources of the U.S. House Committee on Natural Resources—a panel that also included Director Gregory J. Gould of the Office of Natural Resources Revenue. On June 23, 2016, I participated in the public meeting on the scope of the then-active federal coal program PEIS in Grand Junction, Colorado on June 23, 2016, and submitted follow-up written comments, "Public Management of Federal Coal in the Public Interest," to the BLM on July 28, 2016. On June 29, 2016, I made a presentation on federal coal leasing and royalty processes to the "Federal Coal Workshop: Fair Market Value and Alternative Analysis,” conducted by the Institute of Policy Integrity of the NYU School of Law in Washington, D.C. On May 4, 2017, I submitted comments to Interior on the proposed repeal of the 2017 Royalty Valuation Rule and on the advanced notice of rule-making regarding alternative royalty valuation scenarios. Beyond these statements and presentations, I have also written numerous commentaries for newspapers on federal mineral leasing and royalty issues and served as a frequent source for reporters and radio hosts. This body of work provides evidence of my expertise that would benefit the activities of the Royalty Policy Committee.

Beyond my professional experience regarding federal royalties, I also bring an understanding of the historical trends in energy production that affect the lives of people in the communities where production occurs. As Montana Revenue Director from 2005-2013, major changes in energy production occurred again on the Northern Plains. Petroleum companies began applying hydraulic fracking to Bakken shale oil in Montana by the year 2000. This initial use of fracking in the Bakken spread to even larger deposits in North Dakota, creating an oil boom in the first decade of this century. Both states saw rapid growth in this oil production that soon outstripped the capacity of housing, commercial and local government infrastructure and services. Matching streams of revenue with demands for public services became a continuing issue, along with accurately valuing property for tax purposes under escalating market conditions. In this same decade, commercial-scale wind power arose in response to changes in technology and public policy. The Montana DOR helped advise on changes to Montana’s property tax laws to provide incentives for wind and other renewable energy, and valued for tax purposes a major new transmission line to carry wind power back and forth across the Montana’s border with Alberta, Canada. The recent diversification of energy sources is a much larger national and global story, but elements of that story have unfolded in Montana and its neighboring states. This historical understanding is important to evaluating the impact of the sometime arcane issues of federal royalty administration on the lives of people.

If chosen to serve on the Royalty Policy Committee, I would bring a strong commitment to ensuring that federal law on public minerals is faithfully executed so the American people receive fair market value for the minerals they own. Achieving a fair return also ensures that resource dependent states and communities receive their proper share of revenues from public minerals so that they can improve their economies and mitigate the impacts of production.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

/s/

Consultant and Expert on Public Revenue Policy and Administration, January 2013-Present

- Columnist for State Tax Notes.
- Expert advisor, author and public commentator on (a) federal energy and minerals management, leasing and royalty issues, (b) state and local tax policy and administration, and (c) interstate cooperative efforts in tax administration.

Director of Revenue, State of Montana, January 2005 to January 2013

- Directed the Montana Department of Revenue, which administers nearly 40 Montana state taxes and fees, participates in the federal-state royalty audit program, values all property in Montana and supervises the property tax system, and administers the state's liquor control and other laws assigned to the department.
- Transformed the department to achieve record compliance collections double the prior rate, accurate and uniform property tax valuations in a volatile real estate market, greater efficiency in operations and respectful, effective service to citizens and businesses.
- Developed a high level of teamwork among department work units and between management and labor based on practices reflecting the values of mutual respect, integrity and productivity.
- Modernized the agency through upgraded computer systems, new online public services, improved buildings for work efficiency and energy conservation, performance measurement and management systems, a pay plan to more properly and fairly compensate all staff, and improved gender and racial diversity throughout the workforce.

Executive Director, Multistate Tax Commission, February 1988 through December 2005

- Directed and expanded state participation in this interstate compact agency that serves a leadership role for states and localities on tax policy and administration and legal representation with respect to interstate and international commerce.
- Strengthened tax compliance programs to help ensure that multinational and multistate companies pay a fair share of state and local taxes.
- Organized successful efforts by states to defeat various federal proposals that would have preempted state and local taxes affecting interstate commerce.

Deputy Director, Montana Department of Revenue, September 1981 to February 1988

- Supervised administration of state taxes and reorganized mineral severance, royalty and corporate tax functions to improve efficiency, equity and taxpayer compliance.
- Coordinated development of department rules, with emphasis on tax administration procedures and mineral severance and production taxes.
- Managed the department's legislative activities, supervised tax research and developed policy recommendations including major tax reform proposals.

- Served as the state's research liaison to U.S. Senate Finance Committee staff during the 1986 federal tax reform process.

Director of Science and Natural Resources, National Conference of State Legislatures, February 1980 to September 1981

- Administered a program providing natural resource, scientific and environmental policy research to the fifty state legislatures and expanded foundation funding for these efforts.

Public Policy Consultant, Montana Governor's Office, University of Montana, and South Dakota State Planning Bureau, June 1978 to February 1980

- Developed proposals for establishing the "Maureen and Mike Mansfield Center" at the University of Montana—a center that focuses on ethics in public affairs and Asian studies.
- Prepared "Achieving Balanced Growth in Montana," the final report of the Montana Balanced Growth Program initiated by the Office of the Governor, covering economic, environmental, energy and government service issues.

Bush Foundation Leadership Fellow, University of Montana, September 1977 to January 1979

Commissioner, South Dakota State Planning Bureau, July 1973 to September 1977

- Directed the state executive's principal policy research and management agency, advising the governor on natural resource, energy, fiscal, health and human service, economic development and education policies.
- Coordinated intergovernmental relations activities with federal, local and tribal governments; served as a staff representative to interstate organizations including the Old West Regional Commission.
- Provided support functions to local governments regarding land use planning.
- Developed an effective system of executive branch management that the National Governors Association included in "Governing the American States: A Handbook for New Governors," November 1978.

Director of Executive Reorganization, State of South Dakota, January 1971 to July 1973

- Directed the first successful reorganization of the executive branch in South Dakota history by developing a reorganization plan, implementing a strategy for approval of plan through constitutional change and legislative review, and supervising the transition to the new structure.

Chief Tax Policy Advisor, South Dakota Governor's Office, January 1971 to September 1977 (concurrent with the two positions listed above)

- Developed state tax reform proposals involving income, property and sales taxes.

Executive Secretary, South Dakota Democratic Party, September 1969 to January 1971

Darryl LaCounte Regional Director – Rocky Mountain Region Bureau of Indian Affairs, Billings, Montana

Darryl LaCounte was named the Regional Director, Rocky Mountain Region in March 2015, and has served in the position since that time.

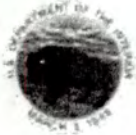

Mr. LaCounte's career in the Bureau of Indian Affairs began in July 1988, at the Wind River Agency in Fort Washakie Wyoming where he served as an Oil and Gas Specialist in the Branch of Real Estate Services. In August 1991 Mr. LaCounte was appointed to a Realty Specialist (Oil & Gas and Tenure and Management) position in the Billings Area Office, Billings, Montana. In October, 1995 Mr. LaCounte began serving as the Land Titles and Records Office Manager in Billings and served in the position until July 2001, when he accepted the Deputy Regional Realty Officer position in the Rocky Mountain Regional Office.

In May 2003, Mr. LaCounte began serving as a Special Assistant for Trust Reform in the Office of the Commissioner (Presently the Director, Bureau of Indian Affairs) where he served until his appointment to the Deputy Regional Director – Trust Services, Rocky Mountain Region, in Billings in August 2004. The Deputy for Trust Services manages the Land Titles and Records Office, the Division of Real Estate Services, Probate, Forestry, Agriculture and Wildlife and Branch of Water Resources in the Rocky Mountain Region.

Mr. LaCounte served as the Deputy Regional Director – Trust Services, Rocky Mountain Region until March 2010 when he was appointed as Special Assistant to the Director, Bureau of Indian Affairs where he served until January 2014 when he began acting as the Rocky Mountain Regional Director in Billings, a position he served in until he was permanently appointed in March 2015.

Prior to working for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Mr. LaCounte worked in the agriculture field in eastern Montana and western North Dakota and also worked in the oil and gas exploration field in Montana, North Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska.

Mr. LaCounte graduated from Sidney Senior High School in Sidney Montana in 1978 and Eastern Montana College (presently - Montana State University – Billings) in 1986 with a Bachelor of Arts. Mr. LaCounte is an enrolled member of the Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa Indians.

The Honorable Ryan Zinke

Dear Secretary Zinke:

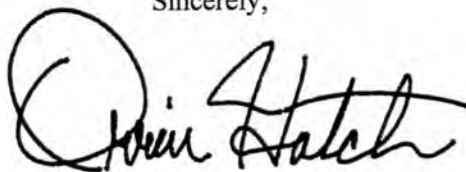

I am writing in support of the nomination of Mr. David Crabtree as an energy stakeholder member to the Royalty Policy Committee (RPC) within the Department of Interior's (DOI) Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR). Mr. Crabtree's extensive legal background and professional experience in the energy sector make him an ideal non-Federal candidate to represent the industry in accordance with the RPC's Charter.

As you well know, the previous administration's January 2017 ONRR Rule, Consolidated Federal Oil & Gas and Federal & Indian Coal Valuation Reform (the Rule), raised significant concerns among various industry members, and I have heard from my constituents of the negative economic impacts that the Rule could have on my home state of Utah. From the outset of the Rule's promulgation, ONRR expressed a stated goal of simplifying the process of valuating royalties; however, in reality, the Rule adds additional ambiguity and uncertainty for members of electric cooperatives and gives the federal government the ability to modify existing leases and royalty agreements with little recourse of justification. In addition, the rule unfairly derives coal valuation for royalties in a manner that hurts remote regions, which causes a significant increase in electric rates for Utah cooperative members.

For these reasons, I applaud the DOI's April 2017 announcement that the agency is working to either repeal the Rule in its entirety or make dramatic alterations, and I look forward to the ensuing certainty and clarity for the regulated community that this will provide. While DOI works to reevaluate federal royalty collections and establish a new RPC, I believe that Mr. Crabtree will offer a unique and valuable perspective that will benefit this process. Specifically, as the General Counsel for Deseret Power, he will ensure that the RPC takes into consideration the needs and positions of electric cooperatives across the country.

To ensure that the needs of cooperatives in Utah and the country are met during this process, it is imperative that they have a voice on the RPC. Mr. Crabtree, would be an outstanding addition to this group, while making sure that the voice of rural America is heard. I have worked with Mr. Crabtree and the good folks at Deseret Power on many issues over the years, and he has my full trust and confidence to serve on this committee.

Sincerely,

Orrin G. Hatch

Dear Ms. Oliver, and Secretary Zinke,

On behalf of the Utah Rural Electric Cooperative Association (URECA), we formally nominate Mr. David Crabtree as an energy stakeholder member to the Royalty Policy Committee. This Committee is established under the authority of the Secretary of the Interior and regulated by the Federal Advisory Committee Act with the purpose of ensuring the public receives the full value of the natural resources produced from Federal lands.

Mr. Crabtree is uniquely qualified to serve as an advisor on this Committee. His work experience, which includes over 20 years as Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Blue Mountain Energy, Inc. and Deseret Power, has put him on the front lines of policy implementation and negotiations related to Federal land royalties. His depth and understanding on the issue is unparalleled, as his laudable resume shows. He would be an outstanding addition to what should be a distinguished group of government, industry, Tribal, and academic representatives.

As a vertically integrated generation and transmission cooperative company, Deseret Power provides electricity to nearly 80,000 members of cooperative distribution systems located in Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, Colorado, and Arizona. Mr. Crabtree's quality of work is reflected in the reliable and affordable electricity these individuals receive. A critical component to this is ensuring that energy royalty calculations by the Federal Government are fair and take into consideration the unique structures and operations of the electric cooperative business model.

It is the opinion of URECA that any decision regarding how to shape royalty policy needs to include a strong voice from the cooperative community. Electric cooperative members, who predominantly live in rural areas, are more vulnerable to electric rate increases incurred by their power supplier as a result of poor royalty policy. A careless royalty policy written by an agency unfamiliar with or unaware of the delicacies in rural America will be crushing to these individuals. For this, and many other reasons, Mr. Crabtree will be a tremendous voice for cooperatives across the country during this rule-review process.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey M. Peterson

PRESIDENT

July 2009 – Present

Ark Land LLC

- Report to Chief Operating Officer, Arch Coal, Inc.
- Responsibility for all land and geology related matters for Arch Coal, Inc.
- Direct reports include: Vice President of Geology, Director of Property Administration, Director Land Management - Northern Appalachia, Regional Land Agents.
- Authority / approval of all land royalty and rental obligations exceeding $100MM annually.
- Oversight of land and exploration forecasting ranging from $50MM to more than $100MM annually.
- Negotiation / approval / execution of land agreements.
- Support of business development group in acquisition and divestiture activities.

DIRECTOR LAND MANAGEMENT

December 2006 – July 2009

Ark Land Company

- Reported to President of Land Company.
- Oversight of property administration group for all land matters.
- Direct reports included Manager Property Administration and Financial Analyst.
- Approval / review of ongoing monetary lease obligations.
- Interfaced with coal Lessors providing required and requested information of leased property.
- Economic and mine plan analysis of potential acquisition properties.
- Mine inspection visits of affiliate and third party operations to maintain familiarity of various properties.
- Monitored and substantiated coal reporting from outlease activities.
- Coordinated and submitted annual Land forecasting information as well as quarterly Board of Director updates.

MANAGER PROPERTY ENGINEERING

April 2003 – December 2006

Ark Land Company

- Reported to President of Land Company.
- Interfaced with coal Lessors providing required and requested information of leased property.

- Administered Inter Company Lease agreements for Arch Coal subsidiaries.
- Review of monthly royalty payments.
- Economic and mine plan analysis of potential acquisition properties.
- Mine visits of corporate subsidiary operations as well as 3rd party outlease operations in order to maintain familiarity of specific property.
- Monitored and substantiated coal reporting from outlease activities.
- Coordinated and submitted annual Land forecasting information as well as quarterly Board of Director updates.

SUPERVISOR OF PLANNING

February 1999 – April 2003 Thunder Basin Coal Company, L.L.C.

- Reported to the Manager of Engineering and Environmental Affairs.
- Responsible for planning, forecasting and implementation of developmental mine projects to ensure ongoing success of mine.
- Direct report was Planning Engineer.
- Interfaced with local, state, and federal agencies as well as industry representatives to facilitate business needs of TBCC.
- Participated in daily production communication meetings, monthly mine-wide Safety Audits, and bi-monthly production planning meetings.
- Mine plan development and analyses for acquisition activities.
- Participated in the development and negotiations of mitigation plans for oil, gas and CBM well conflicts, as well as oil and gas pipeline conflicts.
- Contributed to the development and negotiations of Joint Use Standards for Overstrip Agreements between adjacent coal companies to Black Thunder Mine.

MANAGER OF ENGINEERING AND ENVIRONMENTAL AFFAIRS

July 1997 – February 1999

Arch of Illinois, Inc.

- Reported to the General Manager.
- Managed individuals responsible for components of engineering department (Supervisor of Environmental Affairs; Mining Engineers, surface and underground; Planning Engineer; Reclamation Engineer; Mine Surveyors; Draftspersons and Data Entry Clerks) and completed annual performance reviews of select individuals.
- Developed mine plans for annual forecasting and quarterly Board of Director updates.

- Completed monthly underground mine tours to view progress, technique, and challenges of underground operation.
- Interfaced with local and state agencies as well as industry representatives to facilitate business needs of Arch of Illinois, through personal, oral, and written communications.

SENIOR MINING ENGINEER

April 1992 - July 1997

Arch of Illinois, Inc.

- Reported to Manager of Engineering.
- Supervised Surface Mine Engineers and Surveyors and completed annual performance reviews.
- Developed short and long range planning of surface mine.
- Completed surface production and royalty reports and consolidated results of underground data for submission to corporate office on monthly basis.
- Implemented modern surveying techniques by first introducing electronic data collection in 1994. Further modernized the survey methods by installing a GPS survey system in early 1997. Interfaced both methods with personal computing to create electronic mapping techniques. (Ultimately reduced manning requirement of survey personnel by the implementation of these technologies.)
- Completed underground mine tours to view progress, technique, and challenges of underground operations.

MINING ENGINEER

November 1987 - April 1992

Arch of Illinois, Inc.

- Reported to Senior Mining Engineer.
- Developed short and long term mine planning.
- Produced monthly operating plans and tracked daily and monthly production quantities.
- Supervised field engineers and completed annual performance evaluations.

SURVEYOR

April 1985 – November 1987

Arch of Illinois, Inc.

- Reported to Senior Mining Engineer.
- Survey mining progress for mapping purposes.
- Stakeout planned mining areas or guidance for mining equipment.
- Located and staked out drilling patterns for blasting purposes.

My Story

Growing up in Minnesota, I loved our forests, lakes and rivers. My grandparents and my great aunt lived near White Bear Lake and Bald Eagle Lake where I spent many happy days with them. My favorite season was winter. We skated on the lakes, the local playgrounds, and during the St. Paul Winter Carnival, we even skated on one of the main streets downtown.

None of your info will be shared or given to any group or published in any way.

I read all I could about nature, science, and the outdoors in our wonderful public library, and my dedicated public school teachers helped fill my thirst for more knowledge. Our Science Museum had great summer programs for kids. While my mother was at work every day, I spent hours with her nature poetry books that spoke to my soul.

When I was 7, we took the train to visit relatives in Oregon, a trip my mother had taken every summer when she was growing up. I remember pressing my face to the window for my first glimpse of the Rockies. Finally, there they were! No poetry, no stories, no pictures could do the mountains justice. Then and there I decided I would live in the mountains. That goal was intensified the next summer when we took the train to Glacier National Park where I first hiked on single-track trails. I first skied when I was 15 and for the rest of life, skiing has been my deepest joy.

Politics were important in my family, and dinner table discussions often centered on problems of the early 1960's and how we could solve them. When I was 10 I was inspired by our young President John F. Kennedy urging us to "ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country". My mother instilled in me the value of public service and volunteering. She expected me to think about others before myself. Caring, compassion, and love for others meant that we had a responsibility to make our world better than we found it. This is still one of my core beliefs.

In high school, two books shaped what would become my life long passion for public service: Rachel Carson's Silent Spring and Michael Harrington's Other America. Carson's book is often credited with kindling the 1970's environmental movement by showing us how pollution disrupted the intricate web of our ecosystems. Harrington's book along with Bobby Kennedy's visits to the poorest parts of our nation spurred our attention to the lack of equal opportunity and the existence of grinding poverty in our country.

The spring I graduated from High School was tumultuous: both Dr. Martin Luther King and Bobby Kennedy were assassinated, opposition to the Vietnam War grew, and race riots in major US cities were on the news every night. Our country was divided. My aspiration was to help bring people back together so we all could pursue the American Dream.

So I majored in sociology and social policy at the University of Minnesota. I began to understand more fully that not everyone had the same opportunities that I did with great public schools, libraries and science museums, as well as a caring family who encouraged me - indeed expected me - to succeed.

The first Earth Day celebration on the University of Minnesota campus in 1970 was two weeks before the bombing of Cambodia and the shooting deaths of 4 college students who protested the bombing at Kent State. Sitting on the green mall at the U with my fiancé Steve Bush, we had an "aha" moment: only by building bridges, not barriers, would we be able to solve these intertwined problems of unequal opportunity, injustice, and environmental degradation. I entered graduate school because I believed that scientific research could produce policies to bring us together and help solve these problems.

Six years later, we moved to Steamboat Springs intending to ski for a year while I finished up my PhD. The 1976-1977 ski season was a hundred-year drought in Colorado, which immersed me in western water issues. That made me realize that our free-flowing Western Slope rivers are critical for our economy, our environment, and our communities. Ever since, I have worked to protect our water and I am proud to represent two headwaters counties, Eagle and Routt.

My love for our environment and our communities blossomed into a passion for public service and bringing people together to build a more vibrant economy with opportunities for all. Especially in our mountain communities, we face broad economic challenges every day. Affordable housing, childcare and education, domestic violence, better access to healthcare, and improved quality of transportation and broadband are all critical issues for us.

Because I believe education is the key to opportunity, I have worked to strengthen early childhood education and childcare, our K-12 system, and to provide more funding for higher education. I have supported bills to help businesses create good jobs and provide workforce training, including apprenticeships. As a volunteer and as an elected official, I have worked on all these issues since the 1990's, and will continue to do so as your State Representative.

My experiences as a social science policy researcher and professor, a mountain community advocate for over 25 years, and an elected official for 10 years have made me understand that renewable energy, job creation, economic vitality and a clean environment are all inter-connected. I lived in homes powered by the sun back when solar electric panels were in their infancy.

Today, my husband, Michael, and I love to alpine ski, backcountry ski, mountain bike, backpack, and rock climb. He retired last year from 35 years as one of the co-managers of ski tuning and bike tuning at the Ski Haus in Steamboat Springs.

I am your strong mountain community voice down at the Capitol. I will continue to listen to you, get all the evidence before making a decision, bring people together, work across the aisle, and be open, responsive, transparent, and truthful. I am running for reelection on my record and on promises kept.

Docket No. ONRR-2012-0003; DS63600000
DR2000000.PMNOOO 178D0102R2
Royalty Policy Committee, Nominations
Ms. Kim Oliver
Office of Natural Resources Revenue
1849 C Street NW, MS 5134
Washington, DC 20240

Dear Ms. Oliver:

We appreciate the opportunity to proffer the nomination of Doreen Heuck, Business Manager for the Western Fuels Wyoming Dry Fork Mine, to serve on the Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee, announced in the May 3, 2017 Federal Register, Vol. 82, No 84.

Basin Electric has an interest in this proceeding because of our unique relationship and proximity to the Dry Fork Mine (Dry Fork Station) and because of our status as a large buyer of Powder River Basin coals for the Missouri Basin Power Project Laramie River Station for which we are Operating Agent, and for our Leland Olds Station in North Dakota. Basin Electric Power Cooperative is a consumer-owned, regional generation and transmission (G&T) cooperative providing wholesale power to member rural electric systems in nine states. In 2016, our coal-based generation equaled 66.8 percent of Basin Electric's total energy portfolio mix. The Missouri Basin Power Project is a group of six regional, consumer-owned utility organizations that built the Laramie River Station in Wheatland, WY. Project members include Basin Electric Power Cooperative, Bismarck, ND; Tri-State Generation & Transmission Association, Westminster, CO; Western Minnesota Municipal Power Agency, Ortonville, MN; Lincoln Electric System, Lincoln, NE; Heartland Consumers Power District, Madison, SD; and Wyoming Municipal Power Agency, Lusk, WY.

