As millions of people flee Hurricane Floyd, many climate activists have again suggested – despite the facts – that hurricanes and global warming are connected.

A number of hurricane experts reject this assumption and have done studies to prove it. Following is information on one of those studies.

The web site for Florida State University's Center for Oceanic-Atmospheric Prediction Studies is www.coaps.fsu.edu. For information, please feel free to contact me, (202) 628-3622.
