From: [redacted] (MIL) <[redacted]@mil.wa.gov>
Sent: Friday, March 13, 2020 3:36 PM
To: seoc92 (MIL) <seoc92@mil.wa.gov>; seoc91 (MIL) <seoc91@mil.wa.gov>
Cc: [redacted] (MIL) <[redacted]@mil.wa.gov>
Subject: UW Order / JIC?

Ops,

As I mentioned between 1 and 2 weeks ago the University of Washington made an order from the Strategic National Stockpile via the Washington Department of Health. The "UW System" can't make SNS orders directly. So the shipment came, yesterday. This was the UW order, but the truck was stopped prior to departure to UW because the cargo was needed to fill higher priority needs. So this decision was made by the Area Command IC, and now the cargo is going to DSHS because it is a tier one activity.

There is some fog of war but its thought that someone at sitting in the SEOC- probably policy shop made the promise to UW that they could have this order. Its still not totally clear what happened, but this was a large order that UW was expecting. So in any case, I just asked for a quick briefing on the situation but it seems like this will be further investigated.

There is a worry that this information will get out. It seems likely, so the JIC needs to be made aware of this immediately and probably the seoc sup, disaster manager also. I don't think this has a lot to do with EMD but it seems like it might be directly linked to the SEOC.

[redacted]
Washington State Emergency Management Division
Washington Military Department
Mobile: [redacted]
[redacted]@mil.wa.gov | www.mil.wa.gov
Office hours: Tues-Fri 6:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.