In her position as Business Manager for Western Fuels Dry Fork Mine, Doreen has deep and extensive day-to-day, hands-on experience dealing with the calculus of the value of coal produced from Federal and State lands. Doreen has been intimately involved in the submission of statutory and regulatory paperwork for these valuations for all of ten years, including five other major PRB mining operations. We believe that Doreen would bring to the committee a strong working knowledge of the intricacies and details of the derivation of the resource values. Working closely with Doreen, we have come to know her as a gifted communicator in terms of understanding and communicating the nuances of these frequently complicated valuation matters.

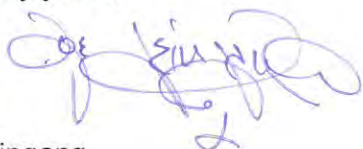

Finally, we believe that Doreen shares our balanced concern that the taxpayer ultimately gets the maximum value for the Federal natural resources along with keeping electricity for rural and municipal America reliably affordable.

Thank you for this opportunity to express our support for this initiative by the Department of the Interior and specifically for the opportunity to voice our support for Doreen Heuck's candidacy to this important policy advisory committee.

If you have any questions about Ms. Heuck's qualifications or relationship to Basin Electric, please don't hesitate to call me at 701-557-5648.

Very truly yours,

RE: Docket No. ONRR-2012-0003; DS63600000 DR2000000.PMN000 178D0102R2
Royalty Policy Committee Establishment; Request for Nominations

Dear Ms. Oliver,

Western Fuels Association is pleased to submit the nomination of Mrs. Doreen E. Heuck, Business Manager for Western Fuels-Wyoming, Inc. to serve on the Department of Interior's Royalty Policy Committee referenced in Federal Register Notice, Vol. 82, No. 62. Mrs. Heuck has many years of technical expertise in reporting coal royalty valuations across a wide range of coal mining entities, and we feel that Mrs. Heuck would be a valuable addition to the Policy Committee, particularly in the technical aspects of reporting coal royalty valuations.

Western Fuels Association is a not-for-profit fuel supply cooperative that supplies coal and transportation services to consumer-owned utilities throughout the Great Plains, Rocky Mountain and Southwest regions. Western Fuels Association services assist with the generation capacity of nearly 5,500 megawatts of electricity. Western Fuels Association is the operator of Western Fuels-Wyoming's Dry Fork Mine. The sales of coal from our Dry Fork Mine are primarily to related rural cooperative owned utilities.

During her career, Mrs. Heuck has not only prepared and submitted required production tax and royalty filings, but has also managed multiple tax and royalty audits over multiple coal mining operations across multiple states including Wyoming, Montana and Colorado. In addition, she had successfully managed three mines' interests regarding royalty reporting with the Minerals Management Service during their transition from paper to electronic filing. Furthermore, Mrs. Heuck was a contributor in receiving several Stewardship Awards for excellent royalty reporting in the early 2000's with Rio Tinto Energy America. Therefore, Mrs. Heuck is proficient in coal royalty valuation for both publicly traded coal mining entities encompassing both domestic and international coal sales as well as coal cooperative mining entities and understands the sensitivity in reaching compromise while maintaining good relationships with regulatory authorities.

Western Fuels Association appreciates the opportunity to submit the nomination of Doreen E. Heuck for your consideration to serve on the Department of Interior's Royalty Policy Committee. Attached is a copy of Mrs. Heuck's resume for your review. Please contact me at (720) 697-6958 or meri@westernfuels.org if you have any questions about Mrs. Heuck's qualifications or about Western Fuels Association.

Sincerely,

RE: Royalty Policy Committee Nomination

Attention Ms. Kim Oliver

I am self-nominating myself to serve as a committee member as part of the Royalty Policy Committee.

I feel with the experience I have within the petroleum industry, with royalty and production reporting and my involvement as an MSG member on the USEITI Advisory Committee, my participation would advance the initiative of this committee. I have attached a copy of my resume detailing my relevant work experience. The following summarizes my qualifications to serve on the committee:

- Experienced with the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative and have participated in the USEITI MSG Advisory Committee.
- Understands the impact of policy and governance for royalty reporting and the need for transparency of revenue disclosures to the public. I also fully understand the need for fostering the awareness of public resources on Federal and Tribal lands managed by the government.
- Currently actively engaged with federal agencies where payments and reporting are submitted. Familiar with valuation and proposed policy and regulations changes related to revenues. Directly and indirectly responsible for managing the related processes and overseeing compliance. I have over 30 years of experience with production and exploration companies with activities in the United States, Gulf of Mexico, and offshore and international areas of operations.

Please forward my nomination for considerations. Should there be any question additional information needed, please contact me at your convenience.

Dear Ms. Oliver

The Osage Minerals Council is excited to hear of the forming of the Royalty Policy Committee. We, as a council have extensive knowledge of the issues involving revenue from energy and minerals of Federal lands. That is why the Council has decided that I, Chairman Everett Waller, would be an asset to the Royalty Policy Committee.

I have worked in the Bureau of Indian Affairs minerals department. I started as a gauger and worked my way up. I have served on several boards and committees and I am currently serving as Chairman of the Osage Minerals Council. The Osage Minerals Council currently manages the Osage Mineral Estate for nearly 5000 shareholders, and have done so for over 100 years.

After reviewing my resume, I hope you will agree that I will be an asset to this committee. If you have any questions or wish for me to elaborate on my skills and knowledge, please do not hesitate to call. I can be reached at 918-287-5436. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I write today to recommend Gabrielle Gerholt for appointment as a non-Federal member of the Royalty Policy Committee (Committee). This Committee will provide advice to the Secretary on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues derived from the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands.

According to the U.S. Department of the Interior's Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR), in Fiscal Year 2016 New Mexico paid roughly $766 million in royalties, rents, bonuses, and other revenues to the federal government, which is the second most out of any state. For that reason, I believe that New Mexico deserves significant representation on the Committee.

The Secretary is permitted to appoint up to six non-Federal members "representing various mineral and/or energy stakeholders in Federal and Indian royalty policy." Ms. Gerholt has worked for Concho Resources Inc. for the last several years. Concho is the largest oil producer in New Mexico, producing nearly 23 million barrels of oil in 2016. Roughly half of that production is on federal lands, making Concho one of the largest federal royalty remitters in the state. She has worked extensively with the Bureau of Land Management on a number of issues relating to natural resource production, including royalty policy. Attached is a resume outlining her qualifications.

I believe that Ms. Gerholt's knowledge on these issues will be especially useful on this Committee and I highly recommend her appointment.

Sincerely,

Steve Pearce

RE: Royalty Policy Committee

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I am honored to be nominated by Congressman Pearce for the Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee (Committee) and am excited by the possibility of sharing my professional experience and expertise within the deliberations of the Committee. My professional experience includes working the past several years for Concho Resources Inc. (Concho). Concho is a purely Permian Basin exploration and production company operating in southeastern New Mexico and west Texas. We are the largest oil producer in New Mexico, producing nearly 23 million barrels of oil in 2016. Approximately half of our production is from federal lands, making Concho one of the largest federal royalty remitters in the state.

As shown by my attached resume, throughout my career I have had the opportunity to work significantly on federal issues and royalty-related matters. Most recently, I have had the opportunity to work with the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) on the implementation of several new rules and have also sought BLM's determination of a flat rate royalty for a federal sliding scale lease.

I look forward to discussing all those professional experiences with you more fully and am prepared to answer any questions you may have. If I may provide any additional information, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Oliver

I would like to self-nominate for one of the academic positions on the Dept. of Interior's Royalty Policy Committee. As you will see from my resume, I am an expert in fair market valuation of mineral and energy assets. I also do a fair amount of private sector consulting in this regard, including expert witness testimony. I have previously worked with staff at BOEM on the fair market value of oil leases in the Gulf of Mexico. Two years ago I and a colleague from Ernst & Young offered an in-house training session at BOEM on such matters. My particular area of expertise within valuation is the impact of fiscal terms on operator incentives and consequent asset values.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions. I will be traveling through June 3, and so the best way to get hold of me is via email.

CAREER SUMMARY

Over thirty years of experience in natural resource revenue collection, safety, security, and environmental protection of Federal and Indian Lands. Managed and oversaw the creation of the Department of the Interior's Office of Natural Resources Revenue and responsible for the implementation of the international Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) in the United States. Managed and oversaw the implementation of the Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) environmental protection program. Developed national policy related to the implementation of the OCS inspection and enforcement program, the OCS civil and criminal penalties program, the OCS oil spill program, the OCS security program, and served as an energy advisor to the Chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives Subcommittee on Oceanography.

HIGHLIGHTS

Leadership

- Serve as the Director, Office of Natural Resources Revenue, managing all aspects of mineral revenue collection on Federal and Indian lands. Manage the work of four Senior Executives, 650 career Federal employees and 125 State and Tribal Auditors.
- Serve as the Government Sector Chair of the USEITI Multi-Stakeholder Group, overseeing implementation of EITI in the United States.
- Serve as a team leader of the Interior Crisis Action Team (ICAT), providing advice to senior governmental officials in the event of a national emergency.
- Served as Chief of the Environmental Division, managing all aspects of the Offshore Minerals Management environmental protection program. Managed the work of two Branch Chiefs, a Unit Supervisor, and the OCS Chief Scientist.
- Served as Acting Deputy Regional Director of the OCS Gulf of Mexico Regional Office.
- Served as Chief of the Safety and Enforcement Branch (SEB), supervising a staff of engineers, physical scientists, and other technical and administrative personnel.
- Served as Program Coordinator of the OCS civil and criminal penalties programs. Reviewed the work of three Regional Coordinators (Alaska, Gulf of Mexico and Pacific).
- Served as Team Leader on mission related projects. Teams composed of four to eight employees with varying backgrounds and skills (i.e. Environmental Science, Engineering, Policy, Budget, etc.).
- Served as Chief of Staff to the Deputy Associate Director for Operations and Safety Management, assisting in the management of 52 employees. Designed and implemented a team-based management system.
- Served as Chair of the Department of the Interior Aviation Management Board of Directors.
- Graduate of the Office of Personnel Management Senior Executive Service (SES) candidate development program.

Technical

- Analyzed legislation and executive orders and developed policies, regulations, and procedures for implementation of programs related to revenue collection on Federal and Indian lands, offshore safety, inspection, enforcement, and environmental management.

- Served on a Minerals Revenue Management/Offshore Energy and Minerals Management team to assess the largest OCS civil penalty case against a major oil company. Gained a detailed understanding of the reporting requirements related to offshore oil and gas production, specifically the process related to industry reporting of volume statements to the Liquid Verification System (LVS) and Gas Verification System (GVS). The LVS and GVS are used to compare the volume data to the volume reported in Oil and Gas Operations Reports.
- Served as the Liaison to the U.S. Coast Guard. Coordinated OCS safety, inspection, and enforcement resources and activities in relation to issues of joint interest.
- Participated in the review and analysis of oil spills and accidents connected with oil and gas operations on the Federal OCS.
- Analyzed offshore oil and gas issues, drafted legislation, prepared background papers, and organized Congressional Hearings for the Chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives, Subcommittee on Oceanography (Congressman Solomon P. Ortiz).
- Served as a staff specialist and regional expert for the OCS Information Program, identifying, evaluating, and responding to the needs and concerns of coastal, marine, and land-use planners and resource managers.
- Researched and analyzed a wide range of resource planning topics affecting offshore oil and gas leasing, exploration, development, and production (including legal, regulatory, economic, geologic, biologic, and socio-cultural issues).

EMPLOYMENT SUMMARY

June 2008 – Present: Director (SES), Office of Natural Resources Revenue, Office of Policy, Management and Budget, Department of the Interior, Washington, DC.
Supervisor: Paul Mussenden, (202) 208-2842 (Yes, contact supervisor). Work 40 hours/week.

Serve as the Director, Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR) managing a diverse staff of over 650 career Federal employees and over 125 State and Tribal Auditors. Supervise the work of four Senior Executives including the Deputy Director for ONRR, the Program Directors of Audit and Compliance Management, Financial and Program Management and Asset Management Programs. ONRR efficiently and effectively utilizes its financial systems and human resources to collect, account for, substantiate, and disburse revenues associated with mineral production from leased Federal and Indian lands. In addition, ONRR serves as a trustee of the royalty asset from Indian trust properties and as an advocate for the interests of Indian mineral owners, ensuring fulfillment of its Indian trust responsibility. ONRR provides a major economic benefit to the nation from the revenues generated from mineral resources, either directly through payments to Tribes and individual Indian mineral owners (IIMOs), or indirectly through contributions to the Historic Preservation Fund, the Land and Water Conservation Fund, the Reclamation Fund, States, and disbursements to the General Fund of the U.S. Treasury. Between 1982 and 2009, MRM collected and disbursed over $219 billion in revenues from onshore and offshore lands, an average of over $7.5 billion per year.

June 2004 – May 2008: Chief, Environmental Division (GS-1301-15), Offshore Energy and Minerals Management, Minerals Management Service, Department of the Interior, Herndon, Virginia.
Supervisor: Robert Labelle, (202) 208-3530 (Yes, contact supervisor). Work 40 hours/week.

As the Chief of the Environmental Division, was responsible for exercising policy and staff direction over a nationwide program for environmental assessment of the Outer Continental Shelf. The Environmental Division is responsible for conducting environmental studies as required by the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act and preparing the 5-Year program environmental impact statements. Managed the work of two Branch Chiefs who are responsible for the development and updating of policies and procedures for OCS environmental assessments, studies, and impact statements to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act, Clean Water Act, Endangered Species Act, Marine Mammals Protection Act, National Historic Preservation Act, and other Federal Laws and Executive Orders issued to protect the environment. In addition to the Division Chief responsibilities, serve as a team leader and member of the Interior Crisis Action Team (ICAT), providing advice to senior governmental officials in the event of a national emergency.

December 2001 – May 2004: Chief, Safety and Enforcement Branch (GS-1301-15), Engineering and Operations Division, Minerals Management Service, Department of the Interior, Herndon, Virginia.
Supervisor: Bud Danenberger (Retired). Work 40 hours/week.

As the Chief of the Safety and Enforcement Branch (SEB), was responsible for supervising a staff of engineers, physical scientists, and other technical and administrative personnel. The SEB develops policies and provides guidance and oversight for the implementation of the OCS inspection, security, and enforcement program. The SEB develops regulations related to safety and pollution prevention on offshore oil and gas facilities. Conducts risk assessment studies of offshore facilities to determine optimal inspection frequencies. Develops criteria and oversees implementation of a process to disqualify operators with unsatisfactory safety and pollution records. As Chief, represented MMS at national and international forums on offshore safety, security and pollution prevention, describing MMS policies and practices, and negotiate agreements for sharing information and resources with other Federal, state, local, and foreign governments. Member of and served as Chair of the Aviation Management Board of Directors. The Board provides executive level bureau involvement in the formulation of policy and the management of aviation activities in the Department of the Interior.

August 1991 – December 2001: Physical Scientist (Started GS-1301-13, Ended GM-1301-14), Performance and Safety Branch, Engineering and Operations Division, Minerals Management Service, Department of the Interior, Herndon, Virginia.
Supervisor: Bill Cook (Retired). Work 40 hours/week.

As the Program Coordinator of the OCS civil and criminal penalties programs, provided expert advice and policy guidance to MMS management on the implementation of the OCS inspection and enforcement program and the OCS civil and criminal penalties programs. Responsible for ensuring the appropriate and consistent application of OCS inspection and enforcement policies and the OCS civil and criminal penalties programs for environmental, operational, and personnel safety infractions of offshore regulations. Developed the Operator Safety Index to assess the relative risk of offshore operators. Developed a statistical sampling program to better focus inspection and enforcement resources. Served as the MMS Liaison to the U.S. Coast Guard, coordinating OCS inspection and enforcement resources and activities in relation to issues of joint interest. Managed the Offshore Appeals Program, consulting with the Solicitor's Office and the Interior Board of Land Appeals on OCS Appeals Program case adjudication. Served as Chief of Staff to the Deputy Associate Director for Operations and Safety Management, overseeing the work of 52 employees. Responsible for developing, implementing, and overseeing a team based management system and developing the Office Budget.

January 1993 - December 1993: Special Advisor to the Chairman, U.S. House of Representatives, Subcommittee on Oceanography, Washington, DC.

Supervisor: Sheila McCready (202) 225-7742. Work 40 hours/week.

One year detail to the U.S. Congress, Legislative Branch. Served as an energy advisor to the Chairman of the Oceanography Subcommittee. Provided expert advice, prepared analytical papers, coordinated congressional hearings, and briefed Members of Congress on issues related to OCS oil and gas activity. Coordinated with the MMS Office of Congressional Affairs to ensure accurate and timely information related to legislative issues affecting OCS programs.

December 1988 - August 1991: Marine Policy Analyst (Started/Ended GS-0301-13), OCS Information Program, Minerals Management Service, Department of the Interior, Vienna, Virginia
Supervisor: Doug Slitor (703) 787-1030. Worked 40 hours/week.

Served as a staff specialist and regional expert for the OCS Information program. Published reports (see list below) responding to the needs and concerns of coastal, marine, and land-use planners and resource managers. The reports analyzed, evaluated, and summarized the impacts of offshore oil and gas activities at the Federal, State, and local levels. Developed and maintained a continuing consultation process and professional relationship with Federal, State, and local officials, industry, and public interest groups whose responsibilities include OCS activities. Published the OCS National Compendium, summarizing offshore activities from 1954 through 1991.

January 1984 – December 1988: Physical Scientist (Started GS-1301-5, Ended GS-1301-12) Atlantic OCS Region, Minerals Management Service, Department of the Interior, Vienna, Virginia
Supervisor: Ralph Ainger (Retired). Worked 40 hours/week.

Responsible for the planning and execution of all aspects of offshore oil and gas leasing, supplying geologic/oceanographic information, and drafting presentation maps, visuals, and fact sheets. Provided support to the offshore program by locating, extracting, and compiling statistical data for use in Environmental Impact Statements and Notices of Sales. Served as a Contracting Officer's Technical Representative (COTR) within the Environmental Studies Program. Responsible for preparing Statement of Work/Specification documents, ensuring contracts were completed within time and cost limits, monitoring submission of major deliverables, and ensuring manuscripts comply with stated program and agency objectives.

May 1981 – December 1983: Minerals Leasing Technician (Started GS-1311-3, Ended GS-1311-4), Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior, New York, New York
Supervisor: Fred Gray (Retired). Worked summers and school breaks 40 hours per week.

Conducted research involving a site visit to an operating offshore oil rig, and served as BLM representative to U.S. Army's COE's Committee for Dredge Dump Sites on the Outer Continental Shelf. Assisted the Minerals Leasing Specialist and Engineer by developing data to be portrayed on visuals for upper management briefings and public meetings. Prepared detailed geologic maps needed for lease sale area identification and base map development. Conceived and developed the OCS Leasing Program's first Data Base Management System.

Re: Docket Number ONRR-2012-0003
Royalty Policy Committee Establishment, Request for Nominations

Dear Ms. Oliver:

Chevron U.S.A. Inc. (Chevron) appreciates the opportunity to submit a nomination to the Royalty Policy Committee. Chevron is one of the largest federal leaseholder in the Gulf of Mexico, and holds a substantial number of onshore federal leases. As a federal leaseholder and operator, Chevron has a strong interest in the future efforts of the Royalty Policy Committee.

Therefore, I wish to be considered for RPC membership as one of the six mineral and/or energy stakeholders. Since my January 2003 appointment to my current position, I have spent a substantial amount of time working Federal and Indian production and royalty valuation issues including:

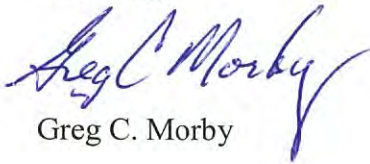

- Engaging directly with ONRR/MMS and Indian tribal staff and leadership on a diverse mix of royalty issues such as sliding scale royalty rates, production, valuation, and deductions.
- Actively participating on the API Royalty Sub Committee for many years including a stint as chair.
- Attending numerous Federal royalty workshops, public hearings, and conferences.
- Reading and reviewing Federal valuation regulations, court and IBLA decisions.
- Drafting and submitting comments to proposed rulemakings.
- Working Federal royalty audits, appeals, and litigation.

A natural outcome of working the above, and 35 years in the domestic oil and gas industry, is a strong appreciation and desire for simplicity, efficiency, clarity and fairness.

As additional background, I received my Bachelor of Business Administration in Accounting from the University of Texas, Austin, in May 1982. Upon graduation, I joined Getty Oil Company in Houston, Texas, and went on to assume positions of increasing responsibility in the Getty and Texaco Inc., subsequent to merger, Tax Department. Following the merger of Texaco and Chevron, I was appointed to my current position.

Sincerely,

Introduction

I live on my family's ranch near Newcastle, Wyoming. In 2010, at the age of 22 and prior to finishing college, I was elected to the Wyoming House of Representatives. As a fourth-generation rancher, I have a great deal of respect and appreciation for our wide open spaces and our state's abundant natural resources. As a state legislator for the past seven years, I have come to know a great deal about the great state I call home, including the many issues that affect its citizens at the local, state, and federal levels. It has been, and continues to be, the honor of a lifetime to serve my hometown and the surrounding area in the state legislature.

Sitting near the edge of one of the largest coal deposits in North America, Newcastle has many residents who are employed in nearby coal mines. There is an abundance of oil and natural gas development in northeast Wyoming as well. The energy industry is the lifeblood of Wyoming's economy, and its mineral royalties have historically driven the state's revenues, particularly in education and capitol construction projects. My service on the House minerals committee gave me a good deal of insight into the inner workings of the importance of minerals severance taxes, as well as the regulatory oversight of the mining, oil, and gas industries.

General Session

(SEAL)

TYSON T. RUNNING WOLF, Secretary

WASHINGTON
APR 26 2017

The Honorable Harry Barnes
Chairman, Blackfeet Tribe of the Blackfeet Indian Reservation of Montana
P.O. Box 850
Browning, Montana 59417

Dear Chairman Barnes:

I am committed to receiving the collective viewpoint of stakeholders on the value of, and collection of revenues derived from, the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands. In keeping with this belief, under my authority as the Secretary of the Interior, on March 29, 2017, I signed the charter to establish the Royalty Policy Committee (Committee).

This Committee will provide advice on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues from, Federal and Indian mineral and energy resources, including renewable energy sources. The Committee may also advise on the potential impacts of proposed policies and regulations related to revenue collection from such development, including whether a need exists for regulatory reform.

On April 3, 2017, a Federal Register Notice was published announcing the establishment of the Committee and requesting nominations for primary and alternate members to serve on the Committee for a 3-year term. The nomination period closes on June 2, 2017. The Committee will consist of up to 28 representatives from the Department of the Interior, states, Indian tribes, mineral and/or energy stakeholders, academia, and public interest groups. Your Tribe has the opportunity to nominate a representative to participate on the Committee and to speak for tribal interests on important revenue issues. Participating on the Committee offers the chance for your Tribe to help guide and enhance the Federal and Indian minerals revenue program. A copy of the charter and Federal Register Notice are enclosed for your information.

