Hi Bill.

A number of other reporters picked up on your story. As we were able to get some more information from our data people, I wanted to share it with you.

Possible exposures during protests haven't been specifically added to the database because we already ask about large gatherings. We were able to pull some limited data--out of 1,986 cases with onset/diagnosis on or after 4/26, there were 72 cases who reported attending a large gathering.

No it doesn't specifically state that the 72 were at a rally, but this is the data we have.

Hope this helps in some measure.

Jennifer
