FOREWORD

Chief Executive Women (CEW) presents the results of our third ASX200 Senior Executive Census (the Census).

The Census measures annual progress of ASX200 companies in improving the representation of women in their executive leadership teams.

Alongside the aggregate measurements of the ASX200 leadership teams, the Census focuses on the representation of women in 'line' and 'function' roles within executive leadership teams. Line roles are those that directly drive key commercial outcomes of a company and generally include accountability for profit and loss. Line roles are predominately a pathway to CEO. Approximately 90% of CEO appointments this year were from line roles.

In contrast, functional roles govern specific operations of an organisation such as finance, legal, compliance, marketing or human resources. Of these, the role of CFO, frequently one of the most senior and influential roles in the executive leadership team, can directly progress to a CEO role. In 2019, the overall number of women occupying CFO roles is 16%, up from 12% in 2018 and 9% in 2017.

CEW recognises other improvements in 2019. The number of companies with no women in their executive leadership team has fallen from 23 to 17, and the number of companies with one or more women in their executive leadership team has increased from 89% to 92%.

Women represent 25% of total executive leadership positions, an increase from 23% in 2018. However, 75% of these roles are functional roles, and women remain underrepresented in line roles, at a mere 13%. And as in past years, more than half of the ASX200 still have no women in line roles on their executive leadership team.

Regrettably, the number of companies with a female CEO fell from 14 to 12 (or just 6%), meaning that 94% of all CEOs of ASX200 companies are male.

The Census defines gender balance on executive leadership teams as being 40% of each gender and 20% of either gender (expressed as 40:40:20). The 2019 Senior Executive Census shows that just 24 ASX200 companies (or 12%) achieved gender balance in their executive leadership teams.

Measuring performance is important. The 2019 ASX200 Senior Executive Census provides visibility of the representation of women in leadership roles in Australia's largest listed organisations. While some progress has been positive, there is still a way to go in reaching our goal of equal representation.

The ASX200 Senior Executive Census

tracks the gender balance of executive leadership teams (ELTs) in Australia's top public companies. It shows if, and to what extent, women are progressing to the most senior ranks in corporate Australia.

Since the last Census, there has been an overall positive but mixed outcome in the proportion of women in ASX200 ELTs. These are the key findings for 2019:

-  The proportion of women in CFO roles has risen to 16%, up from 12% in 2018.
-  The number of women CEOs in the ASX200 has fallen from 14 (7%) in 2018 to 12 (6%) in 2019.
-  More than half of ASX200 companies (114) have no women in ELT line roles, compared to 119 in 2018.
-  There has been no rise in the number of women in line roles.
-  Most of the improvement is due to more women in functional roles.
 In ASX200 companies led by a female CEO, women make up 23% of ELT line roles. Where the CEO is male, the proportion is 14%.
-  4% of ASX200 companies have gender balance in line roles in 2019.

 Telecommunications (32%), consumer staples (15%) and real estate (15%) have more women in line roles compared to the ASX200 average (13%).
- ASX 20 The proportion of women in ELTs (including in line roles) is marginally higher in ASX20 than ASX200 companies on average.

Report methodology

Census data was collected in August 2019 from ASX200 websites and analysed by Bain & Company. Job titles were standardised with the assistance of Spencer Stuart. Where no information was available, Bain & Company used BoardEx®.

The Census defines the executive leadership team as:

- a. All direct reports into the CEO, as at 1 August 2019.
- b. All companies have been treated the same way for comparison year-on-year and between companies.
- c. Executive chairs are not included, unless there is no CEO or managing director.
- d. Executive directors and company secretaries are not included, except if explicitly listed as being part of the ELT.
- e. New CEOs are defined as those who were appointed between 2 August 2018 and 1 August 2019. Interim CEOs are not included.

The Census classifies all roles using the following principles:

- a. Line roles: defined as those that drive key commercial outcomes and usually with P&L responsibility, including CEO/MD, COO and group executives.
- b. Function roles: all other roles with no P&L responsibility, including strategy, finance, human resources, marketing, corporate affairs/investor relations, legal, IT, health & safety, research & development, manufacturing & supply chain, chief of staff, company secretaries and other (e.g. medical officers).
- c. Note: all roles that contain commercial, product, sales or customer in their title have been reviewed on a case-by-case basis, as advised by Spencer Stuart.