Your participation on this Committee would be meaningful and valuable. As part of our continuing effort to inform and engage with tribes, we welcome the opportunity to speak or meet with you in person. Please contact Ms. Judy Wilson at judith.wilson@onrr.gov or (202) 208-4410 if you would like to arrange a meeting.

Sincerely,

Ryan K. Zinke

Enclosures

I am currently the Deputy Bureau Director for Field Operations at the Bureau of Indian Affairs and was reassigned into this position on July 10, 2017. Before this reassignment, I served as the Deputy Special Trustee for Field Operations in the Office of the Special Trustee for American Indians in the Office of the Secretary for the Department of the Interior. I worked for the Office of the Special Trustee in numerous capacities between 2002 and my reassignment. I joined the Senior Executive Service of the Federal Government at the Department of the Interior in 2003. I began my federal career in the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington, DC serving as a tribal government specialist in policy development and as special assistant to the Deputy Commissioner Indian Affairs and the Assistant Secretary Indian Affairs in Washington, DC from 1998 to December 2001. I received my law degree from the University of New Mexico and passed the New Mexico bar in 1981. I served as an attorney for Indian Pueblo Legal Services to begin my legal career then started my own private practice in 1984. My practice focused on Indian law, constitutional law, civil rights, criminal practice, as both a prosecutor and criminal defense attorney, and commercial practice. I am an enrolled member of Ohkay Owingeh Pueblo in New Mexico. I live on a piece of property in Bosque Farms, New Mexico with my wife of 19 years, 3 goats, 2 dogs and a cat. My wife and I enjoy travel, the arts and working on our property, which seems like a constant work in progress.

James D. Steward
Office of Natural Resources Revenue
PO Box 25165
Denver, CO 80225
303-231-3715

Jim Steward assumed duties as Deputy Director of the Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR) on September 1, 2015.

Mr. Steward has over 30 years of Federal Government experience. He joined ONRR and the U.S. Department of the Interior in 2004, after serving 17 years with the Department of Energy. Prior to his appointment as Deputy Director, he was the Program Director for Financial and Production Management, overseeing the production verification function and managing the financial organization responsible for collecting, accounting for, and disbursing Federal and American Indian mineral lease revenues to various Federal, state and American Indian accounts. Prior to that, he served as ONRR's Program Director for Asset Management.

Mr. Steward was selected to the DOI's Senior Executive Service (SES) in January 2008. As ONRR's Deputy Director, Mr. Steward oversees the day-to-day operations of the Denver Office as well as ONRR field offices in Houston and Dallas, Texas, in Oklahoma City and Tulsa, and in Farmington, New Mexico. He also represents ONRR with the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI), a voluntary, global effort designed to strengthen accountability and public trust for the revenues paid and received for a country's oil, gas and mineral resources. As ONRR's Deputy Director, Mr. Steward is a member of the USEITI Multi-Stakeholder Group that supports U.S. implementation of the EITI efforts.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Mr. Steward earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Chemical Engineering and his Master of Business Administration.

As a member of the DOI royalty policy committee I would champion the development of affiliate sales valuation methodologies that provide fair value of extracted natural resources to the public while prioritizing simplicity, clarity, and consistency. Any new affiliate sales valuation rules should benefit both royalty payers and the Federal Government by reducing compliance and enforcement obligations while increasing certainty. I believe that before any proposed affiliate sales valuation method is enacted it must demonstrate the ability to produce fair results on a consistent, repeatable basis.

Experience

Tax Director, Cloud Peak Energy Inc.

September 2011 - Current

Cloud Peak Energy is one of the largest producers of coal in the United States, producing and selling approximately 58 million tons of low sulfur, high quality coal during 2016. The company operates exclusively in the Powder River Basin at the Antelope and Cordero mines in Wyoming and at the Spring Creek mine in Montana. The Company also holds an option to significant coal reserves on land controlled by the Crow Tribe of Indians in southeast Montana.

The Company pays significant royalties and taxes on the coal that it produces and sells, including federal and state royalties, federal black lung excise tax, abandoned mine reclamation fees, Wyoming severance and gross proceeds taxes and Montana severance and gross proceeds taxes.

Cloud Peak Energy's non-income tax and royalty payments exceed $230 million annually. I am primarily responsible for managing all aspects of the Company's royalty and excise tax function. Duties include:

- Ensuring that the Company is compliant with all coal royalty and excise tax reporting laws, rules and regulations
- Developing and implementing processes and controls to ensure that all royalties excise taxes are paid in an accurate and timely manner
- Identifying, researching and evaluating royalty and tax issues
- Managing audits and working with authorities to resolve potential disputes

I am responsible for calculating the federal royalty of value all Company coal sold to affiliates by applying the "benchmark" regime provided by the coal valuation regulations, and am very familiar with the strengths and weaknesses of the current affiliate valuation framework.

Tax Director, TIC Holdings, Inc.
May 2001 – September 2011

Oversaw all aspects of income and excise taxes including compliance, research, planning and risk management for an industrial construction company with annual revenues in excess of $2 billion

Supervising Senior, KPMG LLP

Dear Ms. Oliver:

I'm pleased to nominate Jayni Foley Hein, the Policy Director at NYU Law School's Institute for Policy Integrity and an Adjunct Professor of Law at NYU Law School, to be a member of the Royalty Policy Committee. Her CV is attached.

Professor Hein is an expert in federal fossil fuel leasing and natural resources. She has authored numerous reports and academic articles on federal coal, oil, and natural gas leasing. Her recent reports and articles include: Coal Royalties: Historical Uses and Justifications; Illuminating the Hidden Costs of Coal (which analyzed possible externality cost "adders" to federal coal royalty rates); Priorities for Federal Coal Reform; Reconsidering Coal's Fair Market Value; Harmonizing Preservation and Production: How Modernizing the Department of the Interior's Fiscal Terms for Oil, Gas, and Coal Leases Can Ensure a Fair Return to the American Public; and Capturing Value: Science and Strategies to Curb Methane Emissions from the Oil and Natural Gas Sector. She has forthcoming academic articles on federal fossil fuel leasing in the Harvard Environmental Law Review and Duke Environmental Law & Policy Forum. She frequently presents her research on fossil fuel royalties and recommendations for reform to policymakers and diverse stakeholders. She was the lead organizer for a high-level stakeholder workshop on federal coal reform priorities in Washington, D.C. in June 2016. She has presented her research on federal fossil fuel leasing before the U.S. House of Representatives, Committee on Natural Resources; the Proceedings on Oil and Gas Law at the Institute for Energy Law in Houston Texas; and at the annual conference of the Society for Benefit-Cost Analysis. She also co-authored a major report on hydraulic fracturing in California, which helped lead to the passage of comprehensive legislation governing the practice in the State. She holds a J.D. from the University of California, Berkeley School of Law, and a B.A. from the University of Virginia.

Given her enormous ability, extensive experience, and extensive track record of first-rate work, Professor Hein would be a wonderfully compelling member of the committee. Please let me know whether any additional information would be helpful.

Dear Mr. Thee:

Re: DOI Royalty Policy Committee Recommendation

I am writing to express my support for the Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee (RPC) and to recommend Jeremy Norton as a member to the RPC, representing the mineral and/or energy stakeholders in Federal and Indian royalty policy. Jeremy currently serves as the Senior Compliance Supervisor in Devon's accounting department and has 9 years of oil and gas accounting experience. In this role, he leads the team responsible for remitting and reporting Federal, Indian, and State royalties and production taxes to numerous agencies. He is a COPAS member and also actively participates on the API royalty sub-committee and Petroleum Association of Wyoming tax sub-committee.

Representing one of the largest onshore, Federal oil and gas reporting companies and given his extensive, front-line experience, I believe Jeremy will offer a valuable perspective to the committee. His understanding of the Federal and Indian valuation regulations from the mineral stakeholders' perspective and knowledge of diverse producer (and affiliate) marketing arrangements will allow him to assist the RPC in meeting its objectives to advise the Secretary on the fair market value, revenue collection, impact of proposed policies, and the need for potential regulatory reform related to the development of mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands.

Thank you for your consideration of Mr. Norton as a COPAS representative to the Royalty Policy Committee.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Oliver:

I write to nominate Jerry Strickland to serve as a member of the Department of the Interior Royalty Policy Committee (Committee).

It is essential that Texas, the nation's leader in energy production, has a voice on the Committee. Jerry is my senate-confirmed appointee as Director of the Federal and State Relations Office for the State of Texas. As such, he has been my office's lead senior staffer on federal issues for over two years. I am confident in his ability to thoughtfully contribute to the Committee.

Thank you for considering Jerry Strickland for nomination to the Royalty Policy Committee. His resume is attached to this e-mail. Please contact David Whitley at david.whitley@gov.texas.gov or 512.463.8292 if you need any further information.

Sincerely,

Greg Abbott

Re: Royalty Policy Committee – Nomination of John W. Andrews

Dear Ms. Oliver:

On April 3, 2017, the Department of the Interior invited nominations for the newly-reinstated Royalty Policy Committee, which is intended to provide advice to the Secretary on the fair market value of, and collection of revenues derived from, the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands. The invitation for nominations included a membership category of up to six members representing the Governors of States that receive more than $10 million in annual royalty revenues from federal mineral leases. This category includes the State of Utah.

I nominate Mr. John W. Andrews as my representative in this category of proposed members for the Royalty Policy Committee. Mr. Andrews is currently the Associate Director and Chief Legal Counsel for Utah's state trust lands management agency, the Utah School and Institutional Trust Lands Administration. In that capacity, he has direct involvement in the valuation of oil and gas, coal, and non-energy mineral production, including supervision of legal disputes with respect to mineral royalty valuation. Utah has expressly incorporated federal oil and gas valuation standards into its mineral leasing program, so Mr. Andrews has direct experience with federal royalty valuation. He has also been a long-standing participant in royalty valuation activities sponsored by both the Western States Land Commissioners Association and the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation, and is aware of current issues of interest both to the states and industry. Prior to joining the State, his private legal practice included both federal and Indian royalty valuation matters. A copy of his resume is attached.

Sincerely,

Gary R. Herbert
Governor

September 1, 2016, to present

New Mexico Field Representative

I am currently working with the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), submitting comments and recommending changes to resource management planning for the Las Cruces and Carlsbad Districts and writing proposals for backcountry conservation areas (BCAs) in Otero Mesa. In addition, I am writing public land resolutions of support, negotiating backing from county commissions and the sportsman community, working on public land policy and continuing my work on access issues.

FRIENDS OF THE ORGAN MOUNTAINS-DESERT PEAKS NATIONAL MONUMENT (OMDP), Las Cruces, New Mexico – a non-profit organization committed to educating the public and promoting use of the national monument and public lands.

May – July 2016

Independent Consultant/Sportsmen's and Conservation Issues

I consulted for the Friends of the OMDP, garnering support for the OMDP Conservation Act.

NEW MEXICO WILDLIFE FEDERATION (NMWF) – a non-profit sportsman/conservation organization committed to obtaining and preserving hunting and fishing opportunities for sportsmen and women, working with youth and future generations of hunters and protecting and enhancing habitat and public lands.

April 2008 to April 2016

Sportsman Coordinator

- I played a key role in the Presidential designation of the 500,000-acre Organ Mountain-Desert Peaks National Monument in Doña Ana County, New Mexico, by obtaining crucial support from sportsmen and educating the public through public-speaking and publicity on radio, television and local newspapers. I was instrumental in helping our U.S. Senators delineate the boundaries; add additional acreage to the monument and by lobbying decision-makers in Washington, D.C.
- I am a leader in organizing grass-roots activism on complicated access issues and I am responsible for maintaining and gaining approximately 1.5 million acres of public land access in New Mexico through my efforts with national legislation and working closely with land-management agencies and county governments.
- By invitation from the BLM and the U.S. Forest Service, I played a key role in submitting comments and recommending changes to existing BLM resource management plans. I offered comments and recommendations pertaining to wildlife habitat and natural resources sustainability in Forest Service forest revision planning. And, I organized and educated other sportsmen to make their own comments and recommendations.
- By personal lobbying and education, I successfully obtained resolutions of support for national legislation to reform the antiquated and outdated General Mining Act of 1872 from in excess of 30 city and county governmental entities, involving meetings and presentations to individual councilors and commissioners and presentations at city and county commission meetings. The current law has no protection for environmental degradation nor provides adequate payment to the general treasury for leasing and royalties of mineral extracted by U.S. and foreign entities on public lands.

- I was a key negotiator with the International Boundary Water Commission (IBWC) in deciding to open 30 miles of the Lower Rio Grande River for hunting, which has been closed for the last 40 years.
- I am a successful lobbyist in Washington, D.C. and at the state legislature in New Mexico, garnering support for conservation and sportsmen's issues. I have excellent personal relationships with New Mexico's congressional delegates and staff.
- I represented the NMWF in southern New Mexico, working with sportsmen's groups to facilitate positive interaction and generate support for conservation issues important to the NMWF's members. I helped organize and lead backcountry and wilderness hunting seminars for sportsmen, sportswomen, and youth, and I organized a youth hunting program to give NM youth hunting opportunities. I organized and led an economics forum pertaining to protection of public lands for southern New Mexico, including the coordination of speakers and implementing advertising and media involvement. I arranged coverage with media outlets, issued press releases, and drafted newspaper stories and letters to editors (LTEs) for relevant campaigns. I have worked with pueblos and Native American communities on conservation and Federal land-protection issues. And, I work with the Bureau of Land Management, USDA Forest Service, State Forestry, State Game & Fish Department and State Game Commission on issues important to New Mexico, including the health of forests, wildlife habitat and issues pertinent to sportsmen, sportswomen and youth.

DEER CREEK MORTGAGE – an independent mortgage company serving home and rural property, based out of Colorado.

October 2004 – April 2008

Mortgage Banker

I successfully and independently managed the Hillsboro branch with full accountability and facilitated the loan process for clients, applying innovative solutions to a variety of problems and nuances in the rural lending climate. I coordinated all closing details with clients, lenders, title companies, appraisers, and insurance representatives, including sourcing and obtaining help for clients with credit issues. I brainstormed and implemented innovative advertising ideas using computer website, flyers, presentations to civic groups and realtor organizations, and purchased ads.

PRIOR EXPERIENCE (Sales, Marketing): During a career in the wholesale forest products industry, I implemented an industrial sales department, coordinated and sourced materials, and built my territory to $300,000 in gross monthly sales. I organized, coordinated and supervised a production facility, including hiring and supervising mill employees and sales staff. I owned and operated a wholesale forest-products company with gross sales of $1,000,000 annually. I implemented the sales program, secured materials and resolved transportation and logistical issues, was project manager, researcher and financial manager. I was initially recruited from Oklahoma State University by the Southern Forest Products Association, where I planned and led seminars to educate manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, engineering and truss/component manufacturers, contractors and homebuilders regarding government regulations, improving the position of the forest products industry and increasing usage of southern forest products.

John Mehlhoff

Senior Executive Service since Feb. 2014
Office of Natural Resources Revenue
Program Director of CEVA
Coordination, Enforcement, Valuation, and Appeals

John Mehlhoff finds opportunity within an organization, brings together individual ideas into a logical plan, helps others to see that vision, and drives to achieve positive results and change. He is an inspirational leader who tells stories that inspire people while at the same time is grounded in real world management. He is a respected decision maker who weighs reasonable risk and stands behind those decisions. He relies heavily on talented skill players around him who help to formulate thoughts into actions.

At the Office of Natural Resources Revenue Mr. Mehlhoff serves as the Program Director for oil, gas, and coal valuation; State and Tribal outreach and audit; regulations; and Director appeals. His CEVA organization are the primary partners with Solicitor's Office, Office of the Inspector General, and the Department of Justice on IBLA and Federal Court appeals, litigation, and enforcement activities. John worked 29 years in the Bureau of Land Management in Montana, Wyoming, Washington DC, Oklahoma and Colorado, holding progressively responsible positions as an engineer and line manager. Last serving as the acting Colorado State Director. Special career assignments included a Congressional Fellowship for Senator Ted Stevens, Alaska as an advisor on public land energy matters. He served as Chair of the Western Leadership Council building consensus on pending legislation and as the energy staff advisor for the Assistant Secretary Lands and Minerals where he led efforts regarding the Oil and Gas Performance Review, Royalty Policy Committee, and Reinvention of Government initiatives.

John holds a BS in Petroleum Engineering from Montana Tech and early in his career worked with Getty, Gulf, and Petro-Lewis companies in oil and gas field engineering and operations capacities.

He is a North Dakota native from a 4th generation mining, farming, and ranching family. John is married thirty years to Suzanne Mehlhoff who is also an accomplished engineering manager. Together they have two adult daughters. John enjoys time at the farm, days spent in his waders fishing Colorado's and Montana's wonderful rivers, the occasional round of golf, and family time.

Work Experience

Program Director

Coordination, Enforcement, Valuation, and Appeals
Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR)
Denver, Colorado

February 9, 2014 – Present
Senior Executive Service (SES)

Supervisor: Greg Gould (303) 231-3058

Responsibilities: Provide leadership and direction to the employees of ONRR striving for excellence in natural resources revenue management. Provide a strong, active voice with the Executive Leadership Team and DOI officials.

Accomplishments: Led cross-organizational teams in developing and publishing the first major change in decades in the Office of Natural Resource Revenues (ONRR) regulations governing $10 billion per year in oil, gas, and coal royalties due the United States, Indian Tribes, and individual Indians. Driving force behind creating an Indian Energy Service Center staffed by the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), Bureau of Land Management (BLM), and ONRR designed to meet the most pressing mineral interest issues in Indian country. Initiated a comprehensive, employee-driven organizational assessment of my program directorate, made hard choices on the assessment's suggestions and recommendations, then led a restructuring of his organization to best optimize use of the workforce and best serve all stakeholders. Inspired employees to excellence in every endeavor and served as an outstanding role model for diversity and inclusion.

Associate State Director, Colorado

Bureau of Land Management
Colorado State Office
Denver, Colorado

May 2010 – February 2014
GS-0340 Grade 15

Supervisor: Helen Hankins (retired)

Responsibilities: Serve as the associate to the State Director in providing multi-faceted, quality leadership of 800 people and direction to the multiple-use management of the public lands and resources in Colorado. Responsible for providing direction and leadership for all BLM, Department, and administration objectives and policy. Established statewide program goals and priorities. Develop, correlate, and execute resource management, technical support and administrative management of the state.

Accomplishments: Successful, proactive management of all budget, human resource, information technology and resource initiatives for BLM CO. Examples include: full implementation of oil and gas leasing reform measures, progress on 5 resource management plan revisions, wild horse gather operations, coal program expansions, sage grouse initiatives, budget redesign, workload stratification, and conservative budget and workforce plan management.

Field Manager

Bureau of Land Management (New Mexico)
Oklahoma Field Office
Tulsa, Oklahoma

March 2001 – May 2010

GS-0340 Grade 14

Supervisor: Jesse Juen (retired)

Responsibilities: Management of all Bureau responsibilities in a three state region (Oklahoma, Texas, and Kansas). Federal (multi-agency) oversight of 9 million acres of public and Indian Trust mineral estates. Supervision and leadership of 80 employees. Primary responsible manager for executing all of the Bureau's functions for the field office including; minerals, resources, and administrative functions (IT, budget, HR, EEO, procurement, travel, etc.). Major programs and resources include one of the largest oil and gas programs in BLM, Trust management of Indian mineral estates (two thirds of all Bureau Indian responsibility), managing most of the BLM's wild horse long term holding facilities and the most productive adoption team, coal, realty, environmental oversight, sensible mineral development, and planning responsibilities.

Accomplishments: Implemented the Energy Bill for APD processing timeframes and customer response and achieved those goals. Provided the BIA with strong technical support and guidance by making BLM the strongest link in Indian minerals management. Initiated the idle, orphan, and liability well program for the field office, holding operators accountable and limiting taxpayer responsibility. Worked to improve business practices in minerals management by creating and strengthening our partnerships the Oklahoma Corporation Commission (OCC), sister agencies, the OK Division of Wildlife and others. Created and co-chaired the Midcontinent Oil and Gas working committee. Established ties to the key Indian leadership within Oklahoma. Created a collaborative management team and established a new organizational structure for the Field Office. Managed eleven wild horse and burro long term holding facilities. Recognized as New Mexico manager of the year in 2002.

Field Manager

Bureau of Land Management
White River Field Office
Meeker, Colorado

July 1995 - February 2001

GS-0340 Grade 13

Supervisor: Mark Morse (retired)

Responsibilities: Management of more than 2 million acres of public land and mineral resources in northwest Colorado. Supervision and leadership of 35 permanent employees and accountability for an annual $2 million budget. Major programs and resources included: fire, wild horses, range, realty, right-of-ways, minerals (oil, gas, coal, sodium), wilderness, weeds, T&E, cultural, wildlife and hydrology.

Accomplishments: Designed and implemented an aggressive multi-year horse management plan which achieved AML and sustained growth. Created multimineral leasing (sodium and oil shale) opportunities, a first for the BLM. Completed the White River RMP in July 1997. Organized a national NEPA pilot for performance based stipulations. Managed the most successful weed management partnership on the western slope of Colorado. Instituted a fair and equitable Special Recreation Use Permit program with the help of the Outfitters partnership. Initiated the Canyon Pintado Historic District cultural development as part of the Dinosaur Diamond Partnership. Completed of the first Fire Management Plan (phase 1) in the Bureau. Developed and sustained strong relationships with community and local leaders. Respected public land manager with diverse constituent groups. Provided management leadership as the representative to Colorado's Strategic Plan. Received a Star Award in November 1997 for quality leadership. Gave the commencement address to the Meeker High School graduating class of 2001.

TECHNICAL QUALIFICATIONS

- 1. Demonstrated experience and knowledge of legal, policy, and regulatory aspects related to the administration of Federal and Indian mineral lease revenues and production.*

I have committed my professional life to public service and continually pursued excellence to provide service to our customers and employees and create an atmosphere of continuous improvement, honesty, and integrity as fundamental core values throughout my career. I have spent 29 years, most of them as a line manager in the Bureau of Land Management, in various leadership positions across the west and in Washington D.C. This experience has provided me a keen awareness of the impacts public land management decisions have on the natural environment, communities, and economies. In these positions I have gained extensive experience implementing the laws and policies that guide a full spectrum of natural resource programs. I have been directly responsible for the technical and administrative workloads for the resource programs intertwined in our multiple use mission including; range, recreation, cultural resources, threatened and endangered species, watersheds, air quality, wild horses, wilderness, lands, realty, and minerals programs. I am especially well experienced with our oil and gas roles and responsibilities having spent many years as a petroleum engineer working at the operational delivery and policy development levels of the agency. In these roles I have often delivered the strategic vision and direction of our programs and policies on the national and local levels.

As a result of my diverse management experience and technical skills I was requested to serve as a senior advisor to the Assistant Secretary for Land and Minerals Management (ASLM) and liaison to the BLM and Minerals Management Service serving to help guide and provide vision for the Vice Presidents Reinvention of Government initiative which included the Bureau's Oil and Gas Performance Review.

As the Oklahoma Field Manager I directed the implementation the Energy Bill for APD processing timeframes and customer response and achieved those goals. I provided the BIA with strong technical support and guidance by making BLM the strongest link in Indian minerals management. I initiated the idle, orphan, and liability well program for the field office, holding operators accountable and limiting taxpayer responsibility. I worked to improve business practices in minerals management by creating and strengthening our partnerships the Oklahoma Corporation Commission (OCC), sister agencies, the OK Division of Wildlife and others. One very important accomplishment was when I created and co-chaired the Midcontinent Oil and Gas working committee. This working group brought together many of our industry partners and customers to improve and educate the members on critical operational and policy issues throughout the region and was especially focused on improving our operational oversight of Trust and Tribal minerals properties. An important accomplishment was the creation of process to identify and resolve wells drilled without approval on both Federal and Indian properties and work toward resolution of this significant problem. I established policy and procedures which implemented cutting edge offsite mitigation for cultural and key habitat restoration. I established ties to the key Indian leadership within Oklahoma and dedicated myself to being responsive to the business processes while respecting the unique cultures and diversities of each individual group.

As the national program leader for fluid minerals in our Washington office I was the BLM representative to the Department of Energy Oil and Gas Initiative and performed as the lead Bureau person for the National Petroleum Council marginal well study. I lead for the Bureau's National Performance Review for fluid minerals programs and was the primary author of the redesigned Inspection and Enforcement National Strategy. I also led our efforts to create and complete Onshore Order No. 8, Abandonment of Wells. I received a Special Achievement Award for inspection and enforcement program work on Indian matters.

While working as a petroleum engineer in Montana/Dakota's and in Wyoming I manage and led all oil and gas operations, and the Inspection and Enforcement program for the field offices. I analyzed and approved detailed engineering and economic reviews on industry proposals. I supervised the inspection and enforcement and the production accounting processes and staffs including our surface compliance responsibilities. I coordinated quality control for the computer data systems. I performed as the budget program leader for all minerals programs. I worked with State Oil and Gas Commissions, industry, and various state and federal agencies. One special accomplishment was as the primary oil and gas expert and resource lead for the largest NEPA law enforcement case ever prosecuted in Wyoming for which received a special recognition. This case involved technical wellbore expertise and extensive work with the U.S. Attorney's Office to bring a successful outcome of the criminal case. I provided technical and procedural guidance to the fluid minerals programs. I performed economic evaluations for drainage, development, lease sale evaluation, unit activity and unit docket preparation. I analyzed and approved Unitization and communitization agreements. I performed reservoir engineering studies and executed internal quality control reviews. I represented the BLM at all State Oil and Gas Commission hearings and was a sworn technical expert in North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming; providing testimony on federal and Indian lease matters. I served as a commissioned Board member making decisions on technical and legal matters for Indian and tribal trust leases in Montana.

2. Demonstrated experience and knowledge of Indian fiduciary trust principles and responsibilities, including tribal consultation policies, as related to royalty compliance and asset management.

I have had the good fortune to serve at every functional level of the Bureau of Land Management (Field, District, State, and Headquarters), with the Assistant Secretary for Lands and Minerals (ASLM), and in the United States Senate. This corporate level experience gives me an edge in understanding the dynamics and protocols of our business and affords me a basis to be innovative and strategic while external forces change quickly. I am comfortable representing even the most controversial defenses of our actions. The basic principles of legal, moral, and ethical behavior guide my responses in each and every case.

In Oklahoma, I managed the largest single Indian Trust program within the BLM. We had 39 federally recognized Tribes and literally thousands of individual Indian allottees. In each and every case, I took the utmost care and responsibility in dealing with the cultural diversity and unique individualism we encountered in managing or consulting on resource decisions, historical interests, monetary responsibilities and basic human decency in dealing with people whose livelihoods and cultural continuity were a primary concern. The volume and complexity of this work is unmatched anywhere within BLM. The need to specifically consult and engage this unique customer presented extreme flexibility, sensitivity, thoroughness, and accuracy expectations. I consistently represented myself and the Bureau in a manner which approached this work with the highest level of commitment, foremost in our goals and desired results. This work was being accomplished under the most extreme scrutiny and exasperated business limitations ever experienced within the agency. Outmaneuvering the lack of computer access to accomplish this work, in itself presented nearly insurmountable odds for success. Yet, under my leadership we continued to offer an extremely high level of competent work products that were necessary to meet this challenge.

In this role I faced a major challenge of working with State government in the management of the scattered public mineral interest, and even more so with our Indian Trust responsibilities. I worked closely with the elected Corporation Commissioners to streamline and develop procedural guidance for coordinated development decisions. The State found it difficult to acknowledge our collective responsibility to Indian mineral owners, and we assertively responded with our position. One offshoot of this controversy was the creation of a working group within the MidContinent Oil and Gas Association. I was directly responsible for collaborating with our industry partners to create and co-chair this working group. I used this forum to educate our partners, and expanded the group to include sister agencies, state government groups, Indian partners and our industry partners. Our office wrestled with issues that included wells drilled without approval (DWOA), new Onshore Orders and NTL's, flood plain policy, Indian representation, information exchange, and ideas for improving business practices. We had some of the most complex mineral and surface ownership scenarios in the Bureau.

Another example of my leadership experience and knowledge involves Tar Creek. Tar Creek, the largest superfund site in the United States, lies in northeast Oklahoma and required a delicate crosswalk among numerous governmental agencies and Departments within my jurisdiction. The BLM had a significant historical and operational role relative to documentary evidence and mining operations. This project has been one of the highest Departmental priorities, specific to cleanup plans and management of the restricted Quapaw Indian ownership of the tailing piles (CHAT). My role was to provide historical documentation and technical support for the BIA, including engineering and geology skills. I briefed officials within the agency and Department, and developed mine plans, CHAT sales agreements, and production accounting methods. The work was highly scrutinized because of the hazardous nature of the material, and the value it held to the Indian owners. Balancing the Department's competing interests required nimble approaches and extreme patience while dealing with all involved parties. A significant accomplishment was to achieve the sale authority for individual Indian owners and the Tribe.

I was responsible for directing all of our special fiduciary responsibilities to Indian Tribes as sovereign nations and their members. This special relationship between the United States and Indian Tribes and their members is derived from the unique government-to-government relationship between the United States and the Indian Nations recognized by the Constitution of the United States, treaties, statues and Executive Orders. In Oklahoma, I represented BLM with different Tribes and Nations. I reached out to Indian country to help them develop an understanding of BLM roles and responsibilities, and worked at developing a professional and personal relationship with many Indian leaders and customers. I worked to rebuild effective communication and an open door policy to the Indian customers we served. Prior to my arrival in Oklahoma, our Indian customers did not know who we were or what services we provided. I aided the Department in establishing new business procedures and Trust management reform; a very high priority for the Secretary that was extremely sensitive. I am always committed to improving business practices and working relationships. I frequently met with the oil and gas industry, energy trade associations and legal representatives to promote careful development of Indian and federal mineral interests. I was a key member of the Bureau's Energy Policy team, and made a major presentation before a diverse audience exploring ideas of improved NEPA and other business practices. I have represented the agency and made presentations on policies and procedures in many scientific forums including the Midcontinent Oil and Gas Association, the Oklahoma Chapter of Geophysical Engineers and Geologists and various practicing attorney associations. Throughout my career I have represented and advocated the BLM in numerous meetings, conferences and other venues. Whether I was holding a meeting in the Capitol building as a Congressional Fellow or as a Field Manager over a cup of coffee with an employee, I consistently presented myself, my staff and our agency in the best possible terms and continually strived to make a positive and lasting impression. Often meetings were of a controversial nature and required me to carefully present the BLM perspective and field difficult questions from competing resources users and the media.

3. Demonstrated experience and knowledge of regulatory and policy aspects related to the valuation of oil, gas, coal, geothermal, and other natural resources.

I have been a vocal advocate and demonstrated leader to bring change to the production accounting practices in the Bureau. Because of this leadership and vision in August 2008 I was asked to lead a production accountability team to develop guidance on how to best implement recommendations of the congressional Royalty Policy Committee for improvement of production accounting throughout the Department. The report, action plan and recommendations that I developed were presented to senior Department leadership. I was presented this challenge because of my demonstrated understanding of this responsibility and its technical difficulty. I convened a group of national representatives, and together we produced the first comprehensive proposal for tackling this daunting responsibility. Our nine recommendations were tiered directly to our mainstay programs and functions. We found a way to propose action without creating new bureaucracy and burdensome processes. Fundamental and proven field techniques were used to expand on good business practices and close loopholes with MMS. Previous written guidance regarding the Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) and the Minerals Management Service's (MMS) production accountability responsibilities was unconsolidated, outdated, and sometimes insufficient. This resulted in inconsistent and outmoded approaches to production accountability tasks, and potential reductions in royalty revenue. In response to this issue, the Production Accountability Team (PA Team) reviewed the field office level activity of Petroleum Engineering Technicians (PETs). The PA Team examined each type of production-related inspection activity that the PETs conducted and evaluated the activities using criteria which explored why a business function is performed to establish a reason for a process. I looked at drivers for each process to determine what motivates and prioritizes the need for this process. I was especially focused on our field level work being conducted by our petroleum engineers and petroleum engineering technicians to understand what product flows from doing this work at the field level and how those products were being produced. I considered flow processes to determine how work products needed to go to a production accountability technician (PAT) for further analysis and finally looked at what the outcome product for the PAT's work. I examined how work product flowed to MMS (now ONNR) for further evaluation. I also considered a feedback loop to assure adequate completion of our work and establish a quality control element. I evaluated all production accountability functions against this criteria, including inspections for Oil Tank Gauging, Oil Lease Automated Custody Transfer (LACT) Meter proving, Gas Chart (or Electronic Flow Meter data) Verifications, Gas Meter Calibrations, Well Status, Operator Changes, Agreement Termination, Run Ticket Verification, Transporter Manifest reviews, Well Tests, and Site Security. This analysis was then used to construct a production accounting process for BLM field offices, which included process and product flow to the MMS for further review and completion. My recommendations covered interagency communication, timeliness, feedback, performance tracking, staffing, priority setting, duties, and training. This work was carefully considered, with each individual business function being examined from a field deliverability perspective. These processes created the modern production accounting practice of the Bureau of Land Management.

In 2003 I joined the newly created Exchange and Appraisal workgroup to evaluate the agency's land exchange and appraisal processes, in light of recommendations presented by the Office of the Inspector General and the General Accounting Office, as well as a report prepared under contract by the Appraisal Foundation. The work group was chaired by the BLM Director and our charge was to assess how best to reorganize, re-delegate, or otherwise revamp the agency's current appraisal function and exchange program, so they would operate with professional excellence and full integrity going forward. I was especially focused on the valuation methodologies for surface and mineral appraisal. I made significant business improvement recommendations that changed the processes and oversight of the program, ultimately strengthening the program.

EXECUTIVE CORE QUALIFICATIONS

LEADING CHANGE

I have been a primary decision maker and leader for BLM State and Field office operations for the past twenty years in the Colorado and New Mexico organizations. In all of my leadership roles I have provided the strategic vision for each office and positioned our workforce to adjust to a continuously changing environment. Although programs and challenges differ, the need to present, discuss and defend program objectives has remained constant. The public and governmental interests differ regionally, however the basic premise of managing our public resources in a transparent manner has always been paramount. The Bureau faces many challenges and pressures to adjust and change our objectives and tactical approaches, and yet I find intelligent and innovative ways to move our field operations and programs forward. To achieve the results that our State and National leadership teams expect, I am constantly leveraging our best management practices, whether derived locally or borrowed from other successful units. I use our staff experts to help design and create approaches to problems and challenges that present themselves. I coordinate extensively with those we affect in the decision making process. Internally, I instinctively rely on and receive thoughtful consultation from our professional networks and organization experts throughout the BLM network. I have had many opportunities to identify the need for change, develop clear vision and lead the implementation of important modifications to a number of organizations. Examples of my ability to lead change follow.

As the Associate State Director, I provide leadership for the 800 employees in the state and am the primary change agent for Colorado. I recently completed Diversity Change Agent training and am focused on this departmental initiative. My personal area of focus is aiding returning Veterans. We have not offered opportunities that are focused on employment of returning Veterans. I am leading our Colorado Green Corp and Operation Warfighter initiatives that provide seasonal employment opportunities to these American heroes, and helps give them the experience and opportunity to pursue careers within the Bureau. I am proud to have successfully increased the number of veterans employed in Colorado in both our seasonal and permanent workforce. I am spearheading many other change initiatives for Colorado, including a fundamental budget redesign effort, workforce strategic plans and workload stratification efforts. The need for these strategic initiatives is driven from our reducing annual budget appropriations. Colorado has been reduced nearly 20% of its capacity from just three fiscal years ago. All of these initiatives are designed to prepare our organization for change. This strategic work has provided the rest of the agency with a vision of managing our future and is being replicated nationally. My vision for fundamental budget redesign is focused on providing a method of moving our available resources to the priorities of the state and the expectations of our customers.

During my time as the Field Manager for the tri-state area (OK, TX, and KS), I had responsibility for 80 employees. This Field Office did not have a leadership team structure. I led the Field Office to establish a functional senior leadership team and to commit to a structured decision making process and team goals. I restructured the offices under a unified management unit. I was accountable for nearly 9 million acres of mineral estate, qualifying as some of the most complex and controversial found within the Bureau. The diverse surface and mineral ownership pattern common throughout Oklahoma often created mixed ownership between allotted Indians, Tribal interests, Federal ownership and other private interests. The Bureau's "Indian Trust" responsibility and other legal challenges arise from this myriad of concerns. The complex coordination of interests required me to integrate broad organizational visions and goals into my decisions and actions, with the end goal of meeting customers' expectations. I created an atmosphere that fostered teamwork and recognized our dependence upon one another, which improved our ability to provide the highest level of customer service collectively achievable. I worked hard to maintain the agency's heritage and professional image, as we moved forward in exploring new ways of conducting Trust management. This was an extremely sensitive and important responsibility to both our Indian customers and our employees. In Meeker, I managed 2 million acres of public lands with a myriad of diverse programs that ranged from having responsibility for the largest wild horse herd in Colorado, to the latest, state of the art sodium mine in the western United States. This office also lacked a unified management team structure. I created and organized the leadership team to manage and coordination of these programs. It required effective communication, productive constituent relationships, and local community involvement. I took every practical opportunity I had to discuss my positions and disclose the facts to the people that were affected by them. My field office had built effective partnerships within a rural community that prided itself on independence. Oil and gas program management, weed program initiatives, wilderness evaluations, multi-mineral leasing and successful implementation of Standards and Guidelines on traditional range management allotments are just a few examples of my ability to lead change through collaborative management within a strong western rural county and state. The innovative directions and goals of many of these initiatives were cutting edge for the BLM, and attracted national attention. People were looking to this success and asking how to duplicate it in similar venues around the country. I spent a great deal of effort embodying the "good neighbor" philosophy, while concurrently balancing the management of public resources in a creative, yet focused, manner. Each situation required consistent, fact-based decisions, and the persistence to fight for difficult positions. I reached out to elected officials, sister agencies, the Resource Advisory Council, interest groups and others for advice and counsel. I had continuing and open dialog with the congressional representatives, and worked very closely with County Commissioners, State organizations and the Forest Service on issues of local and regional importance. These coalitions have strengthened my management ability and provided avenues of conflict resolution. In Colorado, I had a formal agreement and consulted with the Ute Tribe on cultural issues affecting Indian interests. I worked closely with the local communities on economic development and regional partnerships promoting tourism and cultural interpretation. I was extensively involved with Colorado's Agriculture Commissioner to resolve on-the-ground conflicts. I have developed a progressive working relationship with some of the Bureau's more colorful and controversial ranchers and mineral developers. My style is to persistently seek consensus with people and focus on areas of agreement, while chipping away at our differences to reach workable agreements. Sometimes we have to agree to disagree, and I rely on the best science available to guide my decisions, all the while explaining the rationale for making them. Other parties may not like the decision, but there is always a respect for making a difficult decision.

As the Chairman of the Field Committee I have led this group of senior BLM managers to prepare the BLM for the future. I have directed our responses on the Information Technology Transfer (ITT) by providing advice and guidance to the Bureau to demonstrate our ability and capacity to operate the agencies programs efficiently and effectively by establishing our ability to perform our IT functions in a competitive environment by centralizing like kind functions into our National Operations Center and eliminating duplication and overlap of our historical management philosophy of individual state programs. This change is difficult for the Bureau to accept because of the manner in which these services have evolved. I have led Colorado into this centralization by moving our data management and application management into this more centric model providing a model of success to other state directorships.

I was asked to bring this leadership to the national level by co-leading a team of Senior Executives and Field Committee members on our national response to organization change for the entire agency. We are currently identifying what programs and functions across our Directorate that must have priority and deemphasizing many traditional processes and functions that are not essential to delivering the mission of the Bureau to enable our agency to perform our duties and programs in a dramatically reduced fiscal funding situation.

LEADING PEOPLE

My experience as a public land manager in four states and in our headquarters office has given me a wonderful opportunity to enhance my skills in leading people. The complicated nature of managing public land and resources has given me appreciation for a variety of techniques to lead a diverse workforce responsible for the complex and competitive workloads of the Bureau of Land Management. My ability to lead people and compel organizational change is highlighted by a number of specific examples as follows.

As a Field Manager, I covered a wide variety of responsibilities including visitor services, administration, traditional resource management (range, wildlife, cultural, etc.), minerals, fire and others. In both of my Field Manager positions I inherited an organization that did not have a cohesive senior leadership team. I created the leadership team structure and an atmosphere for success. I use integrity and honesty as the fundamental underpinnings of how I approach leadership. At the field level, I managed in a participatory manner, and frequently required my staff to crosswalk routine work processes with resource specialists who had not historically been consulted. This interdisciplinary development team approach brought everyone's diverse knowledge's and opinions into the decision making process that made for better comprehensive choices. I reorganized staff by moving people to where the work and priorities were. I make it a personal goal to find ways to make employees most productive and to be satisfied and accomplished in their professional careers by expanding job descriptions, and in some cases, helping them to move on to further their careers in other endeavors. I have taken the employees of my field offices from staffs who worked independently of one another and their customers to accomplish their personal goals and initiatives, to teams working in a comprehensive and coordinated way. While the first method encouraged a strong work ethic and a great deal of individual pride of accomplishment, it fostered an organization that lacked focus in its overall goals and priorities. These organizations lacked the necessary teamwork to make well thought out decisions and establish program directives. I changed the way we did business by encouraging basic communication between program specialists, building diversity in our thought process, involving everyone, cross-walking certain programs between renewable and nonrenewable staffs, and giving office supervisors the ability to manage their people for collaborative results. We made better, more comprehensive decisions because of it. I use staff on emerging issues and programs as I feel their skills permit. I challenge people to do their very best and reward them for good performance. It is important to me to make our work environment challenging, yet rewarding and fun. Employees who are involved and enjoy their work are more productive and enthusiastic when stepping up to the constant and ever changing problems of natural resource management, and I help them find a way to accomplish it. I made time to visit with staff and have an open door policy whenever they find a need to talk about whatever is on their mind. I enjoyed being involved in daily activity, whether on the fire staff as one of the crew or as a facilitator working to develop a superior product. I would never expect my staff to do something that I would be unwilling to do, and I lead by example wherever possible. I used people outside of their normal job descriptions and routines by spending time to find their strengths, then using them where they can showcase those strengths. In a downsizing environment, I relied a great deal on our management team for scarce skills support and meaningful coordination on resource management. In turn, I extend the same support to them. I have helped built strong management teams whose working relationship is superior to most.

To effectively lead people I have challenged myself to personally reinvent my own approaches to support those around me, to facilitate teamwork, and resolve conflict. To accomplish this I have been diversifying my experience and knowledge of the natural resource programs that the Bureau manages during the last 29 years. I began as an engineer in the minerals program, and have broadened my exposure to include providing the BLM perspective at Wild Horse and Burro annual meetings, working on the cultural resource matrix team, leading the agency in weed management initiatives, and being one of the first field managers to tackle development of a Fire Management Plan. All of these examples have required increasing my knowledge and administering the laws, regulations and rules relative to each resource. I leverage diversity in my decision making by relying on my own past experiences and bringing people with different strengths to the table, whether it be skills diversity, geographic diversity or technical diversity. I am committed to providing good stewardship for our public lands and ensuring the public interest is protected. To better know where you are going it is best to remember where you have been. I grew up on a North Dakota cattle and wheat farm where I began my fundamental tie to our natural resources, and the strong work ethic of a multi-generational farming family. I continue to rely on those values today.

As the Associate State Director of Colorado I am called on to lead people at every moment and provide an organizational vision to help them navigate a continuously changing work environment. I am the final decision maker for all human capital decisions for our 800 person workforce. I make decisions regarding all hiring, disciplinary actions, EEO, budget and workforce planning. I chair our Human Resource Strategic and Strategic Budget committees. I continue to direct our strategies and set the path forward to create and design a workforce that is committed to our mission and is best prepared to deliver excellent work products. I am very proud of accomplishments of the people in my organization and provide personal mentoring to many people who I have intersected with throughout my career. Mentoring people is challenging and rewarding and requires me to listen all the way through each issue and conflict they are facing before offering advice or counsel. I enjoy teaching people in our Leadership Academy and our Emerging Leaders developmental courses where I am renown for leaving no student out or disengaged in the conversation. I also annually lecture at Denver University Law School for the natural resources law department to explain the business of the Bureau of Land Management in a way that connects these young law students to our mission and functions. I am confident that sharing my experiences and background is helpful to each student to make a personal connection to why public land and resource management is challenging and rewarding.

RESULTS DRIVEN

I have had the rare opportunity to work at every organizational level of the BLM, and have broad exposure to the demands, pressures and expectations of each. My experience at numerous levels in Washington, D.C., State, and District offices, and as a Field Manager, has been a unique opportunity to work at strategic levels within the Interior Department and the Bureau. Each experience has pressed me to be accountable and placed my internal focus on continuous self improvement. I have had the responsibility for programs that span the multiple use spectrum for landscapes involving millions of acres and budgets exceeding one hundred million dollars. I have met organizational goals and customer expectations by making decisions that produce quality results. I have proven my ability to make quality decisions on complex projects and to oversee the efficient implementation of comprehensive workloads by applying technical knowledge, carefully analyzing all aspects of problems and knowing the associated risks. Examples of my determination to accomplish results follow.

As a staff member to the Assistant Secretary, I was the liaison for the Bureau Performance Review (a Vice Presidential Initiative) and worked to improve the business practices of the Department.

During my Congressional Fellowship, I led the Western Leadership Council, a proactive partnership between the Western States Senate Coalition and the Western Governors Association, which was designed to build collaborative management and generate lawmaker consensus on emerging western issues. To achieve results required me to develop trusting relationships with other staff members, and work hand in hand with the goals and objectives of the Western Governors Association. I had to lead by example and convince others that the results of our collaborative approach would be worth the risks associated with the complex development of public law. Quite frankly my results were limited. I achieved developing a structure and process to follow but struggled with having true disclosure of positions and opinions on western issues we were addressing. Senator Stevens was very pleased with the dialog and outreach I created and said that results of my labors were providing positive context between him and his fellow Senators.

As a line manager, I had the daily responsibility of balancing our numerous resource decisions throughout the interested public, overseeing the allocation of financial resources, identifying cost-effective approaches, and establishing internal controls for financial systems. I have developed the ability to make timely and effective decisions. I have the ability to produce results by thinking and planning strategically. My training as an engineer has afforded me the basis and the ability for complex problem solving, and to establish myself as being technically credible while working on many complex and diverse issues. I have used this analytical ability to manage our budgetary process, including preparing and justifying a budget and operating that budget under organizational and Congressional procedures. I must also oversee procurement and contracting procedures and processes. My past responsibility as a field office manager, where many people derive livelihoods from public resources, has challenged me to understand the socio-political nature of many of my multiple use decisions, and how they affect both local interests and much broader regional and national interests. I have effectively implemented and evaluated the Bureau's programs and policies by assuring that our customers understand our reasons and know what will be required of them to meet our expectations. Broad exposure to many programs, issues, decision makers, and specialists has afforded me an understanding and appreciation of the complexity and difficulty of multiple use and best science decision making, while being completely aware of political influences and budget constraints that can penetrate the decision making process.

Another example of driving for results involved my work in design and function of the production accounting work in the Bureau. I led a production accountability team to develop guidance on how to best implement recommendations of the congressional Royalty Policy Committee for improvement of production accounting. I was presented this challenge because of my demonstrated ability to analyze problems, weigh risks and understand the technical aspects and challenges of the project. I led a group of technical experts and produced recommendations to create a production accounting process for the agency. Field techniques were used to expand on good business practices and close loop holes. I was especially focused on our field level work being conducted by our petroleum engineers and petroleum engineering technicians to understand what product flows from doing this work at the field level and how those products were being produced. I considered flow processes to determine how work products needed to go to a production accountability technician for further analysis and finally looked at what the outcome product for the PAT's work. I also considered a feedback loop to assure adequate completion of our work and establish a quality control element. I evaluated all production accountability functions against these criteria. This analysis was then used to construct a production accounting process for BLM field offices, which included process and product flow to the MMS for further review and completion. My recommendations covered interagency communication, timeliness, feedback, performance tracking, staffing, priority setting, duties, and training. This work was carefully considered, with each individual business function being examined from a field deliverability perspective. These processes created the modern production accounting practice of the Bureau of Land Management.

I was also involved as a High School wrestling coach for many years. Through all of my professional experiences, nowhere have I been more focused on being results-driven. The demands of the sport of wrestling require extreme focus and concentration, not just on the skills required by the sport but more importantly, on the mental preparation and anguish surrounding the many facets of the sport. It is a sport with both a team focus and a goal of individual accomplishment. Extreme physical training, weight control, and a competitive environment are all elements that required my best coaching and mentoring skills to produce the successful program that we enjoyed, and I will fondly always remember. I take great pride in the young men who became successful athletes under my guidance, knowing that they also remember the many life lessons learned and the coaching staff that helped guide them through it all. The result of much hard work and dedication from both athlete and coach was success on the mat by winning matches and achieving personal goals but more so in the journey to achieve high levels of success in this demanding sport.

BUSINESS ACUMEN

My past twenty years of leadership experience at various levels and active participation on several leadership teams, has given me a comprehensive knowledge of the principles of fiscal and human resource management. I have managed a workforce of 800 employees, overseen federal budgets of more than one hundred million dollars, and overseen resource development resulting in more than a billion dollars of annual revenue. My ability to provide oversight for a diverse range of business functions is displayed in the following examples.

I was selected by the Deputy Director to co-lead a project team with two other senior managers. This team was tasked with developing a transition strategy that incorporated the Managing for Excellence guidance put forth by the BLM's Executive Leadership Team (ELT). The National Operations Center (NOC) team was given the latitude to develop a transition report that would work in the best interest of the Bureau while focusing the NOC on customer service and accountability. The team composition brought broad organizational experience and varying perspectives into the process. As part of this small team I reviewed the 2005 work done by the Bureau's futuring teams, the 2006 Washington Office Efficiency Study, and the Managing for Excellence satellite broadcast of November 2006. My task was not to reconsider the Executive Leadership Teams (ELTs) guidance but to establish a transition roadmap. Where the guidance was specific, I incorporated that guidance into the transition report. Where the guidance was very general, I developed options for implementation or crafted follow on actions. I spent weeks meeting with managers, employees, customers, contractors, and service providers at all levels of the organization. Because the NOC will touch every employee, I wanted to listen to as many views as possible. I asked the center and project managers to assist them in the development of budgets, functional statements, and conceptual organizational design. I learned a great deal about the complexity of work at the centers, the dedication of staff, and the barriers to effective service that had inadvertently been created. I developed an extensive set of transition options that were reviewed by the center and project managers. I then presented refined transition options to the ELT in June of 2007.

The Bureau of Land Management's, Managing for Excellence initiative was a set of concepts designed to ensure the agency will be able to sustain its core mission and to care for the land for current and future generations. The West is rapidly changing and more demands are being placed on public lands. It is essential the BLM be positioned to respond to those demands. Managing for Excellence resulted in more efficient operations which in turn will allow the BLM to focus more resources on mission priorities.

The outcome of this work consolidated the Bureau's business, human resource, and information technology services into one organizational entity. I replaced the reporting relationship for NOC employees by creating a new NOC Director and shifted those responsibilities from the Assistant Directors. It established that the NOC will service the entire BLM. It realigned operational functions from the WO to the field or the NOC. It established that all national application and Web application development will be performed at the NOC. It centralized the space leasing function and organizationally aligned these functions with property and asset management. It also centralized many Human Resource (HR) functions and all Information Technology (IT) functions including: web server management, and operational IT security.

Moving to a centralized service environment caused a significant cultural change for the BLM. Employees and managers used to receiving face to face services will need to learn new business processes and how to effectively interact with unfamiliar staff in a remote location. Managers were uneasy about having critical services provided by an entity that no longer directly reported to them. Despite these concerns this was a sound business decision because it allows the BLM to use its resources more effectively, leverage employee knowledge and technology investments, keep the cost of support services in balance with on the ground mission priorities, and continually review and re-engineer Bureau-wide processes to improve service. The proposal was grounded in the concept that service quality can be improved when services are delivered by a specialized, dedicated staff using standardized approaches. Those services can be less costly due to the economies of scale found in a centralized environment. The NOC received the staff resources, technology, process focus, and service philosophy essential to continual improvement.

The plan put forward an organization framework for the NOC and delineates functions for each of its components. The plan identified tools to be used or developed, investments to be made, and business process analysis needs. The plan also included a table of implementation actions necessary to “stand up” the NOC by the end of FY 09.

This report was used by the NOC director as a springboard for action as the BLM moved into implementation.

I currently supervise, manage and lead a diverse staff, which is focused on the myriad of responsibilities entrusted to successful program implementation and oversight. I strive to acquire and administer the human, financial, material, and information resources in a manner that instills public trust and accomplishes our organization’s mission. I have always approached my responsibilities as though I were running a business. I treat my customers and employees in a manner in which I would want to be treated. It is always my goal to maximize employee potential and foster high ethical standards in meeting the Bureau’s mission. I strive to promote work quality through effective use of the Bureau’s performance management system by establishing performance standards, appraising staff accomplishments, and taking action to reward, counsel, or remove employees as appropriate. I have hired numerous employees into the organization, utilizing the personnel processes for position classification, paneling, interviewing, and diversity goals. I have rewarded and recognized individuals and teams on various occasions, as well as disciplined employees as necessary. All of these actions are based on the complete application of the Bureau’s EEO principles and guidelines. I work to foster an environment where people who are culturally diverse can work together cooperatively and effectively to achieve our goals. All of this work is accomplished under the guiding principles of the federal Civilian Rights laws and programs. Resolving conflicts in a positive and constructive manner is a preferred course in my office; inclusive in this is attending to morale and organizational climate issues before they escalate to larger problems.

BUILDING COALITIONS / COMMUNICATION

As a senior manager for the Bureau of Land Management I have had responsibility for millions of acres of public assets. Federal law guides the agency to provide for utilization of resource s in a balanced combination that will best meet the present and future needs of the American people. This direction requires that I manage resource for a multitude of uses including recreation, commercial activities, wildlife, transportation, and cultural resources to name a few. Contrast between the multiple use mandate of the BOM and the ardent single use orientation of many, leads to the high visibility and controversial nature of many of my decisions.

To address this challenging task, I have cultivated effective working relationships with a broad range of cooperators and constituent groups. My ability to articulate complex and technical issues in an understandable manner has become one of my most effective personal skills when developing working relationships with feral and state agency staff and managers at all levels of organizations, elected officials, legislative staff, professional associations, and the media. I have successfully facilitated contentious team projects, effectively spoken for the Bureau through national level media sources, and productively represented the agency to members of congress and governors.

Relying on this ability to communicate with individuals from a broad range of technical and political backgrounds, I have had great success in developing partnerships and building coalitions. Examples follow.

My first example was budget redesign internal to Colorado BLM. I made a strategic decision to build a budget model and process for Colorado that put our resources in the most important areas focused on the priorities of our organization and customers. This effort required me to engage our program leaders who were accustomed to independent decisions regarding their individual resource programs and convince them of our common goal and objectives. I spent numerous meetings laying out the foundation for this work and explaining the architecture I was seeking. I continually explained the idea of creating workload indicators which were derived from our most important program objectives, developing a formulae that represented the risk weight process, providing descriptions for these indicators, qualifying our assumptions and finally setting forward a feedback loop. Next came bringing our leadership team into concurrence with the need and purpose for this fundamental business change. Again many meetings and explanations followed until I had achieved support and buy in. The outcome of this work has redesigned the way we conduct business in Colorado and moved us away from traditional ruts in our budget process.

Another example is my leadership on the national Field Committee as the Chairman for this senior leader group. The Field Committee is the operational board of the BLM and executes most of our Bureau wide operational strategies. I led this group of people to be respond organizationally to the sequester environment that we are currently operating in. This response came reluctantly as many of the leaders are traditionally grounded in process they had come accustomed to and leading in a new direction required some nimble approaches. The outcome of this work was a product that identified the very best ideas collectively and an approach to synthesize it into actionable steps.

As a Field Manager I worked hard to build a collaborative working environment with local county commissioners and colleagues in other federal agencies to promote an environment where we could leverage our limited capacities. I established a positive working relationship that helped forge a county/community focused approach to many of the decisions in my field office that had a direct impact on the lives and economies of the people represented by these elected officials.

I have also worked to create and improve my relationship with the Forest Service both at the field operational level and the state leadership level. In the field office I partnered on my projects and shared our expertise, skill and equipment to best accomplish our mutual goals and operational needs at the most efficient and effective way. This approach afforded us the flexibility to utilize scarce skills and tools without the need for redundant ownership. At the state level I wrote our leaders intent memos that provide the direction and framework for our employees to endorse. By providing this strategic direction we are able to take advantage of working on behalf of each other under the umbrella of simple offset agreements that assure both agencies are achieving their desired needs and results. These work together relationships cross many of our mutual program interests including maintenance, construction, fire mutual aid, weed prevention and treatment, visitor services, permit sales, law enforcement and others. In each case we are able to do more with less and pass those advantages to the tax payor.

Another very important collation that I have created is through our work with the Colorado Youth Corp. I have developed a relationship that puts dozens of interns and crewmembers to work on our public lands. We are employing youth and veterans that accomplish work that we need done by leveraging their skills and labor force to do work that we would not accomplish otherwise. We seek to offer these experiences that help them develop the skills and backgrounds needed to be competitive in today's job market. We have placed many of these young people in permanent positions in the Bureau and elsewhere and I am very proud of being a significant part in this development.

Recommendations for the Royalty Policy Committee (ONRR-2012-0003)

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I have been involved with Federal and Indian royalty payments for over 20 years including eight years as an accounting supervisor for a large oil and gas company in Tulsa Oklahoma and as an independent consultant since February 2014. My experience includes time as a member of various industry committees including COPAS and API Revenue Committees and participated in several meetings with the ONRR on royalty issues. I also co-chaired with Bob Wilkinson two of the many PASO Workshops held in Tulsa Oklahoma.

In 2012, I was appointed as an alternate member of the Indian Oil Valuation Negotiated Rulemaking Committee for the American Petroleum Institute. The Committee was successful in recommending revised rules for the valuation of oil produced on Indian lands that became effective in July 2014.

Also serving on the IONRC was Kathleen Sgamma. I was impressed with Kathleen's knowledge of issues important to industry and with her ability to negotiate the issues and communicate her ideas to the committee. Her involvement contributed greatly to the success of this committee.

I strongly recommend the appointment of Kathleen Sgamma to the Royalty Policy Committee. Her strong leadership abilities and her commitment to issues important to the membership of the Western Energy Alliance are just two examples why this appointment is important. She is well qualified and her experience on the IONRC plus her knowledge of the issues important to small and independent producers will be invaluable to the RPC.

Sincerely,

Morris Miller

Recommendations for the Royalty Policy Committee (ONRR–2012–0003)

Ms. Oliver,

I have been in the oil and gas business for 12 years now, my experience ranges from field level work doing production measurement, automation, gas quality and SCADA system implementation to revenue and finance work at a large private upstream E&P. Over the last nine years of my career I've spent significant time dealing with State and Federal regulatory rules, their impacts on E&Ps and midstream operations.

Throughout my time in the industry I've met a great number of people but few have left the positive impression that Kathleen Sgamma of Western Energy Alliance has left on me. She is astute and in-tune with issues facing operators in the Mountain West. More importantly she strives to represent the industry in a manner which is fair to all parties. For example, I worked with her on ONRR's Indian Oil Negotiated Rulemaking Committee and observed how she helped to achieve consensus on a rule to maximize royalty revenues to Indian tribes and allottees while ensuring a balance that would not drive oil companies off tribal lands and reduce their economic and job potential. Through the numerous discussions I have had with Kathleen, including some disagreements over the years, she has remained respectful, inquisitive and always trying to find the right answer.

Her diligence for industry and her knowledge regarding the bureaucratic framework in which Federal rulemaking must take place will be a benefit to all parties involved on the RPC. She also represents small, independent producers, an important constituency on the RPC. Since major companies will likely be represented on the RPC, it is important to ensure a balance with the small businesses represented as well. I know of no stronger voice for the different effects of royalty rules on small independents than Kathleen. Furthermore, she has a significant member base from which she can seek feedback and insight.

I strongly recommend Kathleen Sgamma of Western Energy Alliance for a spot on the RPC.

Sincerely,

Trey Thee

Western Energy Alliance, Denver, CO 3/06 - Present

President

Leads trade association that promotes the interests of small, independent oil and natural gas producers in the West with respect to federal environmental, regulatory, and public lands issues. Builds strong relations with a broad array of stakeholders, and federal, state and local policymakers and agencies.

- Demonstrated achievement and strategic vision taking Western Energy Alliance from a standard trade association to the leading organization on western oil and natural gas issues, recognized in Washington and across the region as an aggressive advocate for responsible public lands access, reducing regulatory overreach, and diminishing government control of the private sector.
- Proven leadership establishing professional government relations and public affairs practices for the organization. Instituted effective, content-driven advocacy by producing credible information, positive messaging, and substantive policy pieces such as air, water, and wildlife conservation studies; position papers; and economic analyses that address the major issues facing the industry
- Effective spokesperson for industry with regular quotes on energy and public lands issues in national and regional media including the Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Fox News, E&E News, Hill, National Journal, Houston Chronicle, and Denver Post.
- Recognized ability to work with, while holding accountable, agencies such as the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA); Department of the Interior especially the Bureau of Land Management, Fish & Wildlife Service, and Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR); and state regulators.
- Instrumental, while serving on ONRR's Indian Oil Valuation Negotiated Rulemaking Committee, in achieving a balanced consensus among tribal representatives, Indian allottees, ONRR and industry on a final rule to maximize revenue for tribes without discouraging producers from developing on Indian lands.
- Legislative achievements demonstrated by the regularity with which the organization's analysis appears in messaging from Congress; bill passage during a gridlocked Congress; and successful defense against harmful policies. Testifies frequently before congressional committees on public lands and regulatory issues.
- Galvanized industry support for several air emissions studies, and collaborated with EPA, state agencies, NOAA, universities, tribes, and counties to improve scientific understanding as well as find effective means to protect air quality while enabling continued energy development.
- Extensive experience in hundreds of rulemaking processes per the National Environmental Policy Act, Clean Air Act, Mineral Leasing Act, Endangered Species Act, and other laws governing the industry, including developing technical comments, coalition building, public outreach, and litigation, with multiple successes in overturning bad policies.

Ms. Kathleen M. Sgamma

Dear Ms. Sgamma:

I extend my gratitude for your service on the Indian Oil Negotiated Rulemaking Committee over the past 2 years. You devoted much time and energy into providing guidance and advice to the Office of Natural Resources Revenue's (ONRR) Indian oil rulemaking process.

Through your efforts, the Committee was able to provide ONRR with proposed revisions to the major portion provision of the Indian oil rule that the Department of the Interior originally promulgated in 1988. Since that time, significant changes have occurred in the oil market that required updates and revisions to the Indian oil valuation methodology. By their very nature, these changes have impacts, often competing, on lessors and lessees and reaching agreement on these changes can be challenging for all parties involved. Nevertheless, you and your fellow Committee members listened to all sides of the issues, grappled with their complexities, and developed a proposal that provides benefits to all.

Over the next few months, ONRR will present the proposal to tribes and allottees in a series of consultation meetings in multiple locations to answer questions and solicit feedback. Following incorporation of this input, ONRR will promptly write and publish a proposed rule.

Thank you again for devoting your time and attention to this important effort. Your contributions allowed the Committee to fulfill its duties with distinction.

Sincerely,

Sally Jewell

Ms. Oliver,

On behalf of the board of Osage Nation Energy Services, LLC, this letter is expressing full support for the nomination of Mr. Mark Abshire for a position on the Royalty Policy Committee within the Office of Natural Resources Revenue at the Department of the Interior.

Mr. Abshire is a tribal member of the Osage Nation, a shareholder of the Osage Minerals Estate, and an experienced petroleum industry professional, currently employed at KGM in natural gas measurement, products, and services. Our board has worked with him on various occasions relating to natural gas infrastructure throughout Osage County, Oklahoma. In our experience, we have found Mr. Abshire to be extremely efficient, professional, and productive in all our business dealings. He brings a great deal of industry expertise and insight related to natural gas and petroleum activities.

In addition to Mr. Abshire's industry expertise, his background as an Osage tribal member and a shareholder of the Osage Minerals Estate provides him with a unique understanding and viewpoint related to the requirements of tribal energy development projects on Indian lands. We believe the combination of his industry and tribal experiences throughout his career position him to succeed and contribute to the committee in an extremely beneficial and needed capacity.

We appreciate your consideration of the nomination of Mr. Abshire to the committee. If selected, he will be an asset to the work of the committee. If you have any questions or require additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Regards,

Vice President, Taxation
Cloud Peak Energy Inc.

Phone: (720) 566-2933 Email: Matthew.Adams@CLDPK.com

As a member of the Department of Interior Royalty Policy Committee, I will utilize my significant experience establishing corporate tax policy to support Secretary Zinke's goals of determining and collecting fair market value from US energy and mineral resources while advising on practical and potential impacts of current and proposed policies and regulations.

Cloud Peak Energy, Denver, Colorado

Cloud Peak Energy is one of the largest producers of coal in the United States, producing and selling approximately 59 million tons of low sulfur, high quality coal during 2016. The company operates exclusively in the Powder River Basin at the Antelope and Cordero mines in Wyoming and at the Spring Creek mine in Montana. Additionally, we have an option to significant coal reserves on land controlled by the Crow Tribe of Indians in southeast Montana.

The Company pays significant royalties and taxes on the coal that it produces and sells, including federal and state royalties, federal black lung excise tax, abandoned mine reclamation fees, Wyoming severance and gross proceeds taxes and Montana severance and gross proceeds taxes. Cloud Peak Energy's non-income tax and royalty payments exceed $230 million annually.

Vice President, Taxation

December 2013 through Present

- In addition to my other tax and executive responsibilities at Cloud Peak Energy, I am responsible for establishing and maintaining company positions and policy related to all tax matters, including; federal and state income taxes, federal and state severance taxes, and federal and state royalties. Additionally, I am responsible for managing appeals, audits and litigation with federal and state agencies on all tax and royalty matters. Further, I am responsible for supporting Cloud Peak Energy's Governmental Relations team efforts by providing issue analysis and consequences of potential federal and state legislation.
- Responsible for establishing and maintaining relationships with state and federal agencies, including interactions with various auditors to enhance knowledge and communication regarding legal and practical considerations of filing requirements.
- Responsible for analysis of and submission of comments addressing federal and state proposed rulemaking.

Intrepid Potash, Inc., Denver, Colorado

A publicly listed, integrated mining company with annual revenues of $500 million; a majority of production occurring in the United States Potash Reserve in New Mexico.

Vice President, Taxation

July 2008 through June 2013

- Hired as Intrepid's first 'Head of Tax' following an initial public offering. Established initial corporate tax policies and procedures, quality control processes, and recruited tax team to support Intrepid's needs.
- Responsible for evaluating, maintaining and updating all corporate tax: policies and procedures; federal, state and international compliance; performing tax analysis and impact analysis of business activities; tax accounting impacts and calculations, and proactively seeking tax and cash benefits from various state and federal incentive programs.

- Responsible for all areas of taxation affecting the company, including; income, franchise, property, privilege, resource, severance, sales (and sales tax exemptions), payroll, investment, excise, VAT, GST and capital taxes.

Ernst & Young, LLP, Denver, Colorado

Re: Michael G. Sorensen's Appointment to the Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee - Recommendation of the Colorado Rural Electric Association

Dear Ms. Oliver,

On behalf of the Colorado Rural Electric Association, I am pleased to recommend Michael G. Sorensen for appointment to the Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee.

Mr. Sorensen currently serves as the Senior Manager of the Fuels and Water Resources Department at Tri-State Generation and Transmission Association, Inc. Tri-State is a not-for-profit, wholesale electric power producer/supplier that serves 43 rural electric cooperatives and public power districts in Colorado, Nebraska, New Mexico and Wyoming. Tri-State is a member of the Colorado Rural Electric Association, a trade association based in Denver that serves all of Colorado's electric co-ops.

Tri-State's member distribution systems serve approximately 1.5 million people across a 250,000-square-mile service territory. The mission of Tri-State is to provide its member systems with a reliable, cost-effective supply of electricity while maintaining high environmental standards. Tri-State provides electricity to its members based on a diverse mix of generation resources including coal, natural gas, hydroelectric, wind and solar power located throughout its four-state member service territory.

Mr. Sorensen oversees coal mine planning and operations activities for the Colowyo and New Horizon Mines and manages contracts with other mines that supply Tri-State's generating stations with fuel. Mr. Sorensen's background and experience will enable him to provide advice and input on the federal coal valuation program that can provide certainty to ONRR and its stakeholders. Mr. Sorensen's rich background on coal fuel development, acquisition and overall management gives him a unique perspective to offer input on simplifying the program and developing a uniform application of the requirements while providing the American public with a fair benefit and a true understanding of the impact of federal coal program royalties on consumers and the economy.

Mr. Sorensen has provided input to the Department of the Interior (DOI) on the coal royalty rate since 2015. In 2016, he hosted a team of DOI staff working on this issue led by Al Elser, Deputy Division Chief for Solid Minerals, BLM at Tri-State's Craig Generating Station and adjacent Trapper Mine. More recently, Mr. Sorensen led Tri-State's efforts to develop and submit comments on the 2017 rule that is currently being considered for repeal. Coal royalty policy has an important role in ensuring that Tri-State's member cooperatives are able to maintain the lowest electricity rates possible.

Mr. Sorensen retired as a Commander after 22 years in the United States Navy where his work included monitoring and tracking deployment of Navy personnel during the Iraq war, training military and construction skills for Navy Seabees and conducting a complete review of the Navy Reserve Component at the headquarters of the Civil Engineering Corps at the Washington Navy Yard. Mr. Sorensen earned multiple Navy & Marine Corps Commendation Medals and Achievement Medals, as well as the Defense Meritorious Service Medal. Mr. Sorensen earned his Master of Science in Agribusiness from Arizona State University in 2004. He holds two bachelor's degrees – a Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering and a Bachelor of Arts in Secondary Education.

The Colorado Rural Electric Association is pleased to recommend Mike Sorensen to serve on the Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee.

Sincerely,

Washington, DC 20240;

Dear Ms. Oliver:

We are pleased to submit the nomination of Mr. Michael G. Sorensen, Senior Manager of the Fuels and Water Resources Department at Tri-State Generation and Transmission Association, Inc. to serve on the Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee established in the April 3, 2017 Federal Register notice, Vol. 82, No. 62.

Tri-State Generation & Transmission Association, Inc. (Tri-State) is a not-for-profit, wholesale electric power producer/supplier that serves 43 rural electric cooperatives and public power districts in Colorado, Nebraska, New Mexico and Wyoming. Tri-State's transmission and member distribution systems serve a population of approximately 1.5 million people across a 250,000-square-mile service territory. The mission of Tri-State is to provide our member systems with a reliable, cost-based supply of electricity while maintaining high environmental standards. Tri-State provides electricity to its members based on a diverse mix of generation resources including coal, natural gas, hydroelectric, wind and solar power located throughout its four-state member service territory.

Mr. Sorensen, in his position as Senior Manager of the Fuels and Water Resources at Tri-State, oversees coal mine planning and operations activities for the Colowyo and New Horizon Mines and manages contracts with other mines that supply Tri-State's generating stations with fuel. Mr. Sorensen is well positioned to provide advice and input on the federal coal valuation program that can provide certainty to ONRR and its stakeholders. Mr. Sorensen's rich background on coal fuel development, acquisition and overall management gives him a unique perspective to offer input on simplifying the program and developing a uniform application of the requirements while providing the American public with a fair benefit and a true understanding of the impact of federal coal program royalties on consumers and the economy.

In his role at Tri-State, Mr. Sorensen directs the development, implementation and management of all coal resources, including coal lease maintenance with the BLM Little Snake Field Office. Mike also is responsible for developing and recommending short and long term strategies for economic fuel planning and scheduling, coal mine production and marketing.

Mike has been involved with providing input to the Department of the Interior (DOI) on the coal royalty rate evaluation since 2015 when it invited members of the public to provide input in an e-mail from Robert Poulson-Houser. In 2016, Mike hosted a team of DOI staff working on this issue led by Al

More recently, Mike lead the Tri-State team efforts to development and submit comments on the 2017 rule that is currently being considered for repeal. Coal royalty policy has an important role in ensuring that Tri-State's member cooperatives are able to maintain the lowest electricity rates possible.

Prior to his work at Tri-State, Mr. Sorensen directed and managed the Fuels Department at the Salt River Project, an Arizona Electric Utility, to procure coal, nuclear fuel and natural gas transportation supply contracts. The coal supply activities included negotiations with the Navajo Nation and the Hopi Tribe for coal royalties and water rights on the reservations.

Mr. Sorensen retired as a Commander after 22 years in the United States Navy, Civil Engineer Corps. His work in the Navy included monitoring and tracking deployment of Navy personnel during the Iraq war, training military and construction skills for Navy Seabees and conducting a complete review of the Navy Reserve Component at the headquarters of the Civil Engineering Corps at the Washington Navy Yard. Senior Manager, Fuels and Water Resources Department

Directs the development, implementation and management of; all fuel supply, fuel transportation, power plant reagents and fuel waste disposal (lime, limestone, ash handling) agreements and contracts; all water rights requirements, agreements, decrees and contracts; and all generation land farm leases and contracts. Oversees coal mine planning and operations activities.

Develops and recommends short and long term strategies for economic fuel planning and scheduling, coal mine production and marketing, water rights planning and supply usage and farm management practices.

Supports and delivers on mission to provide Member Systems with a reliable, cost-based supply of electricity through sound financial management by effective utilization of staff, capital funding and physical resources to promote the cooperative model.

2008 – 2011 Salt River Project Phoenix, AZ Manager, Fuels Department

Directed and managed Fuels Department staff to procure coal, nuclear fuel and natural gas transportation supply contracts of over $450 million per year. The Department's contracts supply fuel for 13 electric generating stations: seven coal, one nuclear and five gas fired. Frequently negotiated with executives from other companies to ensure efficient fuel pricing and use of best practices with respect to fuel supplies and delivery.

Responsible for annual and long-range Fuel Price Forecasts, which included both commodity pricing and transportation costs of coal, gas and nuclear fuel for all of the generating facilities at SRP. Worked with other divisions to enhance resource and financial planning activities with respect to these forecasts.

Represented SRP on the Trapper Mining, Inc. Board of Directors. Trapper Mining is a coal mine located in northwest Colorado that provides coal to the Craig Generating Station near Steamboat Springs, Colorado.

2001 – 2008 Salt River Project Phoenix, AZ Project Manager, Fuels Department

Directed and managed a $240 million per year Coal Supply Contract for the Navajo Generating Station (NGS), including coal quality, price projections, mine capital equipment budget, royalty and water negotiations and other contract issues. Duties included regular presentations to NGS participants to facilitate important management decisions.

Planned and coordinated the $32 million, 37-mile, 30-inch diameter, Santan Expansion Project Gas Supply Pipeline, including easement acquisition, design and construction services contracts, material procurement, inspection services contract and operations and maintenance contract to assure pipeline met state and federal construction and operations requirements.

Dear Ms. Oliver:

The National Mining Association (NMA) appreciates the opportunity to respond to the Department of the Interior's request for nominees to serve on the newly reconstituted Royalty Policy Committee (RPC). 82 Fed. Reg. 16222 (April 3, 2017). NMA agreed to canvas its members that lease federal coal pursuant to the Mineral Leasing Act to determine the level of interest in participating. NMA hereby recommends the following for consideration as industry representatives to the RPC:

- Matthew Adams, Vice President, Taxation, Cloud Peak Energy Inc.
- Jason St. John, Tax Director, Cloud Peak Energy Inc.
- Dave Finnerty, President, Ark Land LLC
- Scott Kreutzer, Senior Vice President, Land and Environmental Affairs, Contura Energy
- Christopher Freiz, Vice President, North American Coal Royalty Company
- Robert Bruer, Vice President – Tax Planning & Compliance, Peabody Energy Corp.

Each of these candidates have extensive expertise in leasing and royalty issues and are well qualified to serve on the RPC. I have attached the resumes for each nominee. If you have any questions, please contact me at (202)463-2627 or ksweeney@nma.org.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Oliver:

On behalf of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA), I am writing to nominate David Crabtree, Michael Sorenson and Doreen Heuck to the Royalty Policy Committee per the referenced Federal Register Notice.

David Crabtree is Senior Vice President and General Counsel at Deseret Power, a generation and transmission cooperative located in South Jordan, Utah that provides wholesale electric service to six electric distribution members that, in turn, provide retail electric service to over 45,000 customers in Utah and surrounding states. As General Counsel, Mr. Crabtree is responsible for all regulatory and legal matters at Underground Coal Mining Entity with operations in Rio Blanco County, Colorado, as well as regulatory, legal, environmental compliance and policy for a member-owned electric generating utility with significant operations located within the jurisdictional boundary of the Uintah and Ouray Indian Reservation, which serves customers located in tribal and state lands within a five State region.

Mike Sorenson is Senior Manager of Fuels and Water Resources at Tri-State Generation & Transmission Association, a generation and transmission cooperative located in Westminster, Colorado, that provides wholesale electric service to 43 electric distribution cooperatives and public power districts in Colorado, Nebraska, New Mexico and Wyoming. In his role at Tri-State, Mr. Sorensen directs the development, implementation and management of all coal resources, including coal lease maintenance with the BLM Little Snake Field Office. He also is responsible for developing and recommending short and long term strategies for economic fuel planning and scheduling, coal mine production and marketing. Tri-State is the 100% owner of the New Horizon and Colowyo mines in Colorado, has a 50% ownership share of Dry Fork in Wyoming, and a 24% ownership share of Trapper mine in Colorado.

Doreen Heuck is the Business Manager for the Western Fuels Wyoming Dry Fork Mine, a coal production mine located in Gillette, Wyoming. In this capacity, Mrs. Heuck has many years of technical expertise in reporting coal royalty valuations across a wide range of coal mining entities. During her career, Mrs. Heuck has prepared and submitted required production tax and royalty filings, and has also managed tax and royalty audits over multiple coal mining operations across several states including Wyoming, Montana and Colorado.

As representatives of not-for-profit cooperative utilities whose infrastructure covers much of the rural West and who own mining interests that overlap with Federal and tribal lands, Mr. Crabtree, Mr. Sorenson and Mrs. Heuck are uniquely qualified to participate in the Royalty Policy Committee. In addition, as employees of cooperatives dedicated to providing reliable and affordable electric service to the communities they serve, they will bring a valuable perspective to the Committee's goal of "ensur[ing] that the public receives the full value of the natural resources produced from Federal lands."

The National Rural Electric Cooperative Association is the national service organization that represents the nation's more than 900 private, not-for-profit, consumer-owned electric cooperatives, which provide service to 42 million people in 47 states. We urge the Department of the Interior to accept these nominations and appoint David Crabtree, Michael Sorenson and Doreen Heuck to the Royalty Policy Committee.

Thank you for your attention.

RE: U.S. Department of Interior's (DOI) Royalty Policy Committee

Dear Secretary Zinke,

The National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL), the bi-partisan organization representing the legislatures of our nation's states, territories, and commonwealths, appreciates the opportunity to comment on the U.S. Department of Interior's Royalty Policy Committee (RPC). We commend the department for seeking to ensure that the public receives the full value of the natural resources produced from Federal lands and we strongly urge DOI to consider including at least one state legislator on the committee's membership.

While the initial federal register posting for the committee's establishment did include up to six spots for states, these spots are solely reserved for member representing governors of states, not any specific slots for state legislators. NCSL has long supported efforts for an increased state role in public lands management and establishing procedures for designations, disposition, or use of public lands. Furthermore NCSL urges all federal agencies involved in the management of public lands to incorporate within their policies and regulations provisions for continuous and cooperative involvement of state governments in public lands policy and public lands management. NCSL believes that federal agencies managing federal land should assure that uses, both on-site and off-site, do not cause adverse environmental impacts on the federal land.

Below, we have included a list of five state legislators from states that receive significant revenues from onshore and offshore federal leases as well as links to their legislative and personal resumes providing a description of the nominee's qualifications. We recommend the inclusion of at least one representative from a state legislature to ensure that the RPC fully reflects the views of states. Please

NEAL A. McCALEB

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

Mr. McCaleb's career as a Civil Engineer spans over fifty years in private practice and public service. He graduated from Oklahoma A&M College in 1957 and was immediately involved in the design and development of the Interstate Highway system in Oklahoma working for a consulting engineering firm for two years. He left to begin public service in the Oklahoma City Engineering Department where he attained the position of Assistant City Engineer prior to commencing his own consulting engineering firm in 1961.

While in private engineering practice he also began to build and develop residential subdivisions in the Oklahoma City area before being elected to the Oklahoma House of Representatives in 1974 serving eight years and four years as the Republican floor Leader.

McCaleb extended his public service in 1987 being appointed the first Secretary of Transportation by Gov. Henry Bellmon while also serving as the Director of the Oklahoma Department of Transportation. During this administration the Oklahoma Turnpike Authority initiated the Urban Turnpikes in Oklahoma City and Tulsa as well as the rural pikes in eastern and southern Oklahoma. He successfully advocated a six cent increase in the state fuel tax to fund highways and bridges.

He returned to public service 1995 serving again as Secretary of Transportation. Director of the OTA and ODOT during the Keating administration until 2001 when he was appointed as Assistant Secretary of the Interior by President Bush. During the Keating years he presided over the completion of the urban pikes in Tulsa and Oklahoma City and the implementation of the $800 million Highway capital Improvement program passed by the Legislature in 1999.

As Assistant Secretary of the Interior he was in charge of the Bureau of Indian Affairs advocating the improvement of Tribal Nations through the implementation of Tribal Sovereignty, and self determination by economic development. During his tenure the BIA was reorganized to insure improved Trust oversight of Individual and Tribal assets held in trust by the Dept. of Interior.

After leaving government service in 2003 he continued his interest and advocacy of Indian economic development by service to the Chickasaw Nation as a special advisor to Gov. Anoatubby on economic policy and transportation issues. Neal is an enrolled member of the Chickasaw Nation serving as Chairman of the Board of "Chickasaw Nation Industries" and on the Board of Directors of Bank 2, a wholly business of the Chickasaw Nation.

McCaleb has continued his interest in public policy by participating in the Oklahoma Academy having served as it's Chairman in 2010 . He has also served Oklahoma's transportation policy by organizing and serving as President of TRUST (Transportation Revenues Used Strictly for Transportation) advocating adequate funding for highways and bridges by stopping the diversion of road user taxes from transportation purposes.

The result of this advocacy was the passage of HB 2272 which increased funding to ODOT and County roads and bridges.

Other areas of public service and advocacy include the following:

Oklahomans for Indian Opportunity- '66-'67 Vice-President

Oklahoma Indian Affairs Commission- '67-'72 appointed by Gov. Bartlett

National Council on Indian Opportunity- '72-'74 appointed by Pres. Nixon

Presidents Commission on Reservation Economies- '83-'84 appointed by Pres. Regan

Board of Regents "University of Arts & Sciences"- '05 to date appointed by Gov. Henry

"Oklahoma Transportation Center" Interim Executive Director '06-'08

Advisory Board for "Community Development Finance Institutions" for the US Treasury Dept. '08 to current date

Neal has been married to Geotgann McCaleb for 51 years and they four grown children and thirteen Grandchildren.

GOVERNOR

May 8, 2017

The Honorable Ryan K. Zinke, Secretary
U.S. Department of Interior
1849 C Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20240

Dear Secretary Zinke:

Thank you for the opportunity to participate in this important Royalty Policy Committee initiative. We commend you for your leadership and foresight in this effort. It is my pleasure to nominate Chickasaw Ambassador Neal McCaleb for consideration of candidacy for the Royalty Policy Committee. Mr. Neal McCaleb has served as the Ambassador of the Chickasaw Nation since 2013. He is a dynamic, intellectual resource whom I have known for many years.

Ambassador McCaleb's career spans over fifty years in private and public service. He began his career with the City of Oklahoma City Engineering Department where he was quickly named Assistant City Engineer. Soon after, Ambassador McCaleb started his own consulting engineering firm in 1961. From there he began to develop residential real estate before making a successful run for the Oklahoma House of Representatives in 1974. He served 8 years in this capacity. In 1987, Governor Henry Bellmon named him Secretary of Transportation, overseeing the department and the turnpike authority. Governor Frank Keating named him Secretary of Transportation again in 1995 serving as both director of the turnpike authority and department of transportation. In 2001 President George W. Bush named him Assistant Secretary of the Interior presiding over the Bureau of Indian Affairs. After leaving government in 2003, Ambassador McCaleb continued his interest and advocacy of Indian economic development by serving as special advisor to the Chickasaw Nation Governor.

Ambassador McCaleb also serves on the Chickasaw Nation Industries Board of Directors and the Board of directors for Bank2, both wholly owned businesses of the Chickasaw Nation. His vast civic service includes serving in leadership at the Oklahoma Academy, Transportation Revenues Used Strictly for Transportation advocacy group and many other commissions and nonprofits.

Throughout his career, Ambassador McCaleb has exhibited a high degree of integrity, professionalism and leadership. During his tenure with the Chickasaw Nation, he has been vital to the growth and success of the Chickasaw Nation. He is driven by his determination to be the best at any task, and is an exceptional leader.

Thank you for considering Ambassador Neal McCaleb for the Royalty Policy Committee.

Sincerely,

Bill Anoatubby, Governor

SUBJECT: ROYALTY POLICY COMMITTEE (COMMITTEE) – SELF
NOMINATIONS FR Doc. 2017-06542 and FR Doc.-08934

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I read with interest the Federal Register published on April 3, 2017 establishing the Royalty Policy Committee requesting nominations. On May 3, 2017 another notice was published extending the nominations date to June 2, 2017. I believe I possess the necessary skills and experience you are looking for as a member of the Committee representing various mineral and/or energy stakeholders in Federal royalty policy.

As my resume indicates, I possess 35 years of progressive experience in the oil and gas industry with the majority of that time concentrating on federal royalty concerns.

I am a nationally recognized federal royalty expert within the oil and gas industry as well as the Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR). Over the years I have been involved in many different federal royalty initiatives with the ONRR.

Attached is Pamela Williams' resume for your review and I appreciate your consideration of appointing me as a member of the Committee representing Shell.

In addition, Shell wishes to nominate Kevin C. Simpson as the alternate to be appointed to the Committee. We believe he has the necessary skills and experience you are looking for in this appointment.

As Kevin C. Simpson's resume shows, he has over 10 years of being involved in a broad range of oil and natural gas issues. He spent 5+ years in Washington, DC working energy concerns on the policy side and the last 5 years as a Regulatory Leader at Shell.

Also attached is his resume for your review and we appreciate your consideration of appointing him as Shell's alternate on the Committee.

Sincerely yours,

RE: Nomination for Royalty Policy Committee

Dear Ms. Oliver

With enthusiasm, the West Slope Colorado Oil & Gas Association nominates our association President, Mr. Quintin Shear, to represent our region as the Secretary's Federal Advisory Committee as described in the nomination solicitation dated April 2, 2017.

Mr. Shear is a multi-generation mineral owner, royalty owner and natural gas operator. As President of the West Slope Colorado Oil & Gas Association, Mr. Shear resides in a region of our nation that is comprised of 70% federally managed lands. He has ready access to natural gas producers, mineral owners and a litany of critical stakeholders who have an interest in federal royalty polices.

Numerous proposals in previous years potentially harmed the competitiveness of energy companies on federal lands, as well as the health of communities who rely on such activities. Mr. Shear's background and connection to our region's community makes him a perfect nominee to advise the Secretary on royalty policies moving forward.

Attached is Mr. Shear's bio as well as resume.

Please advise if additional information is needed or necessary to advance his nomination.

Best,

Dear Ms. Oliver:

I write to express my interest in serving on the Royalty Policy Committee that was announced in the Federal Register on April 3, 2017.

I believe that my past experience as an MMS Director on the collection side of royalties, coupled with my experience serving in the Wyoming State Legislature for a state that is almost 50% federally owned, gives me a well-balanced view of all sides of the royalty and leasing issues. In addition, I am currently President of the National Ocean Industries Association and many of our members are those that collect and pay royalties.

I fully support the re-constitution of the committee and even if not fortunate enough to serve on the committee, look forward to working with those who do. I have attached a bio for further reference and review. Should you have any questions, do not hesitate to contact me at 202-347-6900.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Randall Luthi". The signature is written in a cursive, flowing style.

Randall Luthi
President

Randall Luthi
President
National Ocean Industries Association (NOIA)

Randall Luthi became President of the National Ocean Industries Association (NOIA) on March 1, 2010.

An attorney and rancher from Freedom, Wyoming and a former Speaker of the Wyoming State House of Representatives, Luthi has an impressive background in government service and the private sector. He most recently served as the Director of the Minerals Management Service (MMS) at the Department of the Interior (DOI) from July 2007 through January 2009. Under his leadership, MMS conducted the largest Gulf of Mexico Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) oil and gas lease sale in history as well as the largest Arctic OCS oil and gas lease sale. Luthi also oversaw collection of the highest dollar amount of mineral revenue collections and distributions to the States and Federal government as well as the expansion of a MMS renewable energy office, which oversees development of wind, wave and current energy in the oceans of the U.S. During his tenure at MMS, the long-standing moratoria and withdrawals of much of the outer continental shelf were lifted and allowed to expire, thus opening the possibility of energy development in areas of the outer continental shelf that haven't been explored for decades. Immediately prior to directing MMS, Luthi served as the Deputy Director of the Department's Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS).

In 2000, he started the law firm of Luthi & Voyles, LLC, in Thayne, Wyoming, a general law practice firm. First elected to the Wyoming House of Representatives in 1995, Luthi served as speaker in 2005 and 2006. As a state legislator, he served on the Judiciary Committee, Management Audit Committee and Management Council. During his legislative career, he also developed an understanding of the importance of royalties paid to the federal government by companies producing energy on our public lands and waters. As Majority Leader and Speaker of the Wyoming House, Luthi was instrumental in formulation of state budgets which relied heavily upon royalties and severance taxes paid by energy companies developing federal leases. In addition, he was a legislative member of the Energy Council, which is an organization comprised of legislative representatives from energy producing states and provinces and private energy-related industries that meets quarterly to learn the latest in developments in energy related technology and to discuss energy policy.

With his appointment to NOIA, Luthi is now in his fourth tour of duty in Washington, DC. Earlier, he served as an intern for then Congressman Dick Cheney, legislative assistant for then Senator Alan K. Simpson. Luthi was also an attorney/advisor in the Solicitor's Office of the Department of the Interior from 1986 to 1990 and Senior Counselor for Environmental Regulations at the National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration in the Department of Commerce from 1990 to 1993.

He graduated from the University of Wyoming in 1979 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in administration of justice, and earned a law degree from the University of Wyoming in 1982.

Strategic Resources Chief - Renee Orr

Renee Orr has served for over 28 years in various roles within BOEM, BOEMRE and MMS, and has been a senior executive on the leadership team since the inception of BOEM in 2011. In her current position as the Chief of the Office of Strategic Resources, she oversees development and implementation of the nation's Outer Continental Shelf Oil and Natural Gas Leasing Program, assessment and inventory of oil, gas, and other mineral resources, maintenance of official maps and geographic data, economic evaluations to ensure the receipt of fair market value for OCS resources, identification and mitigation of financial risks associated with offshore lease activities, and the conveyance of marine minerals for coastal restoration projects. Ms. Orr earned B.A. degrees in Economics and History from Metropolitan State College in Denver, CO and completed the DOI SES Candidate Development Program in 2001.

Richard T. Cardinale
Chief of Staff
Office of the Assistant Secretary
Land and Minerals Management (ASLM)

Richard T. Cardinale has been the ASLM Chief of Staff since August 2006. His duties include working closely with senior leadership and staff at the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), Bureau of Ocean Energy Management (BOEM), Bureau of Safety and Environmental Enforcement (BSEE), and Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement (OSMRE) to advance the Secretary's and Assistant Secretary's policy and operational objectives; interfacing with other Department offices; advising the Assistant Secretary, Deputy Assistant Secretaries, and ASLM Advisor on a wide variety of matters, including ethics, personnel, Departmental operations, and crisis response; and ensuring the smooth and efficient operation of the ASLM office. In addition, Rich develops, reviews, and edits all background materials prepared for the Assistant Secretary and ASLM senior team. Rich manages eight direct reports: three administrative personnel and five bureau analysts/liaisons who come to the ASLM office for rotating two-year details (two from BLM and one each from BOEM, BSEE, and OSMRE).

Rich began his federal career in 1997 in the Department's Office of Congressional and Legislative Affairs (OCL), where he served as a staff attorney, subsequently becoming Assistant Legislative Counsel, a position he held from March 1999 until August 2006. In addition to ensuring the smooth operation of the OCL, Rich handled the legislative and Congressional oversight portfolios for two of the three bureaus then under the jurisdiction of the ASLM - BLM and OSMRE.

A graduate of Williams College (1983) and Wake Forest University Law School (1987), Rich served as a law clerk for the Rhode Island Supreme Court, providing legal support at the District, Superior, and Family Court levels. From June 1988 until June 1997, he worked as an attorney in a general civil practice located in Northern Virginia, where his responsibilities included real estate development, transactional work, and estate planning.

Re: Nomination for the Royalty Policy Committee

Ms. Oliver,

I am interested in being considered for the Royalty Policy Committee, which will provide advice to the Secretary on royalties, fair market value and related matters associated with production of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands.

Attached please find my CV.

I am the Viola Vestal Coulter Foundation Chair in Mineral Economics at the Colorado School of Mines. I have spent my career teaching and conducting research in the area of mineral and energy economics. An important part of this work focuses on public policy, including royalties and land use. I have testified before Congressional committees on several occasions at hearings related to resource development in the United States. I have consulted for the International Monetary Fund on royalty systems in other countries. I have participated in several National Academy study groups, including chairing the committee that prepared the 2008 study Minerals, Critical Minerals and the U.S. Economy.

It would be an honor to serve on the Royalty Policy Committee, and I believe I could offer useful academic perspectives.

Sincerely,

Roderick G. Eggert

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

2016 to Present PRESIDENT & CHAIRMAN of the BOARD
Read Operating, LLC

A Read Family created operating entity under which all undeveloped and developed acreage and wells are operated. All staff of Read & Stevens, Inc. are now employed by Read Operating, LLC.

PRESIDENT and MANAGING DIRECTOR
Read & Stevens, Inc.

2009-2016 NON-FAMILY MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS
Read & Stevens, Inc.

Private, Read Family owned, oil & gas company based in Roswell, NM. Hired to effect a shift in the direction of the family owned company that entailed major changes within the management team and a total review of historical perspective of operations, development, employment and family involvement. Much of the first year and one-half of employment was spent taking family members throughout the oil industry re-introducing the industry to Read & Stevens and providing the family with knowledge as to how many small private and publically owned companies operated and developed their properties, financed their operations, created business opportunities and looked at the future. Spent the next two years convincing the family that they needed to drill their own assets, that expertise was available, and that they had the capability and capacity to be fully engaged as a development company. Proved to the family that they could raise the necessary capital at a reasonable cost to create a drilling program. Moved the company forward toward to an initial 29 Bone Spring 3rd Sand well permits in two HBP locations. Acquired an existing 200,000 acre 4,500 foot drilling depth resource play, lead third party exploration team effort to identify the resource via structural and surface geology mapping, geo-chemistry and satellite imagery. Developed relationships with other companies allowing R&S to directly participate in trades and investments to expand the upside by acquiring additional leases and selling to a large independent. Testified at House Small Business Committee regarding the necessity of allowing the exportation of U.S. produced crude oil.

2009-2010 SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT, COMMERCIAL WIND DEVELOPMENT
NEW MEXICO REGION
Tri Global Energy, LLC

Recruited to utilize personal knowledge of landowners' Associations, Public Regulation Commission rules and staff, generation and transmission issues, and local, State and Federal economic development organizations, politicians and bureaucrats to advance Tri Global's Wind Force Plan[™] furthering development of commercial and utility scale wind and solar projects. Opened offices in Santa Fe and Clovis, NM. Developed wind development projects from the "ground up". Managed a team of leasing agents and staff and project Managers.

2007-Present MANAGING MEMBER
Elida Gas Group, LLC
MANAGING MEMBER
Sage Service Group, LLC

An originating principal of both entities. Following the May 2007 sale of Eagle Resources, LP, focus has been in the area of developing oil & gas exploration projects through Elida Gas Group, LLC and in providing client services in the areas of oil & gas development, oil & gas produced water disposal, oil & gas marketing infrastructure development, oil & gas client representation at state agency level, oil & gas service company marketing representation. Sage Service Group, LLC represented the Pecos Valley Biomass Cooperative, Inc., a cooperative of Chaves County, New Mexico dairy producers in the marketing and regulatory aspects of their conversion of 500 tons per day of dairy biomass to 3,000 MMBTU/Day pipeline quality methane and 150 tons per day of high nitrogen content granulized commercial fertilizer. Active in promoting the benefits of renewable energy resources within New Mexico and specifically within Eastern and Southern New Mexico.

2003-2007 MANAGER
Eagle Resources, LP

An originating principal responsible for managing the development of the firm's property, the Tule Field. Managing the acquisition of additional working interest and oil & gas leasehold in 2 townships (controlling 19,000 gross and 9,000 net acres). Directly responsible for the implementation and progress of the firm's drilling, production and maintenance operations. Functional oversight of accounting/financial, product marketing and royalty disbursement with additional specific concentration on working interest ownership relations and investor relations. Tule Field and properties sold to Sovereign Eagle, LLC.

2002-Present MANAGING MEMBER
Sage Consulting, L.L.C. (Name changed to Sage Service Group, LLC)

An originating principal responsible for business development and engagement for the firm in addition to the direct management of the firm's consulting projects. The firm emphasizes its background and knowledge in the areas of oil & gas exploration and production, pipeline development, electrical generation and transmission, renewable energy development and pipeline safety from both a regulatory and commercial perspective. The firm was engaged by a consortium of 11 (Fortune 500) energy trading firms to join with them and 40 former state regulatory and utility commissioners to lobby Congress on the Electricity Title of the 2003 version of the Energy Bill. The active relationship that the firm maintains with the New Mexico Congressional delegation and the New Mexico Public Regulation Commission was of particular advantage to the group's efforts.

NEW MEXICO PUBLIC REGULATION COMMISSION

Fulfilled legislated responsibilities for the regulation of Utilities, Transportation, Insurance, Corporations, State Fire Marshall and Telecommunications. Particular areas of interest were the creation, development, public discussion phase and the writing of the Renewable Energy Portfolio Standard which is now a New Mexico Statute. FERC wholesale electric market restructuring and generation to transmission interconnection planning and implementation within the Western States, competitively priced utilization of New Mexico's renewable energy resources, natural gas marketing through the development of "market generating" natural gas fired power plants, telecommunications build-out within rural New Mexico and underground damage prevention and pipeline safety and integrity issues. Chaired legislatively mandated pipeline safety hearings throughout the state. Testified at both FERC hearings and New Mexico Legislative committee hearings.

1992-2001 VICE PRESIDENT, DIRECTOR and SECRETARY
MBF Operating, Inc.

An originating principal responsible for the marketing of MBF Services, a division which provides construction engineering, construction management, and specialized professional and technical construction support and construction inspection personnel under contract to clients who have construction, engineering, procurement and maintenance projects within the pipeline, oil & gas production, and electric utility industries. The company specialized in providing third-party construction management and inspection during pipeline integrity (smart pigging) operations. In addition, MBF Services, Compliance Division provides consulting services to clients in the areas of Federal and State Department of Transportation, OSHA and Environmental regulations. Particularly focusing on the implementation of the DOT OPS Operator Qualification Rules. Additional responsibilities include Vice President of MBF Transportation & Marketing, L.L.C., a company created to purchase and operate natural gas and petroleum products pipelines.

Four Star Communications, L.L.C.

An originating principal of the company, the majority ownership of which was closely held by the principals of MBF Operating, Inc. The company had its operations office in Plano, TX and was involved in contracting supervisory personnel to client companies involved in the voice, data, and wireless markets. The company personnel supervised the installation and startup of systems. In addition, the company contracted for the construction of cellular antennas and provided the property acquisition and/or leasing of cellular tower sites for several clients. The company also provided facility maintenance for cellular tower sites within southern New Mexico.

CHAVES COUNTY BOARD of COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Served as Chairman of the Board for two years. Conceived, implemented and consummated the sale of the County owned hospital, Eastern New Mexico Medical Center to CHS for $92 million. Developed and implemented the concept of creating a permanent fund ($60 million) for the hospital sale proceeds to provide annual operational funding for the county. Participated in the decision making and the public hearing process for the construction of a 200 bed detention center, a new County Administrative Center and the remodel of the existing Courthouse as a Judicial Center.

1987-1992 DIRECTOR - ADMINISTRATION
Hondo Oil & Gas Company, Roswell, N.M.

Created fully functional department as part of a start-up management team under the Chairmanship of Robert O. Anderson, former Chairman and CEO of ARCO (Atlantic Richfield Company). Negotiated at Lloyd's for all property and casualty insurance policy terms and premium amounts for all operating groups (Refining, Producing, and Exploration) with a total asset base of $365 million. Directed and Managed all purchasing and material functions for upstream (Producing and Exploration & Development) operations including purchasing and logistics for a drilling program in the Magdalena Basin of Colombia, South America. Directed the development of internal accounting procedures for expenditure approval at all corporate levels, invoice handling and processing and other processes as part of the Chairman's Procedures Committee. Biography

Roxane J. Perruso

Roxane J. Perruso is Vice President and General Counsel of Power Company of Wyoming LLC and TransWest Express LLC, both wholly-owned affiliates of The Anschutz Corporation. She joined Anschutz in 2008 with 25 years of experience across a broad array of legal, land use, real estate and environmental issues.

A member of the Colorado Bar, Perruso previously served six years as an Assistant United States Attorney in the United States Attorney's Office for the District of Colorado, most recently in the criminal division as a federal prosecutor in cases involving firearms, drugs, immigration and crimes against children. She also served in the civil division representing the United States in civil cases involving federal land use and environmental issues as well as torts and employment discrimination.

In 1986, Perruso co-founded Harder & Perruso Inc., a real estate appraisal firm she owned and operated for nine years. The Colorado Springs-based firm performed appraisals for mortgage lending, litigation, relocation, estate valuation and related services. Perruso then attended the University of Colorado School of Law, earning a juris doctor in 1997, and subsequently became a senior associate at the law firm of Holme Roberts & Owen, LLP. For five years she represented clients at both the trial and appellate level in litigation involving commercial disputes, real estate and construction claims, insurance claims and employment discrimination.

In addition to her law degree, Perruso holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Northern Colorado. She is a member of the bar for the State of Colorado, the United States District Court for the District of Colorado, and the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit. Perruso has published several legal articles and earned awards including a Bureau of Land Management appreciation award in 2008; a Certificate of Commendation, Environment and Natural Resources Division, Department of Justice in 2006; a Director's Award for superior performance as an Assistant U.S. Attorney in 2005; and an award from the Office of General Counsel, USDA and the Forest Service in 2004. A lifelong resident of the West, Perruso was born in Arizona and lived in New Mexico, California and Nebraska before moving to Colorado, which has been home for over 30 years.

Ms. Kim Oliver
Department of the Interior
Office of Natural Resources Revenue
1849 C Street NW, MS 5134
Washington, D.C. 20240
Kimiko.oliver@onrr.gov

RE: Royalty Policy Committee Establishment; Request for Nominations

Dear Ms. Oliver:

We understand the Department of the Interior is establishing and seeking nominations for members on its new Royalty Policy Committee, as noticed in the Federal Register on Monday, April 3, 2017.

The notice explains that the Committee's purpose is to advise the Secretary on issues "related to the determination of fair market value, and the collection of revenue from energy and mineral sources on federal land," and to advise on "potential impacts of proposed policies and regulations related to revenue collection from such development." It also says that up to six of the up to 28 Committee members will be selected to represent "various mineral and/or energy stakeholders."

The Anschutz Corporation respectfully requests you consider Roxane J. Perruso for membership on this Committee. As outlined in the attached resume, Ms. Perruso is Vice President and Associate General Counsel for The Anschutz Corporation, a privately held company that is a significant mineral and energy stakeholder. The company has paid and anticipates will continue to pay hundreds of millions of dollars in federal energy and mineral royalties and fees to the U.S. Government.

- Through our affiliate Anschutz Exploration Corporation, we have and continue to lease federal lands for oil and gas development across the Western U.S. For example, we have significant exploration and development operations in the Powder River Basin in Wyoming.
- Through our renewable energy affiliate Power Company of Wyoming LLC, we have one of the very few wind energy projects moving forward on land managed by the Bureau of Land Management: the 1,000-turbine Chokecherry and Sierra Madre Wind Energy Project, located on checkerboard private and BLM land in Carbon County, Wyoming. (According to the American Wind Energy Association, less than 2% of all U.S. wind energy capacity is installed on federal land.)
- Finally, our transmission affiliate TransWest Express LLC anticipates receiving a right-of-way grant from the BLM for the 730-mile TransWest Express Transmission Project, about two-thirds of which is located on federal land.

All of these energy projects will be paying substantial federal royalties and fees related to their use of federal lands.

Ms. Perruso can provide the Committee with years of on-the-ground legal and business experience from working on various federal land use, natural resource and energy development matters throughout her career. She has spent nearly a decade just working to secure the necessary federal authorizations received to date from the BLM, U.S. Forest Service, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and other federal agencies for our proposed wind farm and 730-mile HVDC transmission line.

In addition, she is uniquely positioned to be able to provide real data and project-specific insights about the significant economic impacts – and disincentives – that the new renewable energy competitive leasing rule issued by the BLM in November 2016 will have on federally sited wind projects, like ours. After conducting extensive legal and financial analysis of the competitive leasing rule, Ms. Perruso provided lengthy written comments for the BLM’s consideration in 2014 and provided information in a “listening session” with the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs. Her participation in the development of projects on federal land and in recent rulemaking processes will help inform the Committee’s advisory work.

As the Senior Vice President of Energy and Land Resources for The Anschutz Corporation, I believe Ms. Perruso is ideally suited to provide balanced and accurate business and legal perspectives to further the purpose of the new federal Royalty Policy Committee. We sincerely appreciate your work to assure all stakeholders have a voice in the policymaking process.

Sincerely,

William J. Miller
Senior Vice President
Energy and Land Resources

Re: Royalty Policy Committee

Dear Ms. Oliver:

I write in response to the Notice on the establishment of the Royalty Policy Committee. As the President of the Navajo Nation, I deal with all energy issues that impact the Navajo Nation. This includes federal regulations, statutes and policies. I look forward to building upon this experience and background to best represent the Navajo people and advocate for energy development.

Please consider this request to appoint myself, President Russell Begaye, to the Committee and Bidtah Becker, Executive Director, Navajo Division of Natural Resources as the alternate representative for the Navajo region.

Thank you for your efforts to address energy issues that impact tribes including the Navajo Nation. For further information, please contact Navajo Nation Washington Office, Mr. Jackson Brossy, Executive Director at (202) 682-7390, or by email at jbrossy@nnwo.org.

Sincerely,

BIOGRAPHY

Scott A. Angelle

Director

Scott A. Angelle is Director, Bureau of Safety and Environmental Enforcement (BSEE), Department of the Interior. He is responsible for promoting safety, protecting the environment and conserving resources through the regulatory oversight and enforcement of energy industry operations on the U.S. Outer Continental Shelf. He joined the bureau on May 24, 2017, following more than 30 years of reforming agencies and organizations in both the public and private sectors. His career is characterized by a strong desire to achieve results that lead to greater success for the organizations he leads.

Most recently, he served as Commissioner, District II, Louisiana Public Service Commission, an elected position he held from 2013 – 2017. As a member of the PSC, he was responsible for serving the public interest by assuring safe, reliable and reasonably-priced services for public utilities and motor carriers. He also served as a member of the Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors and a member of the board at Sunoco Logistics Partners L.P.

Angelle began his work in public service in 1988 when he was elected to the St. Martin Parish Police Jury; the youngest person ever selected for the position at age 25. He was elected President of the parish body five years later; also the youngest to hold the position. During this same time he worked as a Petroleum Landman for Angelle and Donohue and Vice President for the Huval Companies with responsibilities for insurance risk management solutions in the energy, government and transportation sectors.

In 2004 he was appointed Secretary, Louisiana Department of Natural Resources, a position he held until 2012 under both the Kathleen Blanco and Bobby Jindal gubernatorial administrations. In May of 2010, he was appointed as Interim Lieutenant Governor of Louisiana during the height of the worst oil spill in U.S. history. On behalf of the state, he successfully achieved an early end to the offshore drilling moratorium imposed by the federal government. In November 2010, he returned to the position of Secretary for Natural Resources until resigning to run for Public Service Commissioner.

Angelle is a native of Breaux Bridge, Louisiana, and a graduate of Breaux Bridge Senior High School. He is a cum laude graduate of the University of Louisiana at Lafayette with a Bachelor of Science degree in Petroleum Land Management. He and his wife Dianne are the proud parents of five children and four grandchildren.

Royalty Policy Committee Nomination, Docket No. ONRR-2012-0003
62 Fed. Reg. 16222 (April 3, 2017)
Submitted electronically to Kimiko.oliver@onrr.gov.

Dear Ms. Oliver:

BP America supports the Department of Interior proposal to re-establish the Royalty Policy Committee under the Federal Advisory Committee Act. We endorse the stated purpose of providing “advice to the Secretary on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues derived from, the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands.” On behalf of BP America, I hereby nominate Triscilla Taylor to serve as one of the six members representing mineral and/or energy stakeholders.

BP America is a significant stakeholder with respect to royalty policy on Federal and Indian lands. We have a large on-shore oil and gas business that operates approximately 10,000 wells that produce approximately 280,000 barrels of oil equivalent per day (BOE/D), with approximately 40% of our operations on Federal or Indian lands. In addition, we are one of the largest leaseholders in the Gulf of Mexico. We operate 4 massive platforms that produce over 300,000 BOE/D. Thus, we have a significant stake in federal royalty policy.

Our nominee, Triscilla Taylor, spent her early career working in DOI’s Office of the Solicitor representing DOI on royalty matters. Since coming to BP, she has continued to work on both onshore and offshore royalty issues, as well as commercial and tax issues. We believe her experience with DOI and in industry make her an ideal candidate for the Royalty Policy Committee. I attach a copy of her resume for convenience.

As an alternate, we nominate Williamson Turner. Williamson is the Team Leader for Production and Royalty Compliance for BP’s Gulf of Mexico business and works closely with Triscilla. Williamson’s resume is also attached.

If you have any questions, please contact Jim Nolan at (312) 307-4549 or at james.nolan@bp.com.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kim Oliver
Department of the Interior
Office of Natural Resources Revenue
1849 C St NW
MS 5134
Washington, D.C. 20240

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I write today to recommend Dr. Van Romero for appointment as a non-Federal member of the Royalty Policy Committee (Committee). This Committee will provide advice to the Secretary on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues derived from the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands.

According to the U.S. Department of the Interior's Office of Natural Resources Revenue (ONRR), in Fiscal Year 2016 New Mexico paid roughly $766 million in royalties, rents, bonuses, and other revenues to the federal government, which is the second most out of any state. For that reason, I believe that New Mexico deserves significant representation on the Committee.

The Secretary is permitted to appoint up to four non-Federal members "representing academia and public interest groups." Dr. Romero is currently the Vice President for Research and Economic Development, Professor of Physics, and serves as the Chief Operating Officer of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology (New Mexico Tech). Dr. Romero has done extensive work in energy related fields and has experience with Federal mineral royalties. Attached is a resume outlining his qualifications.

I believe that Dr. Romero's knowledge in these fields will be especially useful on this Committee and I highly recommend his appointment.

Sincerely,

Steve Pearce
Member of Congress

Resume
Van D. Romero

Dr. Romero is currently the Vice President for Research and Economic Development, Professor of Physics and serves as the Chief Operating Officer of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology (New Mexico Tech). Dr. Romero is widely known for his work in energy related fields. Activity in this area include development of section 999 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 which used revenue from oil and gas royalties for research in shale development. Other contributions include work in Produced Water, Carbon Sequestration, instrumentation development for oil and gas production as well as improved capabilities for coal bed methane production. Prior to joining New Mexico Tech, Dr. Romero worked at four DOE laboratories and spent 15 years working in the Naval Reactors program. While working for Naval Reactors, Dr. Romero was responsible for radiation transport calculations and radiation measurements in and around reactor compartments. After leaving the Naval Reactors program, he joined the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) where he was responsible for the SSC's Environmental, Safety and Health (ES&H) program. Just recently Dr. Romero led an an independent review of the 2014 WIPP incident.

Mr. Vincent DeVito serves as Counselor to the Secretary for Energy Policy in order to strengthen and better coordinate the Department of Interior's vast energy portfolio. The Department of Interior's energy portfolio includes oil, gas, coal, hydroelectric, wind, solar, geothermal, and biomass. Mr. DeVito was appointed by Secretarial Order to advance the Trump Administration's goal of American energy independence.

The Department recognizes that the development of energy resources on public lands will increase domestic energy production, provide alternatives to overseas energy resources, create jobs, and enhance the energy security of the United States.

Mr. DeVito previously held several senior leadership roles at the U.S. Department of Energy and within state energy offices. Most recently, Mr. DeVito was a Capital Partner at the law firm of Bowditch & Dewey, LLP in Boston with a corporate, regulatory, and, government affairs practice. Mr. DeVito is a licensed member of the District of Columbia, Massachusetts, New York, and U.S. Supreme Court Bars.

Operating Status

Walter Cruickshank, Ph.D., Acting Director

As Deputy Director, and currently Acting Director of BOEM, Dr. Cruickshank oversees the administration of programs that manage the development of the Nation's offshore resources in an environmentally and economically responsible way. These programs include leasing, plan administration, environmental studies, National Environmental Policy Act analysis, resource evaluation, economic analysis and the Renewable Energy Program.

Prior to becoming the Deputy Director of BOEM upon its establishment in October 2011, Dr. Cruickshank served as Deputy Director of the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation and Enforcement (BOEMRE) and the former MMS since 2002.

Dr. Cruickshank has worked in the Department of the Interior for more than 30 years. He earned a Bachelor of Arts in Geological Sciences from Cornell University and a Doctorate in Mineral Economics from the Pennsylvania State University.

Mr. Gould:

Attached please find the letter I sent Secretary Zinke asking to be considered for membership on the Royalty Policy Committee, as well as copies of comments we submitted on the consolidated valuation rule in 2015 and the BLM wind and solar leasing rule in 2014. Throughout our history, Taxpayers for Common Sense has worked to ensure taxpayers receive fair compensation for the natural resources we all own. TCS is the only budget watchdog with a more than 20 year history working on natural resources revenue. We would bring a strong voice for taxpayers to the committee.

I would be happy to discuss our work and interest in the committee further, or to answer any questions you might have.

Sincerely,

Attached please find the letter I sent Secretary Zinke asking to be considered for membership on the Royalty Policy Committee, as well as copies of comments we submitted on the consolidated valuation rule in 2015 and the BLM wind and solar leasing rule in 2014. Throughout our history, Taxpayers for Common Sense has worked to ensure taxpayers receive fair compensation for the natural resources we all own. TCS is the only budget watchdog with a more than 20 year history working on natural resources revenue. We would bring a strong voice for taxpayers to the committee.

I would be happy to discuss our work and interest in the committee further, or to answer any questions you might have.

Bidtah,

President Begaye nominated you for a DOI royalty policy committee. They need the information below today. Can you either send the information below directly to Kim Oliver below, or to me and I'll make sure she receives it? This morning would be ideal if possible.

Thanks,

Jackson

Hello and good morning:

I am reaching out to you all because I received the nominations for Mr. Begaye and Ms. Bidtah Becker to serve on the Royalty Policy Committee. However I still need the following information for Ms. Becker so she can be vetted by the White House. Is this something you can help me with? I don't have an email address for her to contact her directly. I really need this info ASAP because we are sending our list of nominees over to the White House tomorrow. Anything you can do to help would be greatly appreciated.

FYI. We need to remove Mitsch Bush (State of Colorado) from the binders. She won't be included in the RPC selection. I will send an updated roster.

Thanks,

Heads up. We will be tasked with preparing a response for Secretary Zinke's signature. This is a letter to the Secretary from a Governor. Jennifer (team), please start drafting the response. It will be a simple thank you for your interest in the RPC and providing a WY nominee for the very important work of the Committee etc... The assignment will come through DTS.

Hi Jennifer:

We send out thank you letters from the Secretary after the Committee has been selected.

For instance we say thank you for the nomination and inform them if their nominee has been selected to serve as either a primary or an alternate. See the attached draft thank you letter and feel free to provide comments on it.

Thanks,
Kim

Hi John,

I hope everything is going well for you and the rest of CEVA. In DC, we are working on compiling all of the information we need to get the RPC going. Greg has told us that you may be ONRR's representative on the RPC, so we need to get your information to send to the White House for vetting. Please send this info to Kim Oliver (cc'd):

- *Bio or Resume
- *Full Legal Name (Including Middle Name)
- *Home Address
- *Home Telephone Number or Cell if no land line
- *Work Address
- *Work Telephone Number
- *Email address
- *DOB

You could also call her at 202-513-0370 if you prefer to do that.

Let Kim or me know if you have any questions, and thanks for your help! I'm excited to work with you on the RPC.

I am reaching out to you because you were nominated to serve on the US Department of the Interior's Royalty Policy Committee.

As part of the selection criteria you must be vetted by the White House. The White House requires the following information. Please provide it to me at your earliest convenience.

- *Bio or Resume
- *Full Legal Name (Including Middle Name)
- *Home Address
- *Home Telephone Number or Cell if no land line
- *Work Address
- *Work Telephone Number
- *Email address
- *DOB

Thank you,
Kim

Hello Kim,

My apologies. Ben sent this to me a couple of weeks ago, but I've been buried in our interim-committee start-ups for this year. Attached is an updated resume, and here is the rest of the info:

Full legal name: Mark Hunter Edwards
Home Address: Non-Responsive
Home Phone: Non-Responsive
Work Address: Legislative Council Service
411 State Capitol
Santa Fe, NM 87501
Work Phone: (505) 986-4617
e-mail: mark.edwards@nmlegis.gov
DOB: Non-Responsive

Question, my understanding was this was more of an ad-hoc advisory panel that is being put together by Interior. If the White House is vetting membership, will the committee be working with OMB or White House staff as well?

Thanks, Mark

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I would like to put my name in consideration as a member of the DOI Royalty Policy Committee. I am a former DOI employee having served as a Special Assistant to the Assistant Secretary for Land and Minerals Management and Senior Advisor to the Director of the Bureau of Land Management. I currently consult for oil and gas companies and conservation NGO's. I'm the fourth generation member of my family to be involved in the oil and gas business and am very familiar with royalty policy as well as practical experience having previously worked as a petroleum landman. I am also currently a member of the National Petroleum Council, a federal advisory committee for the Secretary of Energy.

I am attaching my bio that has more information concerning my professional background. Please do not hesitate to contact me for any additional information that you might need.

Thank you,

John Northington

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I would like to put my name in consideration as a member of the DOI Royalty Policy Committee. I am a former DOI employee having served as a Special Assistant to the Assistant Secretary for Land and Minerals Management and Senior Advisor to the Director of the Bureau of Land Management. I currently consult for oil and gas companies and conservation NGO's. I'm the fourth generation member of my family to be involved in the oil and gas business and am very familiar with royalty policy as well as practical experience having previously worked as a petroleum landman. I am also currently a member of the National Petroleum Council, a federal advisory committee for the Secretary of Energy.

I am attaching my bio that has more information concerning my professional background. Please do not hesitate to contact me for any additional information that you might need.

Dear Ms. Oliver,
I had previously submitted my resume to be considered on the BLM's royalty policy committee. I've since changed employers and would like to withdraw my previous resume and replace it with the attached. Please let me know if you can accommodate this request. Thank you very much.

Kim,

I saw the Federal Register notice and I am interested in serving on the Royalty Policy Committee. You should have a copy on my bio on the USEITI website.

I will be leaving Freeport-McMoRan Oil & Gas in June 2017 but plan to work as a consultant on regulatory reporting issues.

My email address after June 30th will be Non-Responsive and my cell phone is Non-Responsive.

Please let me know if you need any additional information regarding the Committee and the vetting process.

Look forward to working with you again.

Thanks,

Kim,

Per my telephone message, in our meeting with Director Gould and Yvette Smith this morning regarding the Royalty Policy Committee, it was suggested that we contact you for any additional information, including a general template for a nomination letter. I believe Crow Tribal Chairman Not Afraid will be wanted to nominate a member of the Crow Tribe to serve on the Committee, and we hope to have a letter to you by next Friday, June 2.

Any information you can provide would be most helpful. Thanks,

Bill

Good evening,

Doug Burgum, governor of North Dakota, would like to nominate to the Royalty Policy Committee lieutenant governor Brent Sanford, with Lynn Helms as an alternate.

Brent Sanford, both as lieutenant governor and former mayor of the city most impacted by oil development in the state, is uniquely positioned to provide both state policy and local experience perspectives. He is widely considered an expert in energy policy across the state. Lynn Helms is the Director of the Department of Mineral Resources, possessing a wealth of information and leadership on the safe development of North Dakota's resources. If there is any additional information I can provide, please let me know. Thank you.

Brent Sanford was elected North Dakota's 38th lieutenant governor on November 8, 2016, and took office on December 15, 2016.

A Watford City native and third-generation business owner, Sanford served as mayor of his hometown from 2010 to 2016 and as a city councilman for four years before that.

Sanford brings a strong background in business and finance to the lieutenant governor's office, coupled with a deep understanding of the importance of local control and the need to keep property taxes low.

Under his leadership as mayor, Watford City experienced a period of rapid expansion that saw its population skyrocket from about 1,500 to 7,000 amid the state's oil boom. Major investments were made in community infrastructure, including a new high school, events center, airport terminal, hospital and law enforcement center, all while limiting property tax increases to 3 or 4 percent.

Sanford earned a degree in accounting from the University of North Dakota in 1994 and is a certified public accountant. He worked at Eide Bailly in Fargo for eight years before being hired as chief financial officer for Transwest Trucks, a multi-location truck dealership, financing and manufacturing operation with more than 400 employees headquartered in Brighton, Colorado.

In November 2004, Sanford became owner and president of S & S Motors in Watford City, an auto dealership founded by his grandfather in 1946. He steered the stagnant former Ford dealership to 10 consecutive years of sales increases and created a unique custom vehicle procurement service in an isolated western North Dakota community.

As a board member with the McKenzie County Job Development Authority, Sanford helped the region manage the economic swings of the Bakken oil play. He also is a founding board member of a community-owned nonprofit that established a 62-unit affordable housing complex for essential service workers and a 190-child daycare facility to help meet the area's workforce and childcare needs.

As lieutenant governor, Sanford serves as president of the state Senate, leads the North Dakota Trade Office and chairs the State Investment Board, the Capitol Grounds Planning Commission, the Higher Education Challenge Fund Commission, the Early Childhood Education Council and the Northern Plains Unmanned Aircraft Systems Authority.

Sanford and his wife, Sandi, have three children, Sydney, Nicolas and Erin.

Hi Kim and Chris,

Please see Judy's note below. I'm thinking we can split up the people next week and go visit their offices. I will print some copies of Judy's email to take along with us. Please let me know if you want certain people. Otherwise I will just split them up randomly so we each have two people. Here is the list we have:

Michael Black
Weldon Loudermilk
Richard Cardinale
Walter Cruickshank
Kate McGregor
Daniel Jorjani

Are we missing anyone else Kim?

Mike Nedd is the only one to follow-up and provide the requested information. It is time for you all to go to each remaining office and hand deliver the e-mail and request the information. The other two you need to reach out to are Kate McGregor and Dan Jordani.

Hi Kim,

I took a look at my bio on the BOEM webpage, and updated it a bit. Hopefully this is sufficient, but if you need anything more, please don't hesitate to let me know.

Strategic Resources Chief - Renee Orr

Renee Orr has served for over 28 years in various roles within BOEM, BOEMRE and MMS, and has been a senior executive on the leadership team since the inception of BOEM in 2011. In her current position as the Chief of the Office of Strategic Resources, she oversees development and implementation of the nation's Outer Continental Shelf Oil and Natural Gas Leasing Program, assessment and inventory of oil, gas, and other mineral resources, maintenance of official maps and geographic data, economic evaluations to ensure the receipt of fair market value for OCS resources, identification and mitigation of financial risks associated with offshore lease activities, and the conveyance of marine minerals for coastal restoration projects. Ms. Orr earned B.A. degrees in Economics and History from Metropolitan State College in Denver, CO and completed the DOI SES Candidate Development Program in 2001.

Thanks!

Ms. Oliver,

I'd like to nominate Dr. Kwame Awuah-Offei for the DOI Royalty Policy Committee. I learned of the request for nominations today. I see that the deadline for nominations was May 3rd. Is it too late to send in nomination information? Please advise. Thanks.

RE: Royalty Policy Committee Nomination

Attention Ms. Kim Oliver

I am self-nominating myself to serve as a committee member as part of the Royalty Policy Committee.

I feel with the experience I have within the petroleum industry, with royalty and production reporting and my involvement as an MSG member on the USEITI Advisory Committee, my participation would advance the initiative of this committee. I have attached a copy of my resume detailing my relevant work experience. The following summarizes my qualifications to serve on the committee:

- Experienced with the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative and have participated in the USEITI MSG Advisory Committee.
- Understands the impact of policy and governance for royalty reporting and the need for transparency of revenue disclosures to the public. I also fully understand the need for fostering the awareness of public resources on Federal and Tribal lands managed by the government.
- Currently actively engaged with federal agencies where payments and reporting are submitted. Familiar with valuation and proposed policy and regulations changes related to revenues. Directly and indirectly responsible for managing the related processes and overseeing compliance. I have over 30 years of experience with production and exploration companies with activities in the United States, Gulf of Mexico, and offshore and international areas of operations.

Please forward my nomination for considerations. Should there be any question additional information needed, please contact me at your convenience.

Kim,

I realize the deadline for submitting the Nominations has passed, but I went ahead and forwarded in a separate email my self-nomination. Hopefully it can go in with the others if there are openings to be filled.

Can you let me know if you can go ahead and include or if it goes into the late pile?

Thanks,

Dear Ms. Oliver,

Please consider me for service on the Royalty Policy Committee as an academic/public interest member. I have an extensive background in public land law, including federal mineral policy. I also have extensive experience working off the Interior Department. I served as a land law examiner in the Utah State Office of the BLM, as an attorney–advisor in the Interior Department’s Office of the Solicitor, and as a Special Assistant to the Solicitor during the calendar year 2000.

I have attached my current resume. Please advise me if you have questions or need additional information.

Dear Ms. Oliver:

I'm pleased to nominate Jayni Foley Hein, the Policy Director at NYU Law School's Institute for Policy Integrity and an Adjunct Professor of Law at NYU Law School, to be a member of the Royalty Policy Committee. Her CV is attached.

Professor Hein is an expert in federal fossil fuel leasing and natural resources. She has authored numerous reports and academic articles on federal coal, oil, and natural gas leasing. Her recent reports and articles include: Coal Royalties: Historical Uses and Justifications; Illuminating the Hidden Costs of Coal (which analyzed possible externality cost "adders" to federal coal royalty rates); Priorities for Federal Coal Reform; Reconsidering Coal's Fair Market Value; Harmonizing Preservation and Production: How Modernizing the Department of the Interior's Fiscal Terms for Oil, Gas, and Coal Leases Can Ensure a Fair Return to the American Public; and Capturing Value: Science and Strategies to Curb Methane Emissions from the Oil and Natural Gas Sector. She has forthcoming academic articles on federal fossil fuel leasing in the Harvard Environmental Law Review and Duke Environmental Law & Policy Forum. She frequently presents her research on fossil fuel royalties and recommendations for reform to policymakers and diverse stakeholders. She was the lead organizer for a high-level stakeholder workshop on federal coal reform priorities in Washington, D.C. in June 2016. She has presented her research on federal fossil fuel leasing before the U.S. House of Representatives, Committee on Natural Resources; the Proceedings on Oil and Gas Law at the Institute for Energy Law in Houston Texas; and at the annual conference of the Society for Benefit-Cost Analysis. She also co-authored a major report on hydraulic fracturing in California, which helped lead to the passage of comprehensive legislation governing the practice in the State. She holds a J.D. from the University of California, Berkeley School of Law, and a B.A. from the University of Virginia.

Given her enormous ability, extensive expertise, and extensive track record of first-rate work, Professor Hein would be a wonderfully compelling member of the committee. Please let me know whether any additional information would be helpful.

She frequently presents her research on fossil fuel royalties and recommendations for reform to policymakers and diverse stakeholders. She was the lead organizer for a high-level stakeholder workshop on federal coal reform priorities in Washington, D.C. in June 2016. She has presented her research on federal fossil fuel leasing before the U.S. House of Representatives, Committee on Natural Resources; the Proceedings on Oil and Gas Law at the Institute for Energy Law in Houston Texas; and at the annual conference of the Society for Benefit-Cost Analysis. She also co-authored a major report on hydraulic fracturing in California, which helped lead to the passage of comprehensive legislation governing the practice in the State. She holds a J.D. from the University of California, Berkeley School of Law, and a B.A. from the University of Virginia.

Given her enormous ability, extensive expertise, and extensive track record of first-rate work, Professor Hein would be a wonderfully compelling member of the committee. Please let me know whether any additional information would be helpful.

Dear Ms. Oliver,

I would like to be considered by the Department to serve on the Royalty Policy Committee, to provide advice to the Secretary on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues derived from, the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands. My resume is attached. I have worked as both a BLM contractor and a private project developer for energy infrastructure projects, particularly renewable energy projects, for over ten years. Over the last three years I have been involved in researching, documenting, commenting on, and advising the BLM on its land use, rents, and bonds policies for utility-scale solar energy projects. I would be honored to be considered for this FAC.

I would be obliged if you would acknowledge timely receipt of this nomination. Thanks very much.

Hi Kim: I am chief legal counsel at Montana's Department of Natural Resource and Conservation. We'd be interested in forwarding you some nominations but wanted a little more detail re the type of person the Secretary seeks – is it better to forward a person's name of someone who is more revenue/numbers oriented or someone who is more a high level policy person?

Any guidance you can provide would be appreciated. Thanks!

SUMMARY: The U.S. Department of the Interior (DOI) is establishing and seeking nominations for the Royalty Policy Committee (Committee). The Committee will provide advice to the Secretary on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues derived from, the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands.

Secretary will appoint members in the following categories:

- Up to six members representing the Governors of States that receive more than $10,000,000 annually in royalty revenues from onshore and offshore Federal leases.
- Up to four members representing the Indian Tribes that are engaged in activities subject to: The Act of May 11, 1938 (commonly known as the "Indian Mineral Leasing Act of 1938") (25 U.S.C. 396a et seq.); Title XXVI of the Energy Policy Act of 1992 (25 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.); The Indian Mineral Development Act of 1982 (25 U.S.C. 2101 et seq.); and any other law relating to mineral development that is specific to one or more Indian Tribes.
- Up to six members representing various mineral and/or energy stakeholders in Federal and Indian royalty policy.
- Up to four members representing academia and public interest groups.

Nominations should include a resume providing an adequate description of the nominee's qualifications, including information that would enable DOI to make an informed decision regarding meeting the membership requirements of the Committee and to permit DOI to contact a potential member.

To confirm, we may want them to nominate both a policy type and a technical expert type. Maybe as member and alternate. We still don't know if the Secretary has a preference or what he may prefer. This is his home state after all.

Ok I will respond accordingly. And also we have yet to send out the letter to Governors. Their Governor may have someone else in mind as well.

To confirm, we may want them to nominate both a policy type and a technical expert type. Maybe as member and alternate. We still don't know if the Secretary has a preference or what he may prefer. This is his home state after all.

Hi Kim: I am chief legal counsel at Montana's Department of Natural Resource and Conservation. We'd be interested in forwarding you some nominations but wanted a little more detail re the type of person the Secretary seeks – is it better to forward a person's name of someone who is more revenue/numbers oriented or someone who is more a high level policy person?

Any guidance you can provide would be appreciated. Thanks!

We should get someone from MT appointed to this:

<https://www.indianz.com/News/2017/03/31/2017-06542.pdf>

SUMMARY: The U.S. Department of the Interior (DOI) is establishing and seeking nominations for the Royalty Policy Committee (Committee). The Committee will provide advice to the Secretary on the fair market value of, and the collection of revenues derived from, the development of energy and mineral resources on Federal and Indian lands.

Secretary will appoint members in the following categories:

- Up to six members representing the Governors of States that receive more than $10,000,000 annually in royalty revenues from onshore and offshore Federal leases.

- Up to four members representing the Indian Tribes that are engaged in activities subject to: The Act of May 11, 1938 (commonly known as the “Indian Mineral Leasing Act of 1938”) (25 U.S.C. 396a et seq.); Title XXVI of the Energy Policy Act of 1992 (25 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.); The Indian Mineral Development Act of 1982 (25 U.S.C. 2101 et seq.); and any other law relating to mineral development that is specific to one or more Indian Tribes.
- Up to six members representing various mineral and/or energy stakeholders in Federal and Indian royalty policy.
- Up to four members representing academia and public interest groups.

Nominations should include a resume providing an adequate description of the nominee’s qualifications, including information that would enable DOI to make an informed decision regarding meeting the membership requirements of the Committee and to permit DOI to contact a potential member.

Dear Ms. Oliver:

I am an Osage Tribe Headright Owner with 37 year's experience in Natural Gas Marketing. The last 12 years of my career was in managing the Natural Gas Marketing Department for Continental Resources in Enid and Oklahoma City, OK when it grew from a tens of millions of dollar's private company to a several billion dollar public corporation more than quadrupling in size. I connected thousands of gas producing wells and negotiated long term contracts worth billions of dollars for the sale of natural gas and the entrained liquid hydrocarbons. In the last 8 years, I have also been advising the Osage Minerals Council and various producers about the Natural Gas Market in Osage

Co., OK which is the Osage Mineral Estate.

I tell you all this because I know the importance of the technical aspects of the total value of a gas stream, how it gets to market and the expenses involved. It is imperative that the Royalty Policy Committee have highly skilled Natural Gas expertise with many years of experience in Marketing, negotiating contracts for infrastructure and the sale of natural gas and liquid hydrocarbons, gathering, transportation and processing. Getting true market value for natural gas needs skilled, knowledgeable expertise that not just anyone can offer. As a recipient of Osage Mineral Estate Royalty payments I know first-hand the importance of getting this right. The Osage Headright Owner gets pennies on the Market Value dollar and we hope to change this but it will take a massive effort to identify what we have, what is not connected, engineering and feasibility studies of building adequate infrastructure. All systems we currently have are antiquated, manual and very non-user friendly. We know what we have to do and have taken a few steps to move forward modernizing our systems. Unfortunately, the ONRR system is also antiquated and any effort to move to this system will be futile in the end.

This is a request that you consider putting industry experts on this committee.

Thank you for your interest.
